

Pep Parade Thursday Night Preliminary To Friday Game

High School Student Body Plans Big Demonstration for Inauguration of Night Football Series in Henderson

The pep parade, which will be held on Thursday night at 8 o'clock, will be a preliminary to the Friday night game between the Henderson Bulldogs and the Enfield gridiron team.

The pep parade will be held on the main street of Henderson, and will feature a band, cheerleaders, and a large number of students. The parade will start at 8 o'clock and will last for about an hour.

The Friday night game will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the Enfield stadium. The Henderson Bulldogs are expected to win the game.

Sports Events Top State's November Activity Calendar

Daily Dispatch Bureau, Raleigh, Nov. 6.—Just because the election is over Tar Heels are not going to limit themselves without anything to do for the rest of the month of November except "second guess" the results.

On the contrary the state's calendar of events from now to the first of December is about as full and varied as could be wished. The Armistice Day and Thanksgiving holidays, naturally, are probably the best-known and will be most widely observed events; but there will be plenty of football games in college and high school cities; polo and fox hunting at some of the resorts; golf almost everywhere there are folks to swing clubs; outstanding musical events here and there; and as something of a climax the opening of the hunting season for quail, turkey, ruffed grouse and rabbit on Thanksgiving Day.

Take the November football slate: On November 9 there will be Duke-Davidson at Durham; the "Championship of Wake County" brawl here between Wake Forest and N. C. State; and the University's invasion of Virginia to play Richmond University in the Old Dominion's capital. That's only the "Big Five" late. Elsewhere there will be college and school games by the scores.

Come November 16 and there's the game in North Carolina—Duke against the Tar Heels at Chapel Hill. Davidson will entertain Hampden-Sydney, out Wake and State go visiting.

On the 23rd there's Duke-State at Raleigh, and Carolina-Virginia at Charlottesville.

Wake-South Carolina at Charlotte on Thanksgiving Day and Davidson-Citadel at Wilmington and Duke-Pitt at Durham on November 20 wind up the grid slate for the month.

Sedgefield, near Greensboro, has five fox hunts slated for the month—on November 9, 13, 20, 23 and 30.

Special golfing events include: Putting contest for women, Pinehurst, November 9; Nineteenth annual Mid-South Pro tourney at Pinehurst, 12th to 15th; 18-hole Kicker handicap tourney at Southern Pines on the 16th; 20th annual

Carolina Grooms For Spiders

Chapel Hill, Nov. 6.—Johnny Pecora, Dave Barksdale, Joe Austin, Bill Sigler, Mike Cooke and several other rookie backfield comers are being groomed for much service as North Carolina polishes its strong running game and air auxiliary for Saturday's stiff conference test at Richmond.

Jim (Sweet) Lalanne, who ranks eighth among the nation's ball carriers, is resting an injured foot for a few days on the team physician's orders, so he will be sure to be ready to lead the Tar Heels' colorful and versatile attack again Saturday.

Carolina's scouts, Johnny Morris and Hank Bartos, rank Richmond as the "best team in Virginia now" and think the Spiders are just "as strong and well-balanced as N. C. State, which Carolina barely nosed out 13-7. The Virginians' overhead game and triple-threat offense, built around Art Jones are seen as particularly dangerous, and the Tar Heels are laboring to get back in top shape and form.

Carolina's gruelling stretch of battles with Fordham, Tulane, State and TCU has caused Coach Ray Wolf to lighten temporarily the work of Paul Severin. All-America end Harry Dunkle, blocking ace and 1939 national punting leader, Sid Sadoff, the line-ripper, and other veteran workhorses.

All of the students are expected to be in shape and ready again for the dangerous Spiders, but in the meantime, the coaches are paying particular attention to the leading rookies in this week's heavy polishing, and those who meet the bill may get plenty of chances Saturday.

True civilization makes for peace.

Deacs Have Slight Edge Over State In Scoring

Raleigh, Nov. 6.—Comparative football scores don't mean a lot in determining the relative strength of teams especially if they happen to be the two contenders for the Wake county championship—North Carolina State and Wake Forest, which meet here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

But one can't get away from the fact that this year's favorite, the Demon Deacons from Wake, have amassed an average of 23 points in seven games (159) for one of the best offensive records in the business. Meanwhile, State has garnered but an average of 13 points in six games (80). Defensively, too, Wake has a better record than State giving up only 12 points per game (total 81), while State has given up 14 per game (85).

