WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Reason for Such a Long Session ions and Personals.

Special correspondence of the Gold Leaf.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7, 1888. It is beginning to be an evident that the Republican Senators are responsible for the length of the present session of the Fif-tieth Congress. The session has been needlessly protracted at considerable cost and with no compensatory benefit to the country. It is true it is the constitutional right of Congress to continue its sittings uninterruptedly until high noon of March the fourth when the Fiftieth Congress expires by limitation. When Congress ract it was evident that the tariff was destimed to take a prominent part in its delibcrations. After consuming much time in committee work and speech-making the Mills bill passed the House. The President's me-sage on the subject of the tariff clearly defined the attitude of the Democratic party and laid the main plank in the National platform on which the Democratic party was expected to stand. The tariff bill then went to the Senate. The Republican Senators have held a number of cancuses in the houses of party leaders in this city. They have ransacked their brains and the memoranda of the leading capitalists in this country for material out of which to construct a substitute for the Mills bill to be introduced into the Senate and to pass that body. The main object to be attained in passing this bill is to make political capital for the Republican party and to win over such disaffected Democrats as may regard their private business | desired, at prices which defy competis interests to be of more importance than tion. All the best makes and leading their allegiance to the party to which they profess to belong. For this reason the Republican Senators are directly responsible for money and time lost. They are staying here trying to conduct the campaign by this sort of tactics. They are aided and abetted in this course by all the leaders of shades. Soft and Stiff Hais, Straw the Republican party and above all others Goods, Mackinaws, &c., in great variety by James. G. Blaine. While they have A beautiful line of been thus occupied in what they consider astate political finesse, appropriation bills have been neglected, other important matters demanding legislation have been ignored and the vast expense incident to the sitting of Congress has been kept up from day to day. The bonest, clear minded yeamen of this country cannot be expected to approve of such double faced policy at the

The effect of the President's retaliation message has been most beneficial to the Democratic party all over the country.
