From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
How Different Will be Post-war Homes?

Matt Deery, our local carpenter, has been showing us architect's drawings of the kind of post-war houses that we're going to live in. Some of them look like squarish domes; some are streamlined like they were going to fly. And they're all filled with fancy things like air-conditioning and whatnot.

"Sure change our home life?" Matt says importantly.

"Shucks," says Dan Mason, "it isn't the shape of a house or the windows in it, that make up your home life."

"What is it then?" says Matt.

"It's the little things," says Dan. "Like a well-worn chair before the fire—and a good book—and a friendly glass of beer after a hard day's work. Little things, that are a part of living."

From where I sit, Dan's absolutely right. And I think the men who dream of home from overseas agree—that it's the small, familiar pleasures, that add up to home.
