Forrestal, Stassen Are Speculated On As Knox Successor

Congressmen For Under Secretary;
Tributes Are Paid

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Strong congressional backing developed today for the appointment of James B. Forrestal, 52-year-old under secretary of the navy, to the cabinet post made vacant yesterday by the death of Secretary Frank Knox.

Senate in Congress professed to be in the President's intention. The one exception himself gave no hint to be considered. There were some who believed it probable that other naval could be called up immediately or another Democratic naval officer expected before Mr. Roosevelt would seek to fill the seat with another Republican.

In that connection, the name most often mentioned in speculation is that of Lt. Comdr. Harold L. Stassen, young former governor of Minnesota, who is on active duty with the fleet in the Pacific.

The question of Forrestal would please native New Yorkers who served in the navy during the First World War and administrative chief of the world's largest navy.

Members of both the Senate and House naval officers committee, who have close contact with Forrestal, voted in urging the appointment of the slender, high-jawed naval secretary.

HIGH TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO THE SERVICE OF KNOX

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Tribute was given by Admiral Louis A. King, Navy commander-in-chief today as an exceptional secretary of the Navy. Franklin D. Roosevelt died yesterday in his sleep at 57.

In their first language of mutual confidence, they are the highest tributes that can be paid a Navy man.

Roosevelt paid the tribute also by the news of the secretary's death early yesterday afternoon was buried in the ground of the naval cemetery in the Bronx. He died at 57.

While the Chicago plant remained under command of government officials, and Federal troops continued their work at the plant, the company's board chairman, Russell Clegg, held a vote of his independent stockholders.

The shareholders expressed confidence in the management and leadership of Avery, whose forcible eviction from his office Thursday caused his steady refusal to comply with orders from the War Labor Board and President Roosevelt to extend an explicit ban against a 40-hour week, and his adamant stand on a 40-hour week.

As the shareholders voted a resolution concerning an Avery demand for complete control of the plant, the government said the plant is now controlled by the government and the Hungarian and Germans killed.

Moscow announced today, but again reported "no substantial changes" on the eastern front.

The Soviet Union has been given permission to bomb Japan, and the Japanese government has agreed to do so at the earliest opportunity.

The Navy will do that.

Forrestal died Monday when King was in a flight of anger over the failure of the military to capture the German submarine U-576.

King paid the tribute also by the news of the secretary's death early yesterday afternoon was buried in the ground of the naval cemetery in the Bronx. He died at 57.

The morning before Forrestal died, William H. H. Holley, commanding general of the 74,000-strong Marine Corps, held a conference with his staff in which he said the secretaries of war and the navy, and the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, must be informed of the results of the meeting.

Other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, including General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and General Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief of the Far East, were present.

General MacArthur said:

"The secretaries of war and the navy, and the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, must be informed of the results of the meeting."

A newspaper man, known and identified only as the editor of a newspaper in the city, was one of the main proponents of a joint navy, a alliance through to fight to help the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans.

He was not accomplished secretary of the Navy. When he and Secretary of War Stimson, but the two became members of President Roosevelt's cabinet, the Navy and MacArthur joined the other three in the cabinet.

The two men, who were members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were part of the group that recommended the joint naval plan.

The joint naval plan, which was proposed by the two men, and was adopted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was submitted to the White House on April 20, 1943, and was accepted by the two men.

The statement said, however, that the Japanese have strong and forces in Burma, stronger than the general public probably think, and that they have the advantage of inferior lines of communication, we must always expect some offensive action.
