-Around Capital Square-

BY LTNN NISBET.

Daily Dispatch Bureau

Raleish, May 4.—Capitol square Geoded most of its time Friday to reviewing (and recovering nom) the Demonstrate state convention. Conthe provided and the majority, and clerks and average man on the street. He also is that if he had tarte to the street is the third and would end would end would end would end would end would end would be the base of the majority to the executioned and the majority is concerned about their forum he attend to the majority is the sector of the majority is the executioned and the in the street is the other and to income

FAFER-BOY - Gwyn Frice. director of the state rural electriffection program, is an avid assumer reader. He also has money-caving attribute of most maintaineers. He came out of a Paleich cating place the other night with a broad smile on his face. He had bought an attention paper as be entered the office, real it white entire an Curip supper and then nego-tiated a deal with the newsboy n his way out and resold the paper for fwo cents. He recommerds the idea to other news-Larer customer, who want to ead the news and save money

CHAPTER FHIRTY-FHREE | informed me disapprovingly. "Go-jz hunch date? No? Fine! Then let's

<text><section-header><section-header><section-header><section-header><section-header><section-header><section-header><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text>

fight with the Englisher' first, over watching me all morning, took pity changed." the way her lady carried on," she on me and asked casually: "Have

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR 1 dropped on a chair under their |Leighton, your former husband?" "EY THE WAY." the inspector continued, "have you seen Mrs. Knight since your roturn?" I havin t, and told him so, "Then do. The socier the better," he advised. "We've discovered some

Japanese Shrine Interests Occupation Troops

The Army Regulars pictured above are "taking in" the sights of e shrine at Shiogama, Honshu, in Japan. "Guardians of Victory" who join for three years have their choice of overseas theater.

Penicillin in Ointment Base

PENICILLIN nas proved to be such a wonderworker against serious general infections that everyone will be glad when it can be added to the family medicine chest as a weapon against infected cuts, burns, and other skin disorders. Penicillin might be compared to a human genius, marvelous in his own line, but temperamental and unstable, and requiring special handling. The problem has always been to get it to "stay put" in an easily applied substance.

Cream or Ointment

Now, Drs. Philip Greey and Harvey D. Hebb of Canada report that penicillin can be successfully added to a cream or to an ointment and thus, spread directly on infected skin to hasten its cure.

These physicians made up various creams and ointments, some of lanolin, some of wax, some of stearic acid, some of mineral oil, sterilized them and then added penicillin. In a number of the preparations, the penicillin seemed te retain its potency or power to heal, for two or three weeks when stored at cold temperatures. Used Promptly

None of the preparations appeared sufficiently stable to permit manufacturing large quanti-ties at a time. In other words, it would appear advisable, if a peni- overlooking no chance to make full cillin cream or ointment is to be use of the great new healing drug. used, that it be made up fresh and As time goes on, it is possible that

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D. them and destroy the penicillin. DENUCILLUN cas proved to be This is done by not putting anything which is not sterile into the jar containing the penicillin preparation. When penicillin cream was spread on infected burns, it was found that it began to lose its potency after about 48 hours. Hence, a daily change of dressings would appear necessary, at the least every two days.

In impetigo, a skin disease, and in infections of the beard, good results were obtained.

Sinus Infections Penicillin cream was also used for treating sinus infections. In doing this, the doctors injected a small amount of the penicillin cream into the affected sinus every two or three days. Before each injection the cream remaining from the previous treatment was washed out with salt water.

In a few cases, a skin rash occurred on the area where the penicillin was applied. Since it would appear that these patients were sensitive either to the penicillin or something in the cream base, the chances for development of this skin irritation should be borne in mind whenever a penicillin cream is to be used for ten days or longer. Penicillin in the home medicine cabinet is still in the future but it can be stated that doctors are used promptly. Care must also be taken to keep penicillin creams and ointments sterile, since molds may get into Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SERVING ON FARGO

At least two Henderson men hav been assigned to the U.S. S. Farg

TWO LOCAL YOUTHS

Use the Daily Dispatch Want Ads to sell your products. A Want Ad Will Bring You Fast Results!

MeCoin Bldg Phone 131

eyes and skin texture were de-clared perfect for television transmission Evelyn Keyes of the films was named "Telegenic Girl of 1946". The title was awarded by electronic engineers and 400 television "onlookers". (International) the lady, from "stirring up more trouble"? It sounded fantastic. "You don't could get And, worst of all, how could he really imagine the Army will send and make her talk, laugh about me with Neal behind him home from Burma, or China, g on you. See what my back! just because you cabled him to come?" I asked dumbfounded. at can get out of her and give me I must have looked pretty "Oh, but they will! Dave will wretched to Brenda-and to Rosa. may be important, even who was ushering her in, goodness neekly: "Yes, Inspector." knows how much later—sitting on that small chair and staring at I said And having no date for the evening, and no prospect of one after Neal's annexation of Hunt, I made good my words when I got house, by stopping off at the rear apartment. Brenda dreamed in an distance of the storage o negligee, opened the door herself— cantiously, I thought—and seemed pleased to see me. At least of pleased to see me. At least, she only looked worried and asked appre-hensively: "Is anything wrong? Has something -new happened?" after she'd smiled at me and said 'Jane' How sweet of you to call!' I assured her nothing was wrong or had happened and told her: "I merely came to ask you to have dinner with me, if you have no other engagement. We might take in a movie afterward. How about it ? Her smile returned and spread all over her lovely face. "I'd be delighted. I'll get dressed right away," she said happily

