BIRD OF NIGHT.

The slow evening soars leisurely over the land and, silent, dips into the alders by the river's edge; light as a web the darkening dusk is woven through the wood. From the day sedge of a distant field, the musk of winter drifts, commingled with a small and singular smell of spring; The day had faults—This night will hover perfect over all as a protective wing.

Woman's Tuesday Club In Final Spring Meet

Mrs. Kate Watkins was hostess to the Woman's Tuesday club yesterday afternoon in its final meeting of the club year. Lovely arrangements of brilliant red roses and syringa were used in decorating the rooms where the guests were invited.

Mrs. E. J. Parham, president, presided over the business session, while it was featured by a discussion of plans to report to the national defense department of the State Federation as to the number of club members pledging in the recent canvas for systematic purchase of war saving stamps and bonds. One hundred percent participation in this movement is desired. Mrs. A. J. Davis, treasurer, reported that the war bond fund is being used to purchase a $200 bond.

Mrs. J. T. Afterman represented the club at the Federation meeting in Asheville in April. She expressed the gratification felt in the election of Mrs. Leon Vick as president and Mrs. W. D. Payne as secretary of the State Junior.

Mrs. E. F. Parham was asked to present the plaque which the club awards each year to the club at Henderson high school for the most outstanding play of the year. This plaque will be presented on graduation night.

The program was opened with "There Was a Garden" given by Mrs. Kate Watkins. "Contemporary Fine Painting" was a reading by Mrs. M. F. Legg from the book by the same name. A review of "The Country Editor," prepared by Mrs. W. B. Waddill, was presented by Mrs. Sam Watkins. The book is the story of a small town journal for twenty years, in which a most convincing picture is given in fragments of the American way of life. The journal printed only the village news.

Mrs. Leslie Ferry gave a very interesting talk on "The Latest Developments in Book Publishing." She told of the trend of books under way condition calling attention to the part that publishers play in war work. Books are needed for technical training on morale, on nutrition and first aid, on services for saving of sugar, along the line of civilian defense, in fight into war conditions, location of new places, and for leisure reading.

The program committee for 1942-43, composed of Mrs. S. T. Pease, Mrs. E. F. Parham, Mrs. W. B. Waddill, and Mrs. M. F. Legg, presented the programs for next year, entitled "Personal Preferences". They were received with much favorable comment, and the club is looking forward with much pleasure to the work.

Mrs. Watkins served a delicious two-course supper to her guests in the dining room and sun room. Mrs. Wesley Jones and her mother, Mrs. McKinney, and Mrs. A. L. Gardner were guests for the afternoon, and members present included the following: Mrs. M. F. Legg, Mrs. Henry Perry, Mrs. I. W. Hughes, Mrs. Sam Watkins, Mrs. J. T. Alderman, Mrs. A. J. Davis, Mrs. S. T. Pease, Mrs. Leslie Ferry, Mr. W. B. Parham, Mrs. J. M. Pease, Mrs. B. G. Allen, and Mrs. E. F. Parham.

Physical Fitness Class Is Bowling

The physical fitness class literally took over the Hi-Score Bowling Alley last night with about twenty-five potential super-women participating.

For the information of other women in town who might be interested in bowling, it was pointed last night that all the good bowlers are not affected as lightning. As an example, Miss Lucy Bryan Adams made high score of 103 by sending the ball down the alley like a ball of fire, but Mrs. A. W. Ghoshen, Jr. was in there with a good score by gently laying the ball down the alley and giving them an encouraging push. This method won for her one of the four strikes of the evening and several spares.

The average score for the group was seventy-five, when for beginners was good bowling.

From Columbus.

Mrs. E. F. Fenner has returned from Columbus, Ga., where he spent several weeks at the Radisson Hotel. Col. Fenner was recently transferred from Fort Jackson to Fort Benning, at Columbus, where he was assigned to the executive board for the reclassification of officers.

At Weldon Graduation.

Mrs. F. B. Valentine returned from Halifax where she attended the graduation exercises at Weldon high school when her niece, Miss Louise Bradley, was a graduate. Miss Bradley is now spending several days here with Mr. and Mrs. Valentine at their home at 315 Charles street.

Many Callers Inspect Hospital On Tuesday

Numerous friends visited Maria Parham hospital Tuesday afternoon and evening when the hospital held open house on the occasion of National Hospital Day. Visiting hours were the regular periods for callers, from 3 to 3 p. m., and from 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Wives of doctors and officials of the hospital, together with ladies themselves connected with the institution served as a reception committee. Nurses also greeted the visitors, and escorted them over the hospital for inspection of all its departments, including the offices, dining room, reception rooms, wards, private rooms, the operating room and baby ward. Many were greatly interested in the X-ray equipment, recently installed, and said to be among the most modern obtainable.

The Henderson Garden Club, West End Garden Club and the Little Garden Club exhibited flowers for the occasion, numerous arrangements adding greatly to the attractiveness and beauty of the hospital.

