

Hanes Warns Of Industrial Dislocations

Raleigh, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Warning North Carolina manufacturers that they will have to shut their doors during the war, Hanes, chairman of the state war production board advisory committee, said here today that business problems considered insurmountable can still be solved with "intelligence, persistence and ingenuity."

Hanes made the statement yesterday after a meeting of his committee which was held with field forces of the production board in this city.

The Winston-Salem banker acknowledged that there existed in North Carolina many types of factories which could not hope to continue to get needed materials for their production and which also could not hope to convert to war production. For such industries, he said, nothing can be done.

He declared that unless the "reconversion" which seems to have attracted North Carolina business men "can be planned" hardships must be borne by business men, labor and other communities.

"Take prompt action is taken, stress and tragedy may follow," he added.

Hanes pointed out that industries engaged with materials needed for the military forces and likely to become scarce because of the scramble for substitutes, should try to get their materials from the army and navy.

He urged that plants which can be converted by changing machinery or tools should get to work immediately on conversion. He said the conversion of machinery will require any way it can be manufactured. He pointed out, however, that the conversion of machinery should be done in a way that will not require the purchase of new machinery.

Wake Forest Ends Season Friday Night

Wake Forest, Feb. 27.—Wake Forest's Deacons close out their most successful basketball season in three years tonight meeting the South Carolina Gamecocks, champions of their state, in Gore gymnasium, the game starting at 8:15.

The game will give fans a chance to compare Preston Westmoreland, leading Gamecock scorer and pride of the Palmetto state, with Herb Cline, the Deacons ace center and strong contender for Southern Conference scoring honors. In 16 conference games Cline has totaled 180 points.

In the previous meeting of the two teams on February 12 the Deacons snatched a victory away from the Gamecocks, 40-38, when Bonds and Koleski came through with a foul shot and a field goal in the final minute of play.

Since their loss to State last Saturday night the Demon Deacons have added victories over Clemson and Furman, and their conference record now stands at 12 wins and five losses.

Saturday night the Gamecocks play N. C. State in Raleigh to round out their season.

The Parables by the Sea ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus sat on the seashore, and when great multitudes gathered on the shore, he entered a boat and sitting therein, gave them His message in stories or parables. Jesus first parable was of the man who sowed his seed in the field where some fell on stony ground, some was eaten by birds, and some took root and grew. In another parable Jesus likened the kingdom of heaven to a grain of mustard seed, which, being the tiniest of seeds, when grown became a great tree.

In a third parable Jesus likened the kingdom of heaven to a grain of mustard seed, which when sown in three measures of meal leavened the whole. (GOLDEN TEXT—John 7:46)

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Golden Text

The parable of the pearl of great price. "Never man so spoke."—John 7:46

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 7 is Matthew 13, Mark 4:1-34, Luke 8:1-18, the Golden Text being John 7:46, "Never man so spoke.")

A parable is a story used to illustrate a certain point of moral. It is a story in which the incident related never happened, yet it might have happened. Thus is a parable distinguished from a fable, which is a story told about something which could not have happened.

Jesus talked to the multitude in parables, as mothers tell little stories to their children to make certain truths clear to them.

In our story today, Jesus sat by the sea-side, and when the crowd found him there, he entered a boat, and sitting in the boat, with the interested multitude on the shore, he talked to them, telling His truths in parables.

The first story told by our Lord was about a man who went into his field to sow grain. Some of the seeds, and Jesus, fell by the wayside and towards them some fell on stony places where there was not enough earth for them to grow in, and they died, some fell among weeds, and thorns which choked them, but others fell into good ground and grew and made a good harvest.

The disciples asked Jesus why He talked in parables, and He answered: "It is given to you to know the mystery of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given." He then explained to them that to some persons the truths He told would be like seeds dropped by the wayside, the evil things of life would catch them up ere they could sprout. To some others the truths could not prosper because there was no soil in the soul to nurture them. When trouble or persecution came, the truth in their hearts would perish.

Worldliness Chokes Truth.
The "deceitfulness of riches," the material things of the world, would distract others, these being the weeds that would choke out the truth in some hearts. But to those who, like the disciples, had pure understanding hearts, the word would multiply and bear fruit "some an hundred-fold, some sixty, some thirty."

"The kingdom of heaven" is like a grain of mustard seed, said Jesus. It is one of the tiniest of seeds, but it becomes a great herb, and later a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

The Kingdom of Heaven, was likened to leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal and the whole was leavened. Anyone who has seen the effect of yeast on a large quantity of bread mixture, can appreciate the quality.

The Kingdom of Heaven is also like a hidden treasure, which when a man hath found, he hideth and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

Burying Their Treasures.
In olden times men who did not leave home hid their treasures in holes in the earth. Sometimes they died while away, and the treasure could not be located. A law was passed that when it was found it should belong to the owner of the land. God's truth is likened to this treasure which when a man found, he sold everything else he had to buy it. How much more is this truth worth to men than earthly treasures?

A similar parable is the one about the man who found the pearl of great price, and sold his all to purchase it.

The last parable in this 12th chapter of Matthew, tells of the fishes who cast their nets and drew up many fish of all kinds, both good and bad. The waters on the shore threw away the inedible varieties and saved the good. "So shall it be at the end of the world; the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from the just," said Jesus.

When Jesus went to his old home and entered into the synagogue to preach, his old neighbors heard Him with amazement, saying, "Is not this the carpenter's son? Whence then hath this man all these things?"

And they were offended with Him. Jesus said, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and in his own house," and He remained from doing miracles in Nazareth because of their lack of faith.

Let us look into our own hearts. Is there within us the soil in which will grow and blossom truth, righteousness and love, such as the world needs in its present unhappy state? Can we follow the Master through persecution and suffering, striving always to live for His glory—for Truth and Righteousness?

PROSECUTOR—Governor Broughton has employed Clyde Douglas, described in the governor's office as a vigorous prosecutor, to help the solicitor and the attorney general's department in prosecuting the case—or cases—against former employees of the Department of Revenue charged with embezzlement. If Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell or anybody else thinks "he government is going to be 'reconducted' of any personal or political feelings the employment of Douglas should set them straight. The information given AFS is that the trial which begins next week is going to be considerably more important to the State than a mere matter of an alleged $4,000 embezzlement by a former State employe. It is the beginning of a campaign.
