

Washington Delegation Asks Advice

By LYNN NISBET
Daily Dispatch Bureau

Raleigh, March 6.—Telegrams received by members of the council of state from Eric W. Rodgers, secretary of the Roanoke river flood control committee, advising that Senator Bailey had asked the council of state of the general assembly to advise their views with respect to action on the Roanoke flood control project, contained some surprise.

Attitude of members of Congress toward state legislative "requests" has usually been mild resentment rather than one of seeking advice. National legislators dislike pressure from state levels as much as state legislators resent pressure from Washington.

The last session of the North Carolina general assembly adopted nine resolutions memorializing Congress to do or not to do certain things and at least one asking the President to support a North Carolina "no" to a national bond.

The nine resolutions included two dealing with federal payments to state and county in lieu of taxes on federal owned lands, three dealing with labor-management relations, one dealing with the assistance in getting highway and port and another about tobacco taxes and one each asking for continuance of the national guard, for participation in treaty of majority vote of both houses of Congress in ratification of government contract system, and for a change in the constitution of the state in providing for a judicial council and for the House of Representatives to be elected by the people.

ENGINEERS NEEDED BY VETERANS AGENCY

A call for civil engineers and architects was issued today by James B. Cross, deputy administrator of the branch office.

Special facilities providing 3,422 beds for the battle of Blythe Hill, West Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia, Mr. Cross pointed out, adding that this construction program called for the services of numerous architects and engineers having adequate technical training and ability.

Plastics from bituminous coal are now being made into linoleum for floor coverings.

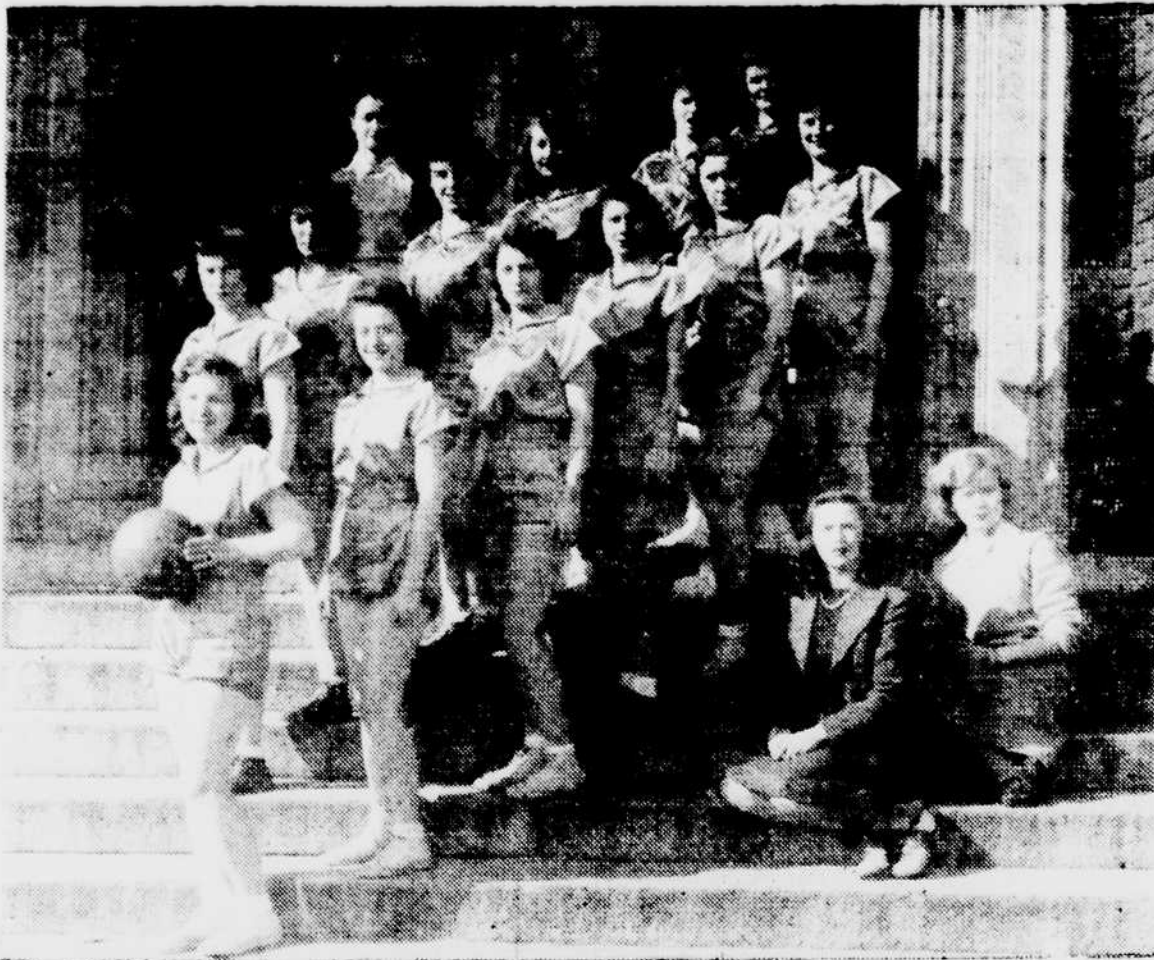

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Legion Did Not Emphasize Defense Enough, Beard Says

By LYNN NISBET
Daily Dispatch Bureau

Raleigh, March 6.—Bryce B. Beard of Salisbury, former state commander of the American Legion, said today that the Legion had not emphasized defense enough in its program.

