Moscow Proclaims Defeat Of German Invading Army

Drive Into Middle East Is Expected

Disastrous End to Hitler's Invasion of Russia is Freely Predicted as Signs Multiply of New Campaign Plans.

By The Associated Press.

A disastrous end to Adolf Hitler's invasion of Russia was freely predicted by London military quarters today as Moscow proclaimed the utter defeat of a 750,000-strong German army and signs multiplied that Hitler might be planning a new campaign through Bulgaria into Turkey and the Middle East.

The prospect that the Nazi Bulgarists seek of heavy losses and bitter hardship suffered on the frozen steppes of Russia may have decided to keep out in another direction from these supporting fronts.

Britain announced that she was sending immediate aerial reinforcements to the Middle East evidently to meet a new threat, since British armies already have the Germans and Hungarians on the run in north Africa.

Germany has officially announced that her armies in Russia were withdrawing to "new defense positions" for the winter—possibly a subsidence to mask the shifting of these forces to the Middle East.

Russian reports of new Nazi "feeder" to Moscow, which the Soviets have bluntly rejected, indicated that Hitler intended to free his hands for another military venture.

Heavy German troop concentrations have been reported from time to time in southern Bulgaria, including Black sea ports, in position for an attack on Turkey if that country refused to permit transit of railroads across the Turkish "land bridge" between Europe and the Middle East.

In this connection observers recalled with new meaning President Roosevelt's declaration that the invasion of Turkey will be vital to the defense of the democracies. A statement made by the President last week in discussing that U. S. lend-lease supplies have been flowing into Turkey.

There was always the possibility, of course, that Hitler might now make the desperate gamble he has avoided so long—

Jacksonville Aviation Bases Blacked Out

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Army and Navy posts here were blacked out early today and all radio stations were ordered off the air from 5:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m. EST, after Naval Intelligence Commandant C. B. M. Fenton reported "unidentified planes" over the southeast Florida coast.

Captain C. P. Mason, commanding officer at the naval air base, said he could not reveal the sources of his information, but added this is not a test blackout. This is serious so far as we are concerned."

The big naval air station on the St. Johns river was blacked out immediately as was the headquarters of the Army's fourth observation group at the municipal airport.

Officers at the Navy station were roused out of bed and planes were waked up on the runway but did not take off. No officer could be quoted for a statement of the Fourth Army corps headquarters.

The downtown areas were not blacked out but a heavy fog hung over the city, restricting visibility.

Navy Announces It Is Unable to Communicate With Island by Radio or Cable.

Washington, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that it was unable to communicate with the Pacific island of Guam by either radio or cable and advised that capture of the island by the Japanese was probable.

At least 10,000 men and眷属 (wives) and their families were stranded on the island, the admiral said.

It was believed that the troops were held in isolated and several point locations.

Both the White and Midway Islands, located to the south of Guam, are held by the Japanese, which is closest to the Philippines, Guam containing the largest number of American troops.

Japanese officials made no mention of American resistance on Guam and it was assumed that they had been forced to agree to an armistice.

It was believed that the Japanese had captured the island after it became clear that the Americans were unable to hold it.

It was also believed that the Japanese had captured the island because they were unable to hold it.

14 Convicted Secretary Stimson As Spy Ring Urges Extension Of Draft Measure

Jury Deliberates Only Eight Hours Before Finding Defendants Guilty on Each of Two Counts in Federal Court.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The conviction of 14 trial bound defendants accused of supplying military information to Germany today capped the government's drive against one of the most fantastically-operated spy rings in recent history.

After a buck draw of the jury between the two countries, the 14-week long trial ended early today with a correspondingly speedy verdict. A jury of nine men and three women deliberated only eight hours before finding the 14 guilty on both counts of an indictment charging conspiracy to avoid recruiting as German government agents and conspiracy to deliver to Nazi government vital American defense secrets.
