

Henderson And Oxford Battle To Scoreless Tie

Game Played In Oxford In Night Affair Friday

Both Teams Get Near to Pay Dirt But Neither Is Able to Cash In

The Oxford-Henderson football meeting ended in a scoreless tie last night on the Oxford home ground as both teams fought up and down the field to no avail.

The game got underway at 7 o'clock when Oxford kicked to Henderson with Johnny Allen taking the kick. Allen ran the ball to his own 25, but after four downs Oxford took over about midway in the field.

Throughout the first half neither team worked into a scoring position. Henderson used mostly zone plays with Allen getting no more than 10 yards toward the cotton cup. But White Harris was the outstanding ball carrier for Oxford. The end of the first half found both teams tied at 0-0.

At the second half Henderson's attack got off to a start when Henderson's fullback, Ed Smith, ran for 20 yards to Oxford's 40. But after three downs made Henderson's drive come to an end and put out a drive that carried the ball to the Oxford 30. The play was a while back in the last part of the game after the team was attacked by Henderson.

Henderson's starting lineup was as follows:

Position	Name
Left End	Harbrett
Left Tackle	Becky
Left Guard	Vanaman
Center	McDowell
Right Guard	Tucker
Right Tackle	Henderson
Right End	Tolson
Fullback	Allen
Halfback	Thompson

Governor Is Displeased On Tobacco

In the Sir Walter Hotel, Daily Dispatch Bureau, BY LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Oct. 23.—Gov. Broughton makes no effort to conceal his displeasure at the course of the tobacco market during the past few days. Early in the week he issued appeals to tobacco growers, warehousemen and others connected with the industry that they curtail marketing of tobacco until the market is better. When the selling season opened OPA fixed a ceiling price that, naturally, was regarded by most farmers as a guarantee that their product would be fairly stable throughout the season. Acting upon this idea many growers did not wish to be bound by the price and first attention to other crops. Some did put their land to pasture. The situation that has developed within the past week of marketing is, therefore, a matter of regret to the governor.

By the time the tobacco harvest is in full swing, the market will be in a position to handle the crop. It is not, however, a matter of regret to the governor that the market is in a position to handle the crop. Proposal To Move Highway Shops Bitter

Raleigh, Oct. 23.—Open hearing by the State Highway Commission on the proposal to move the state highway shops from Stateville to Shelby resulted in charges by Stateville citizens that the commission's official reports were inaccurate and counterfeited by certain commissioners. That the charges be substantiated or withdrawn with apology.

Not a result was adoption of a motion made by Commissioner Max Watson of the north district that an assessment be designated by the Federal county commissioners and by the highway commission an assessment to determine which set of figures is correct. Members of the proposed transfer of the shop equipment will be held in discussion.

The question is still open and a vote will be taken on the proposal. When Governor Broughton last week requested the highway commission to move the shops from Stateville to Shelby, the more shops were left in the Shelby area. Stateville citizens are bitter because they would not be able to get their goods from the shops. The highway commission is bitter because it would not be able to get its goods from the shops.

MYERS AND MILLNER PROVIDE PUNCH TO DUKE'S LINE

Ducham, Oct. 22. When it comes to great old-fashioned line football, just fans would have to go a country mile to find any better disciples of it than Jim Myers and Bill Miller who have been doing a lion's share of the work at the point blank for Coach Eddie Cameron's Duke Blue Devils line.

Officials are moving heaven and earth to obtain voluntary cooperation and honest production to escape rationing coal. For example, "dumplings" long known to coastal cities will increase familiar to inland residents when the transportation program starts at coming rate and electricity estimates are that four million tons of coal will be saved by reducing electric power consumption.

WBH action Chicago State Street as one of the "bright light" areas to come under the shadow of war. Merchants there have pledged cooperation beyond the point requested by the government and shop windows and signs will reflect the war effort.

CO-CAPTAIN OF CLOUDBUSTERS

Cadet Cecil Hare (above), ex-Washington Redskin pro star, was expected to provide much of the offensive punch for the Navy Pre-Flight Cloudbusters when they tackled the Georgia (Athens) Navy Pre-Flight Skyrockets at Chapel Hill this afternoon. Hare, who acted as co-captain, played with Gonzaga College before going into professional play. He is a fullback. (U. S. Navy Photo.)

ODD FACTS IN CAROLINA

Perhaps the most significant statement was when Zed Tullington quoted the late Charles W. Tillet as saying it was "as important to recognize people they are getting justice as to give them justice. People in Fredell county think they have been treated wrong if they are shown otherwise they will cause consternation. That brought about the suggested solution of a double check on figures as to how much will be saved by moving the highway shops."

Kidnapped Sheriff Will Likely Bring Back His Abductor

In the Sir Walter Hotel, Daily Dispatch Bureau, BY LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Oct. 23.—Sheriff George H. Andrews of Chatham county will have more than a cold official interest in bringing back from Georgia one Hugh Gibson, alias Bob O'Connell, alias two or three other names, if Governor Arnall honors the extradition request forwarded this week by Governor Broughton.