Guests were invited into the dining room for punch and wafers. In the evening a number of young women members of the Junior Woman's Club assisted in serving punch and in escorting visitors. Doctors were on hand as they could spare the time and greeted guests in the afternoon and evening.

Many callers brought gifts for the hospital, including linens, towels, lamps and some cash donations.

A new wing, virtually doubling the facilities of the hospital, was added last year, and more recently the new equipment has been installed and placed into use. Visitors generally were impressed with the remarkable facilities of the institution, now in the best position in its history to serve the community and section, and being one of the finest hospitals for its size in a community no larger than Henderson.

Meeting Held For Shaw Philathreas

Elon Speaker

The Shaw Philathreas class of the First Baptist church held its monthly meeting in the ladies parlor Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Marvin Davis, leading the group in singing "Tell Me the Story of Jesus" as the opening hymn.

Mrs. R. C. Gary, guest speaker, conducted a very inspiring devotional period, with her subject "Christ Dealing with Human Need". The real human need is the guidance of Jesus, the Light of the World. Mrs. Gary said the question is "Are we as Christians carrying this light and telling others as we should?" Mrs. J. Franklin Mills offered prayer in conclusion.

Rev. E. Northcutt Gardner expressed appreciation to mothers for what they mean to the church, the community, and youth. He read a tribute to mothers, "A beautiful gift from mother to her children is faith in Jesus."

Regular routine of business was conducted, and committees appointed for the next month, as follows: door, Mrs. J. L. Finch; Mrs. M. J. Woodlief; room, Mrs. W. D. Musser; Mrs. H. F. Burgess; sick, Mrs. W. E. Walker; Mrs. S. P. Peterson; Mrs. J. C. Stainback; personnel services, Mrs. J. S. Miller; Mrs. C. D. Allen; hostesses, Mrs. W. H. Casper; Mrs. W. E. Walker; Mrs. J. Franklin Mills.

The program was in charge of Mrs. W. D. Musser, Mrs. E. G. Shaw, and Mrs. Rivers. Mrs. Shaw led in singing of the Philathreas hymn. It will be something listening! Mrs. Mill read the words to an old song used years ago on Mother's Day, entitled "At Mother's Knee."

A duet composed of Mrs. J. T. Anderson and Mrs. Bob W. Star sang two selections, "Yield Not to Temptation" and "Take Time to Be Holy". Mrs. J. C. Stainback accompanied them at the piano. Mrs. Albert Parham gave seven readings entitled "The Soul of the Violin", by Merrile and in a Dorian dialect "Doin' Good" by Joseph Morris. In conclusion she gave "The Giddy Clock" by Smith, which the class enjoyed very much. A contest was conducted in which each person was asked to assemble jumbled words correctly so that they formed a sentence introducing the officers of the Philathreas and Baracca classes. Eight formal sentences correctly, and Mrs. F. P. Pinck was the winner when draw cards were drawn. She was presented with an empty sugar dish.

The bushes of Mrs. M. J. Weidler, Mrs. Jessie Prentiss, Mrs. J. L. Finch, Mrs. Conie Daniels, and Mrs. Marvel Davis served delicious refreshments.

Mayor Powell Tells Rotary Of Defense

Mayor Henry T. Powell, head of Civilian Defense here, spoke to the Rotary club Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Vance hotel on the civilian defense set-up here.

Mayor Powell was introduced by T. B. Rose, Jr.

The civilian defense head gave the historical background of defense. First settlers, he said, defended themselves against Indian attacks singularly, then stockaded for village protection. Congress established an army of 80 men and officers for the defense of America. Home defense, he said, was brought up to date through the various stages.

Mayor Powell described the difference between military protection and civilian protection, pointing out that areas of military manufacture are subject to bombings under International law. The speaker told of the development of the envelope to the modern bombs that has a speed of 300 miles per hour, 7,000 mile range and a bomb capacity of eight tons. He said there are 175,000 within 300 miles of the Atlantic coast, with a population of 12,000,000, all vulnerable to bombing attacks.

Factors for immunity of bombing attacks, the speaker said, are strong military force, great sea power, adequate anti-aircraft guns and complete ignorance of the air. To give the United States the same density of England's antiaircraft guns, it would require production of 52 year at the present rate.

The speaker pointed out that while roads could not be bombed as heavily as England, but roadside railroads could be subjected to submarine action and lower morale. When our civilian defense began working with its trained crews, it found enemy in Henderson, N. C., as in a district composed of Vance, Warren and Granville counties, and controlled directly from the Norfolk Naval Command. Detailed explanation was given of the detection and intercepting forces, the military, the offshore patrolling, the coast guard, mechanized patrols, and spotters.

Details of the local defense committee were given in the speaker's concluding remarks.

Ted Haigler, Sanford Rotarian, attended the meeting, making up a