Two of the teams that Wake licked—North Carolina (12-0) and Furman (19-0) licked State. Carolina (13-7) and Furman (20-6). A third team the two clubs have both faced, the mighty Clemson Tigers, topped State (20-7) and Wake Forest (39-0).

This would indicate that Wake Forest is 51 points better than State from the standpoint of the Carolina and Furman games but in figuring in the Clemson game this margin is cut to 20 points.

The one bright spot from this comparison is that State was able to score on Clemson, a feat that Wake Forest was unable to accomplish. In fact, State has scored on every opponent this season, and now the big question is:

Will the Country Boy Wolfpack be able to score on Wake?

Drilling behind closed doors this week, Coach Williams (Doc) Newton hopes to cook up enough magic to cross the Deacon goal line in some form or fashion in order to keep up a scoring string that is unequalled in 23 years of State College football. If State is able to break into the points scored column this week and next against the Citadel in Charleston, S. C., the record of scoring in eight consecutive games set by the 1917 team will be tied.

Wake-State Encounter Renews Ancient Series

Wake Forest, Nov. 6.—This gridiron tussle between N. C. State and Wake Forest's Deacons scheduled for Raleigh Saturday afternoon will be something more than just an ordinary football game.

The football series between State and Wake is one of long standing. It dates back to 1907, and although N. C. State holds a wide margin of victories, the battles of recent years have been nothing but dog-dog affairs with one or the other shooting for "home runs," rather than waiting for breaks, and that is just one of the reasons this meeting is looked forward to each year.

Back in 1932 and 1933, the Deacons and State's Wolfpack played two scoreless ties, but since then there has been plenty to talk about.

Wake fans like to recall Walter Kitchin's passing exploits of the '34 tiff, won by the Deacs 13-12. Kitchin tossed a pass to end Bert Shore for his team's last touchdown seconds before the final gun and Tex Edens plectricked the winning point.

Apparently revengeful for that heart-breaking loss, Coach Robinson and Eddie Berlinski turned on the heat in the '35 meeting for the Wolfpack and won 21-6. The Cowboy ran 45 yards for one score and Berlinski cashed in a long trek for another.

But it was the Deacs' turn in '36 and again it was Kitchin, then a

Duke Starts Final Drive For '40 Title

Durham, Nov. 6.—Duke's Blue Devils start down the stretch drive of their campaign for a third straight Southern conference crown when they go against Davidson in Duke stadium Saturday.

The Blue Devils, winners of the title outright in 1938 and co-champions with Clemson last season, face three conference foes in a row starting with the Wildcats Saturday. The following week they meet North Carolina in one of the nation's football classics and then face N. C. State. The Carolina game will be played at Chapel Hill, the State game in Duke stadium as will the final contest of the year with Pitt, November 30.

Duke has even more things at stake in these three games. The Blue Devils have not been beaten in loop competition since Carolina last pulled the stunt in 1937. That is their only loop loss since 1934 when again it was Carolina that beat them. Duke has won or shared in conference crowns for four of the past five years and will at least get a share of this year's spoils if they are able to come through these three battles.

Davidson has not beaten the Blue Devils since 1929 but the Wildcats did battle Wallace Wade's first team to a scoreless tie in 1931. Since then Duke has been superior but the games have always been terrifically fought.

The Wildcats are not whipped until that final whistle is blown and they showed that again Saturday against Center. Trailing, 0-12 going into the final period, the Wildcats went out there and scored four touchdowns to win 27-12. This is a typical Davidson finish and Duke's heavily favored Blue Devils will have to watch them all the way Saturday.

Little Dave Spencer, 140 pounds of dynamite, paces the Wildcats this season and he has been performing brilliantly in every game. He was the spark that set off that four-touchdown burst against Center and his passes likely will be the Wildcats' main weapon against Duke.

Tar Babies Meet Virginia

Chapel Hill, Nov. 6.—The University of North Carolina Freshmen, who dropped their last contest but played some of their best ball of the year in holding the powerful and favored Wake Forest yearlings to 19-13, meet the Little Cavaliers from Virginia here Friday at 2:30 in their last home game.

The Tar Babies' finale will be the annual Carolina-Duke Freshman classic, which is scheduled this year for Charlotte on Friday, November 15.

The rejuvenated yearling attack features the passing of Leo LaBlanc, broken field running of Hugh Cox, plugging of John Sadlik, blocking of Emil Serdich, and pass receiving of Jack Emack and Jack Hussey.

