

McCormick Notice Of Sale Of Land To Capital For 1940 County Taxes

Former Bitter Critic of New Deal Domestic Policy Joins National Defense Setup.

By CHARLES P. STUWART Central Press Columnist Washington, Aug. 16.—For an anti-New Dealer to be strongly favorably disposed toward the Roosevelt administration policy of...

There was a case of the kind the other day, upon announcement of Cyrus McCormick's appointment to a position on an automobile and truck plant in Leon Henderson's agency...

However, during the New Deal's first eight years, its domestic ideologies and methods of trying to attain them, had no bitterer critic than Cyrus McCormick. As a Republican national committee member, he strove dogmatically for Wendell Willkie's election...

Well, as previously remarked, this isn't inconsistent. When the New Deal began getting domestically busy, Cyrus, like quite a few other folk, took the position that its trend was totalitarian—perhaps not as much so as the Nazis and...

Incidentally, as the war's warmed up, the New Deal has been considerably less vociferously New Dealish domestically. A few critics, like Chairman Joseph W. Martin of the Republican national committee, maintain that the New Deal's still promoting itself under the guise of national defense—that we'll find ourselves under a permanent dictatorship when the emergency passes...

It's at least arguable similar to the Russian situation. The democracies didn't like communism any better than they liked the Nazis or the fascists until communism and the axis got into a war between themselves. Thereupon the general democratic verdict became, "The communists are as bad as the axis, but less dangerous in the long run. Let's help the former against the latter and, when the axis is licked and the communists are all picked out, it'll be possible to get the world back into democratic shape."

Some way with the hitherto anti-New Dealers—"This is no time to be brazenly anti-New Deal," Pat Tottle, what? It is permissible to have your own horn—if you are a musician.

Warms France. Gen. Heinrich von Stuelpnagel. Angered by outbreaks against Nazi rule in Paris, Gen. Heinrich von Stuelpnagel, commander of German forces in France, has warned that the entire population of occupied territory will be held responsible for any further violence. The death penalty was decreed for Communist activity.
