

State Guard Company Is Host At Dinner, Drill

Regimental Band and Company Present Program; Steak Dinner Is Also Served

Members of Henderson's three civic clubs and a number of other guests, including State officials of the organization, were guests of the Henderson company of the State Guard at the National Guard Armory Thursday evening for a steak supper and drill and demonstration of the work of the militia unit. Some 200 in all were present.

Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs dispensed with their regular weekly dinner meetings to attend the function, and most of their members were in attendance.

The regimental band in command of Lieutenant W. T. Heaslip, gave a demonstration of drill work and played many numbers immediately after the guests arrived. The Henderson company also went through their exercises on the drill field in front of the armory.

Afterwards the entire group was served in Army style in the mess hall, with all the trimmings. Long tables and benches had been prepared in the truck sheds adjacent to the drill hall.

At the dinner, Brigadier General James W. Jenkins, in command of the Fourth Cavalry State Guard, of Henderson, was master of ceremonies and presented distinguished guests.

In addition to the civic clubs and State Guard officials, representatives of the Vance Board of County Commissioners and of the Henderson City Council were guests and were recognized.

The city at address of the occasion was by Colonel W. W. Sharp, of Greensboro, in command of the first regiment of the State Guard. He told of the work of the organization in the absence of so many men from their homes in training the citizen soldiers, and said that there would be need for replacements in the near future as many companies will lose some of their members to the armed services.

The dinner was prepared under direction of Sergeant C. P. Sellers, mess sergeant for the local company.

Adjutant General J. Van B. Metts, of Raleigh, State director of the selective service system, a Judge R. Hunt, Durham, county holding supervisor, presided over the special event for the evening and were recognized by General Jenkins.

Chief of R. C. Young, of the local company, introduced the various formations of the evening, as well as extending a welcome to guests for the occasion.

Chairman R. E. Clements, of the county civilian defense organization, called attention to the forthcoming drive for scrap and other waste materials to be collected for the defense program and the war effort.

Thursday's Leaf Price Highest Yet

Thursday, October 7, 1943: 321,992 pounds for $134,692.61, average $41.41.

3,106,386 pounds for $1,972,608.97, average $38.63.

1942 Comparison: Thursday, October 8, 1942: 316,582 pounds for $139,611.51, average $44.10.

Season to date, 1942: 9,141,256 pounds for $3,626,157.61, average $39.78.

The Henderson market hit a new daily high average for the season today on Thursday, with a $41.41 average according to Sales Supervisors Victor H. Surgenor. This is the third new daily high this week. Wednesday also broke a record for all previous days and reached the fourth consecutive day above $41.

While there was a minor lull on the market today, it was not considered serious by the supervisor who said it would be cleared without difficulty on Monday. Prices continued strong on today's market, with new strength here and there along the line. Weekly volume exceeded 400,000 pounds and the average continued above $41, Surgenor said.

Because of the tight sale day the supervisor urges farmers to even out the flow of leaf to market. There is no reason for panicking the markets, Henderson and elsewhere, on Friday and Monday, when the market have shown that the prices are as strong as ever on the other week days.

The week had new high averages on both Tuesday and Thursday, with almost a high on Wednesday, to prove that prices are just as good in mid-week and the chances of an even sale and no lull are much better in mid-week. Surgenor stated.

Advertisers are particularly urged by the local business organization to be sure that any publication not personally known to the advertiser carries a second class entry notice from the Post Office Department.