Fathers of State Team Are Honored

Raleigh, Nov. 6.—Dads of North Carolina State College's varsity football players will be honored Saturday in a Fathers Day program sponsored by the Monogram club, headed by Tom Rowland of Charlotte.

The entertainment will begin with the State-Wake Forest game in the afternoon and end with a dance in Frank Thompson gymnasium from 9 o'clock to midnight. Wake Forest players and their fathers also will be guests of the Monogram Club at the dance, for which Dan Gregory's orchestra will play. Former Wolfpack players are especially invited to visit the campus and attend the dance, which will be informal. The gymnasium will be decorated in red and white festooning, carrying out a motif in the college colors.

Fathers of the State players will report to the gymnasium between 1 and 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. They will receive numbers corresponding to the numbers on their sons' jerseys, and will enter Riddick stadium, through the players' entrance. The fathers will be given sideline seats, with their numbers arranged on the backs of the chairs. Refreshments will be served to them during the game.

After the game, a dinner for all the players and their fathers will be staged in the College Y. M. C. A. dining room.

Greensboro Meets Salisbury Friday

Chapel Hill, Nov. 6.—The West's Class A football representative in the state finals at Chapel Hill may be decided this week when Greensboro and Salisbury, both undefeated, clash in the Rowan stronghold Friday afternoon.

Salisbury will be concluding its conference schedule this week and a victory would give the Rowan boys undisputed possession of the Western championship. On the other hand, a Greensboro triumph would assure the Gate City boys of at least a tie for the title regardless of the outcome of the final game with High Point.

Stories in both of these contests would give Greensboro the title.

Two other Class A games are scheduled this week. Wilson and Westminster play at Westminster Friday and Gastonia invades High Point for an engagement with the Furniture City team on the same afternoon.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR MRS. WINBORNE

Raleigh, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. J. Winborne, wife of Associate Justice Winborne, of the North Carolina Supreme court died at a hospital here Monday. She was 52 years old.

Mrs. Winborne suffered a stroke of apoplexy.

Funeral service will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in Marion. Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery there.

Hofmann Hunters' Total Bag Is 48

Jacksonville, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Hunters bagged 48 deer in the three day supervised hunt which closed at Hofmann forest Saturday, Supervisor G. E. Jackson reported today. There were 170 hunters.

The kill brought to 160 the total deer slain in the three supervised hunts, over a span of 11 days. Last year 165 deer were killed in 27 hunting days.

The next hunt will be held November 28 to 30.

An estimated yield of 670,000 bales of cotton for North Carolina indicates an adequate supply of cottonseed meal at reasonable prices for feeding cattle this winter, says T. H. Hostetter of State College.

Offense And Defense Are Stressed For Bulldogs

Offensive and defensive plays in today's work-out of the high school Bulldogs in preparation for the game with Enfield gridiron.

The pep parade was described as a mammoth pep parade planned for Thursday evening. Many surprises are promised, and it is expected to be a gala occasion, according to those who know.

Do You Want To Fly?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE medical examination of any candidate for the United States Army is severe—for officers more severe than for privates. And the most severe of all is for military pilots of airplanes. Besides the ordinary examinations the pilot has to pass certain special tests. The eyes and ears are given most careful scrutiny—the ability of the ears to keep clear in changing atmospheres, and the function of the ears to maintain equilibrium are apparently individual traits and they must be tested.

The special stresses for the military pilot, according to Fortune Magazine, are (1) air neurosis, which is a breakdown of coordination, caused by flying in dangerous and exciting circumstances; (2) lack of oxygen at high altitudes; and, (3) the "blackout," a sudden blindness caused by effect of centrifugal force on the blood stream during the turn out from a high dive.

Oxygen Tests

Oxygen lack in high altitudes causes an attack on the judgment of the pilot. It can be imitated experimentally and it is remarkable to see candidates tested under conditions of low oxygen pressure. They are asked questions to which they either reply in writing or by the spoken voice, and they are given tests with instruments. When the oxygen pressure gets low they think they are replying perfectly sensibly, but what they say makes no sense.

Oxygen starvation in high altitudes has been studied for many years. In high altitudes, the pressure of the oxygen falls, although the percentage of oxygen in the oxygen into the blood" decreases. If it were a simple matter of rarefied atmosphere we could make up for it by taking more breaths, but the pressure must be increased also. The problem is, of course, solved by the use of oxygen masks—more or less perfectly. The masks and apparatus are constantly being improved.

Blackout Bugaboo

The blackout is by no means so easily controlled, although Commander John R. Paffen, of the Navy, is confident that he and his associates are on the track of a
