The one in the morning was conducted at the Landon Brame farm about three miles northeast of Henderson in the Spring Valley community, with an attendance of seventeen farm men and women. The other one was conducted at the farm of Douglas Alexander, of the Middleburg community, with an attendance of fifteen. James E. Johnson of the Marketing Division, U. S. D. A., was in charge of the demonstrations. Johnson emphasizes grading tobacco relative to its size, quality and color as a means to secure market proceeds for this year's crop.
