Sheriff Faces Investigation

Daily Dispatch Bureau,
In the Sir Walter Hotel.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 10—Governor J. Melville Broughton will seek a full investigation of charges that Sheriff D. L. Caney of Brunswick county has acted in an arbitrary and illegal manner in preferring charges against motorists and having the charges tried before his brother, a justice of the peace.

The governor told your reporter he has no authority to take direct or summary action himself, but added that he will refer to the district solicitor (David Sinclair of Wilmington) a letter he has received from a Wilmington lady in which certain charges are made against Sheriff Caney.

The governor made it plain that he does not contemplate any ex parte action, and that he has no evidence of the truth or falsity of the charges other than the Wilmington letter. The incident, related, however, is of sufficient seriousness, if sahst ntiated, to warrant presentation of the matter to a grand jury, he said.

According to the letter, signed by Mrs. Charlotte Bailey of Wilmington, Sheriff Caney stopped an automobile in which her son (an army lieutenant) and three others were riding in Brunswick county, frisked the lieutenant and struck him on the head with a blackjack when request was made for a reason for arrest. Then, the letter charges, the lieutenant was hustled before the sheriff's brother, a J. P., and fleeced the costs on a charge of "obstructing traffic". Inasmuch as it was necessary for the army man to get all maneuvers and it was impossible for an appeal to be heard in less than three weeks, costs were paid in advance of a Wilmington attorney.

Mrs. Bailey charged that the sheriff's actions have been so flagrantly violative of motorists' rights that many Wilmington people are now afraid to travel on Brunswick roads at all.

The Golden Text

"Come unto me all ye that labor."

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life."—John 3:16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

The International Uniform Lesson for Oct. 12 [illegible] for Oct. 12 Matt. 1:21; 2:23-25; Luke 19:1-10; John 3:16; 6:66-69; Acts 4:12; Rom. 3:21-26; 4:23-25; II Cor. 5:14-21; Phil. 2:5-11; [illegible] the Golden Text being John 3:16. "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life."]

Christ our Saviour is the subject of our lesson today, and our first reference is in Matthew, telling of His coming. The angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph, affianced to Mary, mother of Jesus, telling him that Mary shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call His name Jesus: He shall save His people from their sins."

This message by the angel explained the mission of Christ on earth, and the many other references in our New Testament to the Holy Christ. Words to the multitudes and to His disciples, as recorded in Matt. 20, tells us what He knew His mission on earth to be. The story is that the mother of Zebedee's children came to the Lord and asked Him if one of her sons might sit at His right hand and one at His left in the kingdom of God. He answered that it was not for Him to say, but that whosoever would become great among men must be their minister. And whosoever would be chief among you must be your servant. Even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many."

Self-righteous followers of the Master today may well read this passage. Those who follow His teachings will not presume that a life of service is all that He expects of them. Many think that they are living non-Christian, that they should be looked up to and exalted upon. Always should they be humble, devoting themselves to the service of others unceasingly.

The oft-told story of the man who was little in stature, Zacchaeus, is also told in this lesson. It is a pleasant story and shows influence upon men of the Master when He was on earth. Jesus was passing through Jericho. Many had heard of Him and multitudes flocked about to see Him. Zacchaeus, being short, ran ahead and climbed a tree to get a view from its branches. Nothing escaped Jesus' eye, and as He passed the tree He looked up and called to Zacchaeus to come down, saying, "Make haste, and come down; for today I must abide at thy house."

Zacchaeus came down in haste and received his master joyfully. The people around murmured. Here was a man whom they hated. He was a very like our dishonest politicians and grafters, a Jewish tax-gatherer, probably guilty of receiving bribes, of over-taxing and squeezing his own people, the Jews, and he had grown wealthy at this game, and in consequence was thoroughly disliked.

Zacchaeus Is Converted.

What was the effect of the presence of Christ upon him? He said: "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." In other words, so impressed was he that he repented his sins and was willing to impoverish himself if by so doing he could be accepted of the Lord.

"And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as he also is the son of Abraham. For the Son of Man is come to save that which was lost."

Our Golden Text reiterates the same message of Christ's mission on earth, "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life."

Came a time when many of Jesus' followers could no longer accept His teachings, thinking them too hard. Then He turned to the 12, and said: "Will ye also go away?"

Simon Peter made answer: "Lord, to whom should we go? thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God."

Summing up our lesson, if we accept Jesus and earnestly strive to follow His teachings, our reward will be far above all earthly recompense in the beautiful words of Paul in his letter to the Romans, chapter 8, verses 37-39:

"In all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us.

"For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

"Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

'Controllers' See Victory

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—"Controllers," believers in the ABC system of dispensing alcoholic beverages have changed their alcoholic blues. They are going to win all four county elections, they say.

They have won the first and handily, in Warren which cast a much bigger vote in the recent election than it did in the original poll which gave ABC stores to a county that declined to repeal the 18th amendment. Warren presented very little change. Many more drys voted in this election than in the first held in 1936, but the majority in each instance was ample. The drys got almost no votes in Warrenton six years ago. They polled very well in the most recent vote. In the first they were beaten about 620, and in the second about 525 votes.

Franklin from the first has been regarded more difficult, but the Thursday tidings from Louisburg were less lugubrious for the controllers. The Warren vote helped Franklin's stores. The two counties adjoin. There is some heart given the faint. Similarly, there is some slight hurt to the drys who had felt reasonably certain of carrying Warren. And Franklin because of its considerable politics has been rated the most difficult of the four.

Unless Bertie rates that distinction. The whole county has not voted on this issue, so Windsor got stores by special act of the general assembly and Wayland Spruill. Thrice since he let Bertie in without a vote he has stood for nominations and in his county got them all. The impression until a few days ago was that the rural vote in Bertie will more than nullify the control vote in Windsor. Nevertheless, the con-

Attorney General's Office Has Wide Variety Of Duties

Daily Dispatch Bureau,
In the Sir Walter Hotel.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—Attorney General Harry McMullan and his assistants have no easy task in unscrambling the weighty question of law presented to them from all kinds of people in all sorts of places, and in addition they frequently have to go actively into court and uphold some agency's legal rights.

It's all in a day's work for them. For example, yesterday were good examples of both types of duty.

Assistant Attorneys General Wade Bruton were discussing there given with the question of whether carrying a pocket knife in an automobile would constitute the carrying of a concealed weapon, while Assistant General [illegible] was appearing before Judge W. C. Harris to argue a demurrer on behalf of the State Board of Health in which it was contended that the state agency [illegible] financially responsible for payment [illegible] employee of the Vance county health department [illegible] while driving a car on official business. Judge Harris overruled the demurrer, and the case will be heard at Henderson.

trollers are counting Bertie now.

That leaves Vance which hasn't been regarded close as the controllers. The ABC advocates still think they'll get their biggest majority in Vance where the best speaking campaign has been carried on by the drys. All four counties refused vote in favor of repealing the 18th amendment, but they also went safely for the stores.

BROUGHTON SEEKS FREIGHT SHIPMENTS

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Governor Broughton will confer with Admiral Emory S. Land, of the maritime commission, and possibly with British officials in Washington today on the possibility of getting shipments of Lend-lease products handled through North Carolina ports.

The governor said that lend-lease shipments are being handled through ports south of North Carolina — Charleston, Savannah and others — and that North Carolina's ports of Wilmington and Morehead City have handled none of these shipments.
