Cherry Goes To Hospital; Ask Parole

By LYNN NISBET.
Raleigh, June 22.—Governor Gregg Cherry is going to the hospital next week, and for him it is somewhat of an adventure, though nothing for him or his friends to be alarmed about. He has a date at Dixie next Tuesday morning for a thorough going-over by the medicals. The object is for them to see if they can find anything wrong, and he'll be surprised if they do. The adventure came from the fact this will be the first time since he was in the military that he has voluntarily submitted to the ministrations of a physician or had a doctor called in on his account.

HEALTHY. — He had to undergo the usual physical examination when he entered the army back in 1917, and several insurance doctors have checked him over in routine tests. Now, in his fifty-fifth year, he has never lost a day from work because of his own illness, and since a spell of fever before he was old enough to go to school has never needed a doctor. That's an unusual record and the governor wants to maintain it for a good many years more. Hence the precautionary check-up scheduled for next week.

PERSUADED. — It wasn't his idea in the first place. Some of his friends who are a lot older, though they haven't lived any longer, persuaded him it would be wise. The governor may back yet and decline to put on a hospital shirt but chances are good he'll go through with the project since it gave this far.

PAY DAY. — The State treasurer's office was busy Thursday cashing state employees' salary checks. The 25th is the usual pay day for regular employees, but in order to close books by end of the fiscal year June 30, checks were issued five days earlier this month. Most of the employees were very happy about it, but occasionally one was found worrying about the extra week that will elapse before another pay day. The bright side of that situation is the wait won't be as hard as between December 20 and January 25th, when State workers get paid early for Christmas and then are broke for a month.

PETITIONS. — The governor's office and the parole commission are receiving every day petitions asking for a parole for Leon R. Meadows, former president of East Carolina Teachers College. Dr. Meadows' case comes up for routine consideration next month, he having served one-fourth of the sentence imposed. In Pitt county superior court after conviction on charges of false pretense and embezzlement in the handling of college funds. Similarity of the petitions indicate an organized campaign on the part of his friends. Policy of the parole commission is to treat all prisoners alike regardless of previous social position. Internal reports are that Dr. Meadows has made an exemplary prison record.

HOLDING. — The National Highway Users Conference reports that of the four major public carrier systems — highways, railways, pipe lines and waterways — highway carriers are the only ones that have not shown a decline at some point since 1929. Taking the amount of traffic handled in 1929 as 100, the survey shows that even during the depression years highway traffic never fell below that mark, and by 1943 it had pretty well leveled off at 350. Railway traffic dropped to 52 in the early thirties, did not regain 100 until 1941 and last year stood at 154. Oil pipe lines also dropped under 100 in 1931 but last year stood at 457. Submarines nearly drove water shipping out of the picture during the war, and they also were a large contributing factor to increased pipe line business. Throughout the entire 17-year period from 1929 through 1945 highway business held a steady upward swing and is still climbing. State motor vehicle registration fees in the 48 states last year amounted to more than 440 million dollars, for more than 30 million cars and trucks. The increase over the previous year is attributed to many cars being brought out of storage since new equipment would not account for all of the increase.

1,142 Have Chest X-Rays During Industrial Survey

During the industrial survey conducted in Henderson for examinations to determine prevalence of tuberculosis and other chest diseases, 1,142 persons had X-ray studies made of their chests, according to figures reported today by Dr. A. D. Gregg, county health officer.

Equipment was set up in various sections of the city beginning Monday, June 4 and X-rays were conducted free to all persons 18 years of age and up who desired such a test.

In South Henderson 493 persons made use of these facilities for an X-ray study of their chests and in North Henderson 373 persons were examined. A good number also came from the Carolina Bazaar mill. At the former, servicemen's center, where the facilities were stationed for three days for the benefit of those in the city and county, 273 persons reported for the tests.

Advance reports have ascertained discovery of only one new case of tuberculosis in the city, although results of the larger films may prove findings of others. Dr. Gregg stated: "The clinic moved on to Warren county this week, after work was concluded here. Dr. Gregg and the health office particularly expressed appreciation for the help of J. Carl Page and others of the North and South Henderson textile mills in putting on the program in those sections."

The project was furnished by the U. S. Public Health Service through the State Board of Health and the Vance County Health Department and was sponsored by the Vance County Tuberculosis Association, of which Mrs. James L. Seal is chairman.
