Sacrifices

General Stephen G. Henry, of one of the Army commands at Fort Knox, told an audience in New York the other night he was weary of hearing people bemoan the sacrifices they are going to have to make for the war effort.

Of course, it is possible he could talk freely along that line by reason of not stepping out of his chosen line to do his bit toward victory.

But we can find it rather easy to share his weariness over mouthings of many who at most have not given up anything that is vital to their existence.

Only brave minds and stout hearts could have established on this continent the mighty nation that exists here today, and, please God, only the sons and daughters of men like that can preserve it for the destiny decreed for it by the Almighty.

Lloyd George at 80

David Lloyd George, one of the elder statesmen and patriarchs of modern day Britain, was 80 years old last Sunday, and an admiring world laid its felicitations at his feet in memory of and out of gratitude for services of inestimable value he performed for the cause of human freedom in the World War of 1914-1918.

The little Welshman failed of the goals at which he aimed, as did the immortal Woodrow Wilson. Their ideas and ideals admittedly lacked much of attaining perfection.

At three score and twenty, the aging former prime minister is the only survivor of the so-called "big four" at the peace table in 1919.

Chaos in Tobacco

Washington advisers refer to what is called "chaos" in the tobacco industry, and particularly in the burley belt in disposing of the 1942 crop.

Private affairs. To be sure, the tobacco industry has not always operated in ideal fashion. Too often too little has been allowed the grower for his share, and in sensible or far-sighted persons would condemn that policy.

What has always seemed to us to be a sort of illogical economy, though, is the program that imposed rationing and at the same time gave producers to submit to quotas and allotments on the same commodities rationed and penalized when they exceed doles some one might expect they are entitled to.

Government dabbling in anything and everything has tied the country into such a knot that it will be fortunate ever to extricate itself. It will require more than the magic of a Houdini to worm out of the maze of regimentation straightjackets into which nearly everything and everyone has been placed.

As for the tobacco situation, our belief is that the ultimate goal is an objective of restraining on the tobacco industry, and precautions must have been placed and are now in process as part of a broad scheme to bring the industry into line with the rest of the economy.

Two Austrian grand dukes have joined the American Army. Interdicting, no doubt, to put a certain upstart Austrian ex-corporal in his place.

Now we know why Doc Feather made all those general "I did nothing" and "I would sound most important" when he fired them.

of France and Orlando of Italy. Lloyd George also lived to see the second world war, a continuation of the one in which they set to victory their people the Allies of that former struggle, and which has come because the principles they had fought then were not followed, as they thought they had.

Despite his failing and short comings, David Lloyd George is today, as he has been for a quarter century, a world statesman. He continues, even at his ripe age, a mighty power and a towering figure in the British Parliament. His place in history is secure, because he made it that way.

The comeback of old Damon was not leveled, indeed. First, the other's clever threats had very existence and now comes the limitation of Florida race track which on account of a shortage of money what—gasoline!

Fuel shortage, says an item, does small mischief, it is true, but only for the time being. It looks like the R in Rationing is behind the three in Reading, Riting and Rithmetics.

As the war goes on both sides continue to improve their weapons but the newspaper magnates continue to use the same old arrow—though now they're turned around.

America's favorite perfume according to a Canadian newspaper is rose. Smells, we always thought it was the aroma of bacon and sizzling in the dawn.

Josef Stalin has been named the Man of the Year. Remember Hitler announcing that before the end of 1942 there wouldn't be any Stalin?

A bug expert tells us that mosquitoes don't stab their human victims, they saw into 'em. Hinnon, just a carpenter ant with wings?

Two Austrian grand dukes have joined the American Army. Interdicting, no doubt, to put a certain upstart Austrian ex-corporal in his place.

Anyway, the shortage of coffee has given us temporary relief from that argument about whether it was socially correct to drink.

Junior thinks powdered speech might be a good idea since a chance breeze might blow it out the kitchen window.

Feathers are now being ground into fertilizer. A fitting fate for a chicken caught rading a Victory order.

What Do You Know About North Carolina?

By FRED H. MAY

- 1. When did the great French military leader, Marshal Foch, of World War one, die? (Jan. 20, 1929, North Carolina)
2. What special privilege has the State made for officials and employees who are away from home? (When was that privilege adopted?) (Travel expenses in North Carolina)
3. In what way were hunters urged by state officials to save their "mudpuppy"?
4. Who was the woman who first introduced the "Daisy" brand of toilet paper in North Carolina?
5. In what year did the North Carolina legislature pass the Senate Bill which gave the State the right to regulate the practice of medicine?

ANSWERS

- 1. Marshal Foch visited North Carolina in 1921, and on December 29th spoke from the grand house steps at Montreat. At that time he decorated the lobby of the 5th and 17th Field Artillery Regiment, from Fort Bragg with the laurels of the Cross de Guerre for conspicuous bravery. He died in Paris in the first hour of the night of Jan. 20, 1929, at the age of 87. He had been in the United States for a year while it was in session in the year.
2. A provision of the legislature in 1941 authorized Governor Brantley to issue orders of absence to all State officials and employees; for county commissioners to grant leave; for city and town employees. No salaries are to be paid during these leaves, however, the jobs are to be filled by temporary appointments, and the leave is to be held for the employee or official for any part of the remaining term after the War.
3. The act authorizing the use of lethal gas instead of the electric chair for official executions was adopted by the 1943 legislature. The bill was introduced in the house by Dr. Charles A. Peterson, of Spruce Pine, representative from Mitchell county.
4. Early in the year 1942, Mrs. J. M. Candler, of the North Carolina State Department of Motor Vehicle Registration, introduced a bill which was passed in 1942. The bill was signed by Governor Brantley in 1942. The bill was signed by Governor Brantley in 1942.
5. In 1942, the North Carolina legislature passed a law which gave the State the right to regulate the practice of medicine.

is set forth in Schedule E of the return Form 1040, and in Instruction 10 accompanying the return form. The normal tax is 6 per cent of the "balance subject to normal tax," whatever the amount. For persons filing a Simplified Return the normal tax and surtax, as well as the earned income credit, have been consolidated into one computation, which is set forth in a table on the back of the return for each size class of income, so that it is necessary only to refer to this table to determine the correct amount of tax due. Any individual whose total income for the year 1942 is in excess of $3,000 and was not in salary, wages or other compensation, his personal service, dividends, interest or annuities, may file a Simplified Return (Form 1040A).

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

No. 11 NORMAL TAX AND SURTAX The Federal income tax is calculated on the taxable income of the taxpayer, which is his gross income less certain deductions and exemptions. The normal tax is 6 per cent of the taxable income. The surtax is 12 per cent of the taxable income over $2,000 and not over $4,000, 20 per cent of the taxable income over $4,000 and not over $6,000, 25 per cent of the taxable income over $6,000 and not over $8,000, and 30 per cent of the taxable income over $8,000. The rate increases as the amount of taxable income increases. The computation of the tax for each income class is given in a table accompanying the return form.
