Congscription Opposition Is Mounting

Military Training
In Peacetime Being Strongly Resisted

Washington, Nov. 14—(AP)—A mountain of opposition has piled up against plans of congressional leaders to seek early action on legislation to require military training in peacetime.

So formidable has it become that backers of the proposal say they would just as soon postpone consideration until some time next year.

Earlier plans have called for action soon on a bill providing that every youth take a year of military training upon reaching the age of 18. Senator Johnson, of the Senate Military Committee, told reporters he would regard enactment of the bill as "a display of an utter lack of faith in maintaining future peace."

Johnson suggested the training of young volunteer pilots annually to meet a strong air force.

The War Department, through Secretary Stimson, has sent to Capitol Hill a request for continuation of the existing provision of the articles of war, in which Stimson made this statement:

"On the question of universal conscription training in the United States during the postwar period has not yet been determined, the necessity for a much larger postwar military establishment than previously maintained is evident."

The size of the postwar army is one of the problems being studied by the committee. Most of its members feel that, with universal training and a resulting pool of trained soldiers, a big professional army will be unnecessary. Many opponents of the legislation have come from businessmen, educators and religious groups who have theorized the military's needs with petitions and letters. Endorsements have been received from the American Legion and other veterans' organizations.

$400 Million FDR's First Money Appeal

Washington, Nov. 14—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today to add approximately $400,000,000 to funds previously appropriated for more than a score of Federal agencies.

The total includes $339,112,453 for the Navy Department, the bulk of which was for the Bureau of Yards and Docks. There was no detail on how the funds would be used.

Other items, including $13,900,000 for the Treasury Department, $80,000,000 for the army, $15,000,000 for the Federal Works Agency, $11,200,000 for the Interior Department and $7,400,000 for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. The Interior Department figure included money for surveys and studies of Alaska resources, with a view to encouraging settlement in the territory; money for work on the Colorado-Big Thompson reclamation project in Colorado, and money for work on the Columbia River project in Washington.

Encirclement Of Budapest Speeding Up

Budapest, Nov. 14—(AP)—Russian forces have driven into the important rail city of Jaszbereny, 37 miles east of Budapest, and are encircling the enemy in hand-to-hand fighting, front dispatches said today.

The Germans were reported hurling in numerous new tanks and scores of anti-tank weapon in an attempt to check the Soviet drive to outflank the Hungarian capital. The Nazis were offering the most determined armored resistance since the big tank clashes in which they were beaten back last month.

The Germans admitted Soviet units had penetrated into Jaszbereny, but asserted the attackers were hurled back.

Congress Gets Off To Very Slow Start After Re-Convening

Famous Actress III

Neither Senate Nor House Will Be Much Until Another Week

Washington, Nov. 14—(AP)—Legislators got away to a thumbtiddling start today on the final session of the 78th Congress.

The Democratic high command on Capitol Hill had an appointment with President Roosevelt this morning to talk over the legislative picture. Right now it is a little dim, for neither Senate nor house is tackling any weighty legislation this week.

A few odds and ends, such as a Federal road bill in the House and ports and harbors and flood control measures in the Senate, are ready for action, but members are not.

With the routing of getting started again out of the way, the Senate planned to recess until Monday, and then until Monday.

There isn't anything doing in the House this week either. The talk was that the round-tripping up would be a measure to extend the session no powers met. The law, authority, money and all that expresses the end of the year. Even Republicans themselves are controversy about keeping it alive.

Long before the winter sets in, leading more to the future than the present, it will be the next Congress, convening January 3, which is all probability will take the major program for a second regular session. Heading these is likely to be the sixty million jobs which Mr. Roosevelt mentioned during his tenth term campaign as his goal.

War Output Here Is Not Fast Enough

Washington, Nov. 14—(AP)—General Dwight Eisenhower's forces are being 500 tanks and 600 trucks a month, says Under Secretary of War Patterson.

And Eisenhower is "impervious" to the claim that his production is less than those producing. Patterson told a news conference, explaining that the general should have 3,000 tons a day for adequate support.

Patterson gave this general picture:

"Our antiaircraft ammunition production has tripled since January 1 but need has arisen even faster. Other equipment essential if we are to insure our offensive is running short, despite rising outputs. We are short on tent cloth, airborne radar equipment and other important items."

"Our war production job still is enormous," with the Army alone letting new contracts since January 1 at a yearly rate of more than $83,000,000. Butfield stock piles of some vital materials are being depleted because there are no reserves in this country. The materials are depleted as fast as they are produced."

"The problem does not result because any one is falling down, he said. Requirements were met on most parts of the supply program.

"The war needs for revenue," Douglass told newspaper men, "has not changed. It looks to me like we had better go along as we are until we get further light on future revenue needs. More revision at this time, in my opinion, would mean more uncertainty to business."

Jap Soldiers Are Slaughtered All Escape In Trap Sprung By Americans Roads Under Shell Fire

Big Concentrations Of Reinforcements Sent in by Enemy

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 14—(AP)—Japanese reinforcements and equipment became a bloody shambles in Limon today when trapped by an American artillery barrage as doughboys moved on the Ormoc road town from three sides.

Observers in Grotto ridge near Limon village, where the bodies of more than 600 dead Japanese soldiers were counted, described the fight as very large concentrations of tanks and guns rolling in columns of Japanese reinforcements. American artillery rained destruction the night and today the town was a mass of flaming wreckage and smoldering rubble.

Major General Fred Irving, 21st division commander, told an Associated Press war correspondent he was reluctant to say the Japanese force in Limon had been knocked out. He added, however, the prospects were bright for American forces if the Japanese had been eliminated.

The Japanese force consists of two divisions, according to General MacArthur's command. A full division, though, may consist of only 10,000 to 12,000 men, so that may account for the heavy losses in the attack.

MacArthur said the Japanese probably will not attack again but probably will. American forces had planned their offensive plan for a counteroffensive, including the Japanese, to prevent any surprise attack on the defenseless town of Leyte.