Neal and her friends are probably scattered all over the apartment." The opportunity offered itself But Neal wasn't scattered all ready-made when I came back into over and, for a change, was not sur- my room and saw Brenda pat and rounded by a crowd. She was in the stroke the big lump of rose velvet fover when I came in, dressed for beside her as if it were a live pet, the street and on the point of go- so absorbed in the reunion with her ing out, accompanied only by Jones, erstwhile property she didn't notice me. "You are very fond of your cush-ion, aren't you? Would you like to have it back, Brenda Leighton?" I who was staggering under a tower of suitcases and boxes that were to be transferred to Neal's dressing room at the theater. "So the great 'accuser' is home sked gently.

again!" she greeted me mockingly She gave a start, and her hands "Have any more bombshells to throw at my friends, sister dear?" "Oh-about a dozen," I told her calmly, and walked toward my old her. "One of the maids recogroom. She came after me.

nized you at Elmpoint and told my "Look here, Jane, you may ima-gine you're bright, but I think Why did you come there that you're the darndest fool ever!" she night flung at me angrily. "And I'm here to warn you: lay off Deane! I've had my Boston opening spoiled by the Ingalls murder and I have no "I-I came to-to look at my things-" Her fingers reached out to the cushion again and plucked at frightened to death. it nervously. wish to share my New York first "Not good enough. You could night with an arrest of her murhave done that openly," I objected.

derer. Least of all, a false arrest, Her eyes filled with tears. "I as it would be in Deane's case. Hunt know. I'm not-a good liar," she Berwick agrees with me and prom-admitted. "There was something else. Something that would have ised to keep you from stirring up any more trouble—you should have heard him laugh about your silli-ness last night! But I want to make doubly sure, and so I'm telling you: the solution is the solution of the solution is the solution of th stop your silly meddling or I'll get can't-I won't tell you, or anyone, even. But even!" till he gets here."

The words were so many blows. "Till who gets here? David make them let him come. I said it vas important and had to do with he wrong I've done him," she told me with simple conviction. It made a lot of no sense. "Please be a little clearer," I begged. "What was this wrong you're talking about, and when did you send that cable ?'

She ignored the first part of my question.

I pulled myself together and got up. "Nothing's wrong and I'm feel-ing fine," I told them as cheerfully "The day I moved in here. Polly ing fine," I told them as cheerfully sent it for me, through someone in as I could manage. "Mrs. Knight is Washington," she explained. "He having dinner with me, Rosa, Hope you have enough to eat. Please sit down, Brenda. Mind if I wash up was sure Dave would forgive me and change in front of you? I won't faithful to him. But I don't think be long, I promise." he was right. After all, I was terribly in love with him-with him, Rosa went out beaming, with the assurance: "I always have enough and would have married him after the divorce if-if he'd still wanted for two, three extra." Brenda sat own on the chaise longue that held

Her jumbled talk pointed so the cushion sheld once owned and ${f I}$ slipped out of my dress, hung it in the closet, and went into the bathlearly to a matrimonial mix-up, or a moment I was afraid I'd been room to freshen up, thinking all the on the wrong track and there was "Fine! Come over to my place when you're ready, and go straight to my room, will you? Rosa will show you the way. It's—my sister Nad and her failed in the source of the task Inspector Barry that wished on me and wondering Brenda talk. And then it was quite no link between Brenda and our mirders. But then I remembered hat Polly had sent her cable-and. had been poisoned the next night. simple. And so I said patiently: "Look," The opportunity offered itself

Brenda, your private affairs don't concern me. But if your story, whatever it is, can shed light on Margot's and your friend Polly's death, please tell it to the police without waiting for your former husband's return." She remained silent for quite a while; just sat glancing down at her hands that lay, ringless and loosely folded, in her lap. And at. last I lost my patience and urged: Well? Can it or can't it?"

dropped from the cushion as she said tonelessly: "Oh! You know!" I smiled reassuringly and sat down beside her, "Yes, I know," I vour arattment I became worldd Then she said haltingly: "Iyour apartment I became-worried. Only I couldn't-I can't believe that he-he had no reason. He had all the -

She broke off with a gasp. Her hands flew to her lips as if to push back the words, and she looked

It didn't make me let her off. 'Who is he, and for what didn't be have a reason?" I prompted. The blood rushed up in her face, all the way to her hair. "He's the man I was in love with and for whom I've done Dave a great known me when we-meet somewhere by chance."

The Hard Way

Just leave it on the shelf, perhaps before you are old and gray some one will come in and say, "That is just what I am looking for!"

But if you want to seek this prospect now -and make space on your shelf for the new post-war model, advertise it through The Dispatch advertising columns or classified.

Your customers can't read your mind, but they can read your ads.

Dispatch advertising is effective yet economical-

--- Phone 610---For Representative

Henderson Daily Dispatch