Bible Teachers Map Enlarged Program

Charlotte, July 31.—Charlotte officials of the North Carolina Public School Bible Teachers association, meeting here this week, made plans for an enlarged weekday religious education program. The group, headed by Miss Frances Query, formerly of this city but now a full-time Bible teacher in Durham, considered plans for the establishment of a Bible teachers' placement bureau and the raising of the standards of all Bible teachers in the state. The association also voted on a program of plans for making the association an integral part of the North Carolina Educational association.

Religious Index To Be Made of Durham

Durham, July 31.—The Durham Council of Churches has completed plans for a new and unique type of religious census. Instead of the usual type survey which in this day of fast-moving people is out of date sometimes before it is completed, the council proposes a plan which will always be up to date. A part-time director has been employed and the city has been divided into districts. Voluntary districts will supervise each district and will be broken down into sections and blocks. The districts will be responsible for providing a listing of all churches, synagogues, and other religious organizations in each district. It is expected that the initial census will be completed by August 15 and will provide the religious index of the city and its districts.

Christian Youth Council Reorganized

Charlotte, July 31.—The North American Council of Christian Youth Movement has reorganized the Charlotte branch of the organization. The new organization was organized here at a meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. King, president of the local church. The new organization will have as its purpose to provide a program of religious and social activities for the youth of the city. The organization will be organized into districts and will have as its purpose to provide a program of religious and social activities for the youth of the city. Moravians to Get Welcome in London

Ker esville, July 31.—Among the many American activities to visit London these days there happen to be some Moravians. Two of them, who are members of Trinity church in Winston-Salem, wrote home that they had tried successfully to locate a Moravian church while they were visiting in the British city. That bit of information found its way into The Wachovia Moravian, edited by Rev. Walter Allen of this city, and that week eventually led it to the hands of a Moravian pastor in London, the Rev. Edgar Brown. Thereupon Mr. Brown wrote to The Wachovia Moravian.

The London compiler expressed his appreciation for the American church journal but declared that his pleasure in reading it was "a little clouded" by learning that American Moravians had been unable to find a Moravian church in London.

wonder," he said, "whether you would publish the telephone numbers of our two remaining London churches, for the help of other such visitors and assure them of a very warm welcome."
In its current issue The Wachovia Moravian publishes the telephone numbers: Mountview 6860 and Grangewood 0819. Just proving further that it's a small world after all.

Moving Pictures Feature Instruction in Bible School

Winston-Salem, July 31.—The vacation Bible school of the First Baptist church here departed from its usual procedures this year by featuring a moving picture each day as one of the chief parts of its program. The pictures depicted the work of various Baptist missionary projects at home and abroad. During the handwork period the children made gifts to be sent to one of the missionary projects which they studied.

Delinquents Aid Farmers

Daily Dispatch Bureau. In the Sir Walter Hotel. By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, July 31.—Joe Neese, head of the division of correction and institutions in the Department of Charity and Public Welfare, counsels the movement in many counties to get juvenile delinquents out of the farms.

The matter is a local welfare authority, he said, and that work of very satisfactory in a number of instances. The usual plan is to set up a camp where the boys, of both, separate camps being used where required to keep under close supervision. During the day they work on nearby farms, either in groups or singly. The latter usually the camp because the regular wages for such work, the camp manager deducts actual costs of maintenance and gives the balance to the boy or girl doing the work.

Neese can see no reason why a good many town boys and girls might not be used on farms even without the camp idea. If the county welfare superintendent is satisfied with conditions around the farm, delinquents might be paroled in care of the farmer.
This type of labor is not greatly desired, since the town kids seldom know anything about farm work. There are some jobs they can do and often their help is better than none. Meantime the outdoor life, the physical exercise, regular hours and wholesome food are just what the youngsters need to build sound bodies and characters.
Any step that tends to alleviate the two chief problems of the state right now—juvenile delinquency and scarcity of labor—is worth serious study and a fair trial, according to welfare workers. Assignment of youthful delinquents to farm work might be the answer to both problems in many cases.

Although there are indications that the amount of sugar available for rationing is increasing and that future ration allowances may be more generous, sugar ration stamp No. 14 in war book one will be good for but five pounds of sugar, in the period from August 16 to November 1, the Henderson Chamber of Commerce has been officially advised. This is no change from the past, fractionally less than a half-pound per week per person.

Posthumous Award For Oxford Flier

Oxford, July 31.—Captain Leonard Hubert Knott, Granville County aviator who was listed as missing after his plane was lost at sea early in May, will be honored posthumously here Sunday.
Mrs. Len H. Knott, mother of the lost flier, has been advised by the War Department that an official will be on hand at Enon Baptist church, near here, Sunday at noon to award the Air Medal, posthumously, in honor of Captain Knott's achievements.
The memorial service will be conducted by the Rev. W. D. Poe, pastor of the church, assisted by a chaplain from Camp Butler.
Captain Knott, a graduate of State College, entered the Army Air Force two years ago and was assigned to duty in South America at the time of his last flight. His plane was reported down at sea May 9, and a search for survivors proved futile according to information received by Mrs. Knott from the War Department.

It is doubtful that the brigade will be called on to face any emergency not covered in the course of training during the maneuvers.
General Metts was high in his praise of the manner in which the enlisted personnel of the guard went about the duties of camp life. He added that the officers also "showed a knack for military life."
"A number of business members of the guard, their faces red from exposure to the sun, told me that if it wasn't for the press of business at home, they would like to remain in camp for at least another 10-day period," the general said.
General Metts made the statement on his return to Raleigh yesterday from Fort Bragg, where he camped the breaking up of the encampment and making adjustments with army officials.
The course of study for the guard, the general said, was such that

FOR THE WAY OF LIFE WE LOVE THIS SUNDAY

Come to Church

COMING HOME—He used to come home from the office each day with a hug for Sally and a kiss for you. When he comes home again it will be in uniform from a land that is far away. To speed the coming of Victory and a lasting Peace, come to the church of your faith this Sunday and every Sunday to ask for Divine Guidance. You can be with him in spirit by so doing, for he, too, is attending Divine Worship half a world from home.
