

Double Sales Begun On Tobacco Market

Offerings Still Heavy and Prices Continuing High

Double sales began on the Henderson tobacco market today to continue through the remainder of the season, after the market had operated last Thursday and Friday, first two auction days, with a single set of buyers.

A vegetable load of tobacco was on warehouse floors for sale and a good deal of it was left off for sale tomorrow and Wednesday. It is room as it could be disposed of. Numerous truckloads of new New York in this afternoon also are available.

Prices today held firm and growers were well pleased with bids on their offerings.

Volume of leaf in warehouses brought many growers within a week of having all day and some morning lot floor space for their offerings to be received.

While the market operated on a seven-hour day the first two days, selling hours were extended to three and one-half, beginning today, and to continue through the rest of the season.

Cannon Shell Lamp Reminder of 1918 Victory of Allies

While he was searching the attic, Cary Bane, 50-year-old Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bane, young women, found an old iron shell lamp, a reminder of the 1918 victory over the allied forces. The lamp was made from a 75 mm shell. The base and shade were made from materials other than the common shell.

On the dusty, browned cylindrical surface was the inscription "Victory, November 11, 1918. They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Baptist Pastor Names Four C's Of Enlightenment

"The Four C's of Enlightenment" was the topic of Rev. E. Norless Gardner, pastor of the Baptist church at his evening service yesterday. The four C's he explained as elements of growth.

The first C he named as civilization, which is the act of relationship of man's life, he defined. "One of the great dangers in the development of civilization was that man tried to do without God," the pastor stated.

"Culture is the second C of enlightenment; culture, the inner life of man. Too often culture is just veneer and is not what springs from the inner man.

The third C, character, needs to be established firmly in one's life," Rev. Mr. Gardner urged. Explaining the difference between character and reputation, he stated that character is what a man is and that reputation is what others think he is.

The fourth and most important C he gave as Christianity. "It needs to permeate all of man's life and all of the other elements of growth," he concluded.

Meeting To Plan Entertainment Of Service Men Here

The Couples club of the First Presbyterian church will be host to representatives from churches and civic organizations of the city next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the church for further discussion of plans for housing visiting service men in the city during week-ends.

Mr. Arnold Stewart, post relations officer of Camp Butler, will be present, together with the post commander, Capt. Burton, it was stated.

Dinner will be served to the group and discussions will follow.

Expected to attend are representatives of the following organizations: First Methodist church, W. B. Beasley and Mrs. Mary Gaven; First Christian church, Mr. and Mrs. Joan Allen Hall; First Baptist church, Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Burton; First Presbyterian church, Mrs. Mabel Baxendale and J. H. T. P. A. MEMBERS HAVE BARBECUE

Post 1 of the T. P. A. held its annual barbecue dinner and get-together meeting Friday evening, September 22, at the Armory, which was largely attended by members from Henderson, Warrenton, Louisburg and Oxford. More than 220 of the 326 members of the post were present for the dinner, which was said by old timers to be largest gathering of members ever held by the post.

The meeting was presided over by Elliott G. Shaw, president of Post 1, who introduced the guests and speakers. Short talks were made by Mayor Henry T. Powell and Rev. Ray Holder, chaplain of Post 1, and R. P. Rawley of Winston-Salem, secretary of the North Carolina Division of the T. P. A. Mr. Rawley, who is well known in Henderson, expressed himself as being delighted to see so many T. P. A. members, and stressed the fact that a T. P. A. fellowship is now a very valuable asset. In addition to the fellowship offered by the membership, the insurance feature of a membership is worth just twice as much as it was a year ago, and all of this at no extra cost, Mr. Rawley said.

Arrangements for the dinner and meeting were in charge of Elliott G. Shaw, W. H. Halthcock and Paul Stainback, secretary of Post 1.

37,300 Pounds Of Paper Taken In By The Legion

A total of 37,300 pounds of waste paper was collected during the American Legion drive. A. P. Barnes, county chairman, reported today. The drive ended September 17, but the amount collected had not been tabulated because paper is still coming in, Mr. Barnes stated.

This is the largest collection of waste paper to be made in any one drive in the community, and although it fell short of its goal of 100,000 pounds, the Legion considered the drive a success and expressed appreciation to citizens of the city and county who cooperated in the drive.

Another paper drive is to be launched in October by the Business and Professional Women's club, and citizens are asked to continue saving paper for this collection.

Zoning Plan In Council

A zoning plan for Henderson is to be introduced by the Henderson City Council this evening at its monthly meeting, it was learned today. The plan was presented at the August meeting and was referred to a committee for study and a report tonight.

Other than consideration of this proposal, business to come before the meeting is expected to consist mostly of routine.

1944 Golden Belt Fair Opens Here For A Week

The 1944 Golden Belt Fair opened here today to operate for the week. The fair was resumed after a lapse of two years on account of wartime conditions, and, as usual, combines agricultural exhibits with the attractions of the midway.

One feature of the fair is a livestock exhibit to be held Wednesday afternoon for Four-H club members of the county, in which a considerable sum of money has been offered in premiums for the best animals exhibited. State College animal husbandry experts are to come here to judge the livestock, in the afternoon.

Wednesday will be school day, all school children will be admitted without price from Vance and the surrounding counties of Warren, Franklin and Granville, and Mecklenburg county, Virginia.

F. L. Fleming, president, C. M. Hault, secretary and Alfred Plummer, vice-president, are in charge of the fair.

Midway attractions are furnished by Bantley's All-American Shows under the title, "The 1944 on Review." Educational features and entertainment are offered to all fair visitors.

In the exhibit hall will be shown agricultural field crops, displays by 4-H clubs and vocational classes in the several schools of the county.

The management promises a fair well up to the usual standard of excellence in other years.
