

In Canada's Key Defense Posts

These three men have been named to key posts in Canada's defense... Left, Col. F. F. Worthington, head of Canada's first armored... Center, Capt. V. G. Brodeur, naval attaché... Right, Capt. Leonard W. Murray, deputy chief of staff of the Royal Canadian Navy...

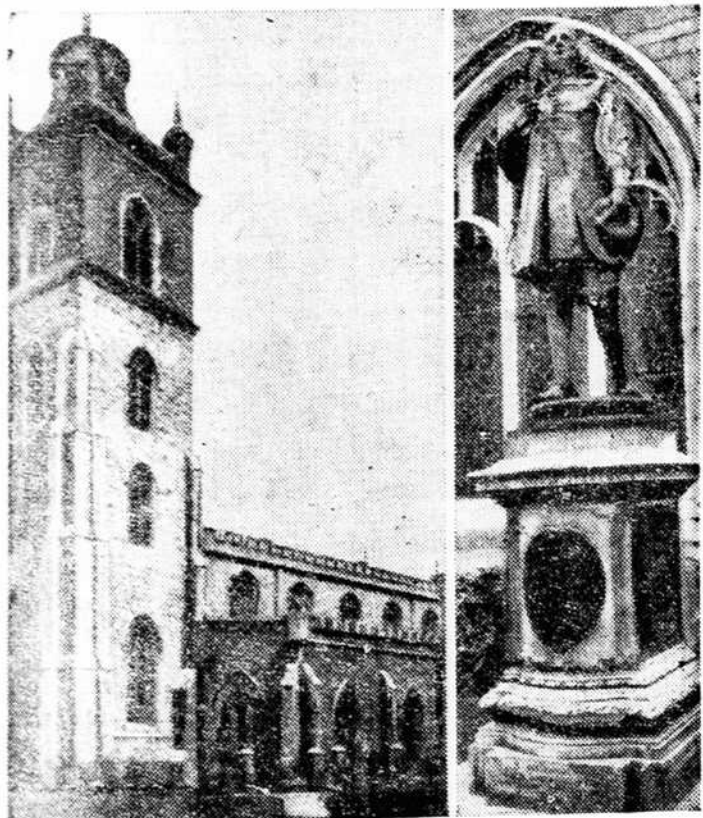

Calls Ex-Suitor a "Murderer"

C. P. Phonophoto

Monte Areloff comforts his sister, Sylvia, in a Mexico City hospital, where she is held as a material witness in the slaying of Leon Trotsky, former Russian leader. When the Brooklyn, N. Y., girl confronted Frank Jackson, her ex-sweetheart, who is charged with the assassination, she called him a murderer and an agent of the O.G.P.U.

Bombs Wreck Milton Shrine

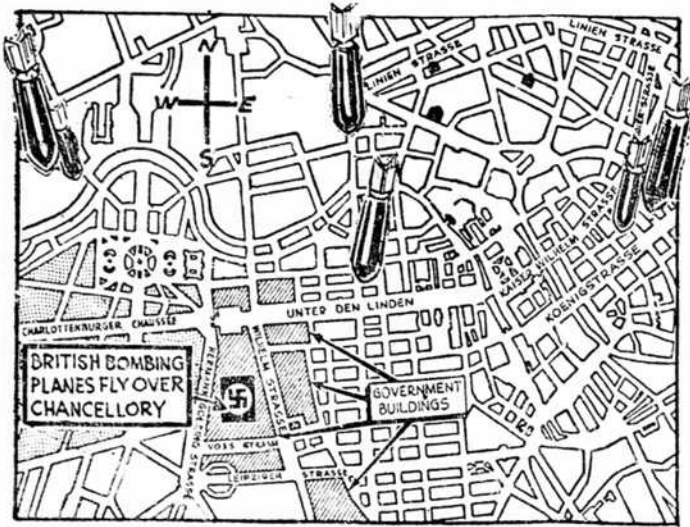

The little Church of St. Giles Cripplegate (left) in the heart of London, which weathered war, fire and flood since its construction in 1090, has been wrecked by a brace of bombs let loose by a lone Nazi bomber... The statue (right) over the grave of John Milton, famous poet, was toppled by one of the bombs.

Journeying to Java

Johnnes (left) and Francisus de Baat Doelman, 7-year-old Dutch boys, sit and dolefully think of the long journey still ahead of them as they arrive aboard the Exeter at Jersey City, N. J., enroute to Java in the Dutch East Indies.

How Bombs Fell on Berlin

Top map shows central Berlin and location of principal government buildings. Bombs indicate where heaviest firing was heard during British airmen's first real raid, made in retaliation for bombing of London. Lower map shows that mutual bombing of the two capitals is not mutually easy. Calais, nearest held Nazi airport, is only 95 miles from London, but RAF pilots must fly 560 airline miles to reach Berlin, a total of 1,120 miles round trip.

Fighting Bomb Fires in London

C. P. Cablephoto

Firemen play their hoses on the smoldering wreckage of a building in London after a German bombing raid which caused widespread damage to the British capital. Photo was flashed by cable to New York.