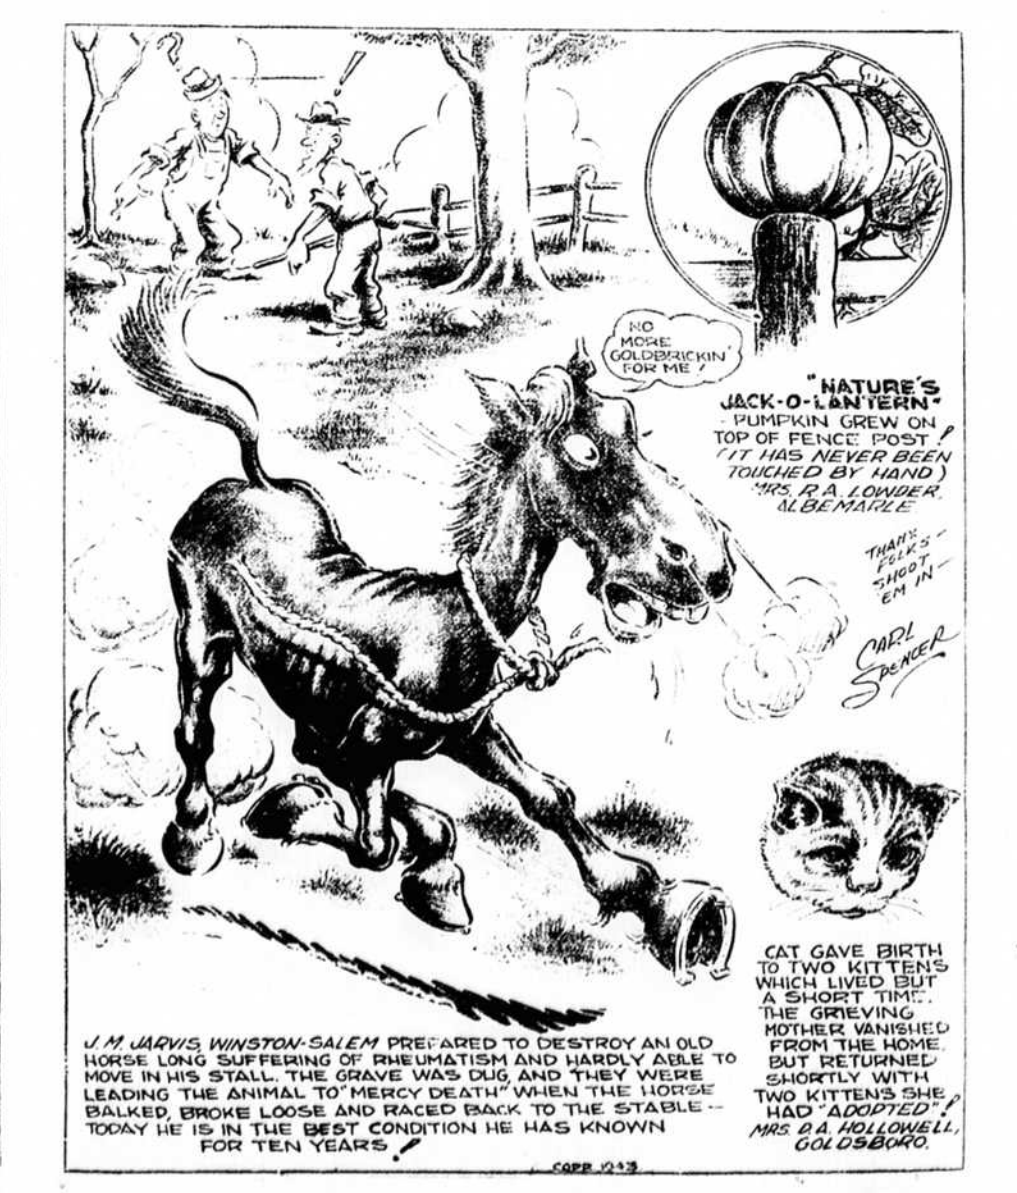

Gibson is wanted in this State to stand trial on a charge of kidnapping and resisting arrest four years ago and the man he kidnapped was Sheriff George Andrews. It's an interesting story.

About Christmas time 1939 the Chatham sheriff heard that Gibson (the name he was known by there) was making liquor in the county. The sheriff went out to get him. Gibson quickly pulled a gun, took the sheriff's gun from him, forced him into a car and made him drive out of the county. Then he unloaded the gun, handed it back to the sheriff after taking his other bullets, jumped out of the car and ran.

In January, 1940, he was indicted by the Chatham grand jury for kidnapping and resisting arrest. Meantime, Gibson made his way to the Georgia State Prison at Thomasville. His sentence is about up now, and this State has laid a "detractor" against him, pending hearing on the extradition. Sheriff Andrews has been designated as agent for the State to go after him.

The governor's office has done a rushing business in extraditions recently. Most of them deal with cases of non-support and abandonment, although more serious offenses are involved in several instances. Some counties are slow to inaugurate extradition proceedings for misdemeanors, since in those cases the county must bear the cost. The State pays the cost in felonies.
