Raleigh, Sept. 25.—Having inaugurated the football guessing season by making his very first prediction Billie and Mamine to wallop State) a bad one, your unabashed Raleigh reporter will now proceed to get just as far out on several other limbs as possible, by giving you, in the Big Five games of this week-end the following blind pig prognostications. Carolina will beat Wake Forest.

Duke will storm the V. M. I. defenses.
State's Wolves will outclaw Davidson's Wildcats.

All this is handed out under the very formal announcement that your reporter claims to be no part of a football expert, a crystal gazer or a Zodiak. It's a lot of fun guessing football results—just—like—figuring out the number of beans in the big bottle in the drug store window; and it still seems the inherent and untramelled privilege of every typewriter pounder to make an ass of himself once every week from beginning to end of the football season.