Flames Light Up London Sky

C. P. Cablephoto

An air warden stands silhouetted against the flames that roared into London's skies as Nazi airmen's incendiary bombs started fires in many sections of the British capital. The R.A.F. raided Berlin in retaliation. Photo was flashed by cable to New York.

In Canadian Post Abandoned in Bag

Capt. Oliver M. Read

In line with the new joint United States-Canadian defense agreement, Captain Oliver M. Read, of the United States Navy, has been ordered to duty as naval and air attaché at the American legation in Ottawa. The Navy has never before sent an attaché to Canada.

Dressed in a paper bag, this baby was abandoned on a Brooklyn street corner. Only an hour old when found, he was rushed to Norwegian Hospital. Doctors say he will live.

President Meets His New Defense Board

President Roosevelt poses at the White House with his newly appointed defense board, which will consult with a similar Canadian board on mutual defense problems. Left to right (standing): Capt. H. W. Hill, Lieut. Col. J. T. McNarney, Capt. F. P. Sherman, Lieut. Gen. S. D. Embick and J. D. Hickerson. In front are Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia (left), of New York, chairman of the board, and the President.

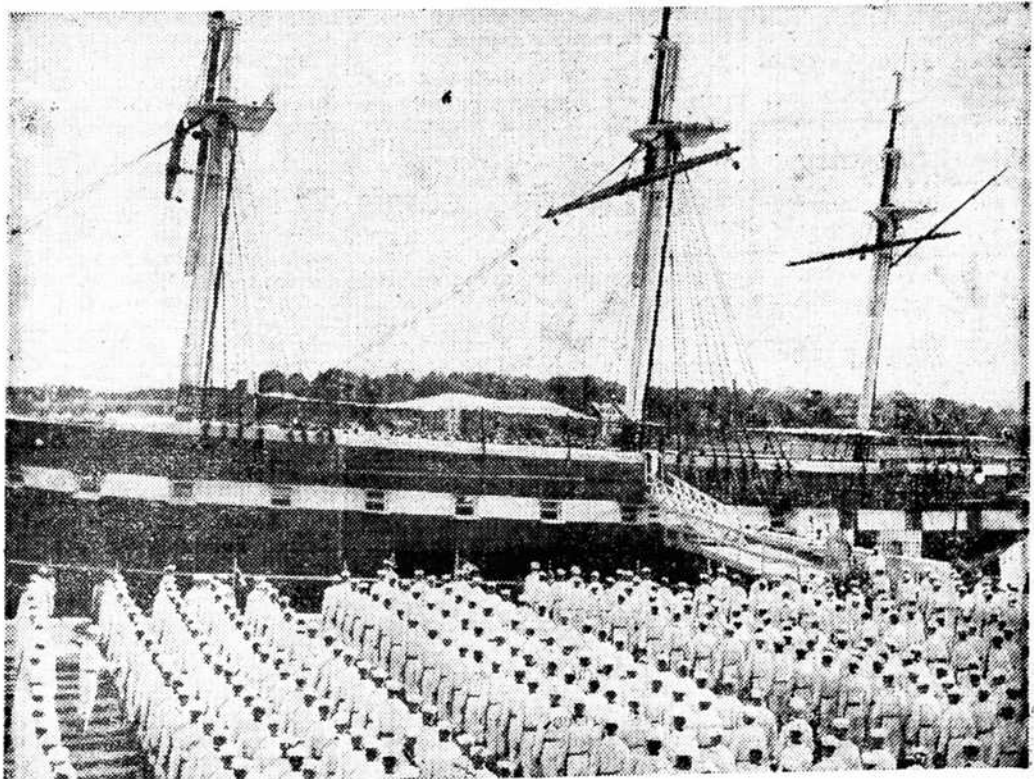

In Florida After Escape from Devil's Island

C. P. Phonophoto

Eight Frenchmen who say they escaped from dread Devil's Island, the French penal colony, are pictured after being picked up off Miami, Fla., by coastguardsmen. The fugitives say they left French Guiana May 5 in two canoes, obtained a sailboat at Trinidad and sailed to Puerto Rico. Trying to reach Canada, they ran into a storm and were drifting helplessly when rescued. Immigration officials are studying the case.

Oldest U. S. Warship Again Serves Its Country

The Navy's oldest warship, the U.S.S. Constellation, built in Baltimore, Md., in 1797, is put back into service as a training ship. She is shown being recommissioned at Newport, R. I., by 2,700 men and officers. One year older than the famed Constitution, the Constellation saw action against the Barbary pirates and in the War of 1812.

Address 100,000 at Jersey Democratic Rally

Speakers who addressed a rally of more than 100,000 Democrats at Sea Girt, N. J., are pictured here. Left to right, Governor A. Harry Moore, gubernatorial candidate Charles Edison, senatorial candidate James H. R. Cronwell, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, boss of the party's state machine, and Congresswoman Mary T. Norton.