HARP IN THE NIGHT.

The night is a harp in silence,
The wind-breaks a single word,
The crystallized ring by the moss rimmed spring.
Is the quiet bell-note of a bird,
The bird says, "Weep," in the darkness,
The wind sighs: "You," through the night,
And only the still moon-drift on the hill.
Is left me of past delight,
But the harp of the silence wakens
With sound in the moon-grayed dew,
And, over the bird and the wind,
Sings tenderly, "Sweet," and "True,"
Kate Remine Archer.
