

Education Meet Is Held At Duke On Future Plans

Durham, Aug. 22.—The North Carolina Education Association Summer conference of the colleges of Eastern North Carolina was held at Duke University on August 20. This was one of three one-day conferences held throughout the state, the other two were held at Catawba College in Salisbury and Warren H. Wilson Vocational Junior college in Swannanoa.

The meet, sponsored by the committee on college cooperation, which is under the direction of Dr. B. G. Childs of Duke University, was an all-day affair. The morning session, which was presided over by Holland Holton, director of summer schools at Duke, was devoted to an opening address and a forum on critical problems facing colleges. Included in the discussion were suggested treatments for curriculum revision, teacher certification, requirements, and veterans' education, counseling, and others. Particular attention was paid to the discussion of a "name problem," "Federal Legislation Affecting Colleges."

Among the points touched in the controversy were: Proposed Federal grants to colleges and universities (public and private), promotion of research, amendments to the G. I. Bill of Rights and the compulsory military training question.

Following a luncheon recess the group discussed the work of the North Carolina Education Association and possibilities of a department of higher education. This phase of the group's activity was led by two eminent authorities in the field of education. They were Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, executive secretary of the National Education Association and Dr. J. Harold Goldthorpe of the American Council on Education.

YANKS NOT TO TAKE NEW ATOMIC BOMB ON JAPAN INVASION

Manila, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The world's deadliest weapon, the atomic bomb has probably made its last appearance in this war.

There is no reason for further use of the bomb, say reliable authorities, on the basis of any foreseeable development in concluding peace with Japan. The devastating weapon will be classified as "General MacArthur's occupation."

Plans are going forward to make the occupation a well-coordinated operation involving tens of thousands of Americans.

The high command obviously would not risk carrying atomic bombs in a bomber covering landing forces.

Landing forces will be prepared for any eventuality, but if trouble comes it undoubtedly will come only from relatively small bands of hot-headed fanatics.

The atomic bomb was designed to wipe out whole cities, factory areas, and naval bases and patently it is not practical as a weapon against small groups.

Americans have demonstrated that they are as anxious as the Japanese to make this peace stick. Hence, obviously, they would not use a weapon which would wipe out thousands of innocent civilians and probably rekindle a full-scale war.

VERNON M. RENN IS AWARDED AIR MEDAL

Staff Sergeant Vernon M. Renn has recently been awarded the Air Medal in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, his fellow American airmen, his country, his home, it was learned here today. Renn was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in the Pacific area from December 21, 1944, to February 22, 1945. The citation stated: "These operations, consisting of bombing missions against enemy air bases as well as attacks on naval and cargo vessels, aided considerably in the present successes in this theatre."

The citation was sent by General George C. Kearney from the headquarters in the Far East Air Forces. Renn is the son of Roy H. Renn, Route 1, Henderson.

NEW BERN TO TEST NEW INSECTICIDE

New Bern, Aug. 22.—New Bern is one of four North Carolina cities chosen for a thorough test of the new method of controlling and eradicating all types of harmful insects through the use of DDT, a new type of spray developed by the United States Army and used effectively during World War II.

Public health service representatives will make the test here in about two weeks, at no cost to the city or any of its citizens. Mayor L. C. Lawrence has been informed. They propose to cover the city house by house and block by block. In neighboring communities they will use the spray at homes where disease has been spread by insects. Wilson, Wilmington, Clinton and New Bern are reported to be the four cities selected for the tests in North Carolina, according to Mayor Lawrence. The material has already been used successfully at Cherry Point, he says.

The new insecticide comes in powder form. It is mixed with kerosene and used as a spray. It is said to eliminate almost completely all flies, mosquitoes, gnats, cockroaches, body lice, fleas, and all other pests of the kind. However, it is not harmful to animal life. Unless permission is withheld, it will be used inside local homes as well as through the streets.

NEWSPAPERS TOLD FULL ARMY STORY

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 22.—Newspapers of the Fourth Service Command performed an outstanding job in reporting news of service command activities, public relations officers at 30 major installations reported today.

A total of 24,555 newspaper pages not sold without advertising, were required to reproduce the news stories printed by newspapers in the twelve months of July, 1944, through June, 1945.

This is based on measured publication of news stories by papers published near the major Fourth Service Command installations and does not include a large volume of releases sent to papers circulating in other regions, it was announced.

The Commonsense Viewpoint About A Common Complaint

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

HABITUAL constipation or sluggish action of the intestines is a disorder of the colon or large bowel. Many people are constipated but few really suffer any pain or other symptoms from the condition, and those who do, suffer more in mind than in body.

According to Doctor T. L. Hardy of England, constipation, in practically all cases, is the result of faulty training. Individuals vary a great deal in the number of bowel movements they have each day. A survey was made of people between the ages of 14 and 63 years, and it was found that about one-half had a bowel action once a day, two-fifths more than once a day, and the remainder less often than once a day; yet, all of these people were normal in every way. In other words, being constipated does not depend on the frequency of the bowel action, but upon regularity and the absence of discomfort or undue effort.

Various Causes

Many things, such as change of occupation, change of climate, simple glandular disturbances, and emotional aspects, may disturb regularity of habit. It has been stated that, perhaps one of the most common causes of constipation is the suppression of the desire at various times during the day.

In treating constipation it is important that there be no feeling of anxiety because bowel action does not occur. Another factor which contributes to the development and maintenance of constipation is the wrong use of laxatives. In the survey referred to above it was found that about one-fourth of those studied took laxatives twice a week or more often. Some people take laxatives because they are afraid they may occasionally miss an action of the bowels. Then, there are others who begin the habit to get rid of a symptom, which they think is due to constipation, such as headache, tiredness or excessive gas in the intestines. There are still others who start the habit because they are influenced by advertising or in other ways.

Nervous Disorders

There is a certain type of constipation which is due to nervous disorders. This is called spastic constipation. The individual with this condition should endeavor to overcome the excessive nervousness. Strain, both emotional and physical, should be avoided, and the patient should be taught to have no anxiety concerning the matter of bowel action.

Diet is helpful in the treatment of all kinds of constipation. In the type due to nervousness, a bland diet should be used, that is, one which is free from highly-seasoned and bulky foods.

Severe constipation is a disorder which should be treated under the direction of a physician. He will decide what type of constipation is present and outline the treatment which will correct it most quickly.