The small audience left for today did not deter the Salisbury man from making a strong appeal for the Legion defense program, which includes at least one year's military training for every male citizen, and provision of adequate material of defense, such as atom bombs, airplanes and transports.

He doesn't think a large standing army is essential, but in the small regular force should be included the best scientific brains of the country, and there should be a trained reserve of the entire manhood of the nation.

The Legionnaire based his argument on the message delivered to the Congressional Congress in 1933 by George Washington in which the Father of our Country said: "It would be just doing us a temporary wrong and the basis of our system that every citizen who enjoys the protection of a free government owes not only a portion of his property but even of his personal services to the defense of it."

The Legion plan of defense calls for every boy upon reaching the age of 18 or upon graduation from high school to take four months basic training followed by eight months of advanced training with optional courses, the whole program to be administered under a civilian board appointed by the president.

U. S. Coast Guard Will Resume Its Ice Patrol Work

Norfolk, March 6.—The Coast Guard will resume its International Ice Patrol in the North Atlantic this month, according to an announcement by Admiral J. F. Farley, commander of the United States Coast Guard. With the end of the war and the resumption of peacetime commercial traffic over the North Atlantic, the need for protection against icebergs becomes increasingly important, and President Truman directed the Coast Guard to resume control of the international service of ice observation and ice patrol.

The International Ice Patrol was terminated on December 22, 1941, by reason of war conditions and disruption of normal maritime commerce, but a careful estimate of North Atlantic ice conditions was maintained throughout the year. Information concerning the northern areas involved by pack ice and icebergs was vital for the regulation of patrol craft and the routing of warships and convoys.

JAMES OLLIE NEWTON IS BURIED TUESDAY

Services were held at New Bethel Baptist church at Epsom yesterday afternoon for James Ollie Newton, who died at his home in the Sandy Creek community Monday. Rev. Talmadge Smith, pastor, was in charge of the services and interment was in the church cemetery.

The deceased was the son of Henry Allen and Martha Overton Newton and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lou Duke Newton, two sons, a sister and a brother.

Mr. Newton had been ill for about three years.

Honorary pallbearers for the services were George T. Roberson, O. W. Rennie, Robert Parnell, L. L. Stainback, Chancy Rennie, Walter Ayscue, J. H. Edwards, Wade Moss, Henry Mitchell, Claud Goodson and Henry Parks.

MRS. CHRISTIAN BURTON

The funeral of Mrs. Christian Burton, who died last Monday, will be held Thursday, March 7, at 2:30 o'clock at Flat Creek Baptist church.

Twenty-eight movie stars flew cross country together in a huge transport. What is surprising is that no autograph hunter managed to stow away on the plane.

Court Ends Short Term About Noon

Three-Day Session Is Presided Over By Judge Parker

After a session of two and a half days, the March criminal term of Vance Superior Court ended at noon today. Much of the docket was cleared, except for a few cases not ready for trial which were carried over to the next session.

Judge R. H. Parker presided, and S. L. E. H. Dyer presented the criminal docket.

H. W. Davis, Warsaw, a white man, was convicted by a jury to a term of drunken driving charges, and was fined $100 and costs and his driving license was revoked for a year.

James Crow, colored, who was convicted Monday of assault with a deadly weapon, was given a sentence today. He was fined $50 and costs and required to stay away from the home of Ida Steed.

A week of civil court is scheduled to open next Monday, with Judge John J. Burney, of Wilmington, presiding. The docket is light, except for 37 divorce suits set for hearing the first day.

Scene from "Life with Father," America's all-time comedy hit, now in its seventh year on Broadway. Pictured here are Willis Clark and Lily Cahill, currently starring.

"WHERE ARE THIS MONTH'S BILLS?"

"Speaking of money,"
Father thundered,
"where are this month's bills?"
"Clare," Vinnie pleaded,
"it isn't fair to go over the household accounts while you're hungry!"

POOR VINNIE! Was ever any wife so stormed at? How Father raged over the bills she ran up! But our guess is that if laughable, lovable Clare and Vinnie were keeping house today, one bill wouldn't bother him. . . . That's the electric bill.

For Father was a thrifty man. "Vinnie," he used to roar, "this is a matter of dollars and cents, and that's something you don't know anything about." But he knew about it. And he would have appreciated the fact that while the prices of most things went way up in war years, the average price of electricity actually came down. Plus the fact that the average family gets twice as much electric service for its money today as it did twenty years ago.

Being a practical man, Father would have realized the reason why. As he used to shout at Vinnie, "You know I like to live well, and I want my family to live well. But this house must be run on a business basis."

And that's exactly how your electric light and power companies are run. On a business basis. Almost certainly, America's Favorite Stage Character would have applauded America's business-managed, self-supporting electric companies.
