AN ENGLISHMAN'S TURKEY.

The Thrilling Tale of a Fatal Thanksgiving Error. [Copyright, 1892.] B II Smiley? You're looking for Smiley? Well. pardner, that strikes me as strange. Say, where do you live that you didn't know Smiley's gone over the range? He departed this life last November, on the evening of Thanksgiving day, And his farm is a range for the rattlers, his dugout is gone to decay. P or Smiley! You see, he was British; a not right from London, I s'pose;

used to go round wearing glasses and loud H · and excitable clothes; And that land that he owned he pre-empted and farmed it in glittering style,

Time passed, and it was soon November; the morning of Thanksgiving came; We hadn't forgotten the turkey, and started to tackle the same: We soon reached the Englishman's dugout. and Smiley was there with his feast;

His face was all lighted with pleasure and rosy as dawn in the east; "I killed it-a beautiful turkey," he cried. "and as plump as a grouse;

I cooked it, and warrant the cooking; I was chef in a nobleman's house; Sit down to the feast, though it's early; give thanks for the luck I have had; This Thanksgiving day is a feature that England should copy, egad!" Well, stranger, we ate and we wondered; that bird had a taste that was strange; We'd eaten tame turkeys so often a wild one went queer as a change. The dinner was lengthy, I reckon: it took us two hours to get done. And then we went out of the dugout to loaf for awhile in the sun,

And what should we see but the feathers that bird we had eaten had worn-

"WE GAVE HIM A VERBAL DESCRIPTION." We each told our lies about turkeys as large as the site of a town, And Smiley, he sat there and listened, and swallowed the anecdotes down. It seems that in England the turkey is scarce as the horns on a dog-The bird wasn't built for a country that's made up of rainfall and fog-So Smiley was overly anxious to know how s turkey might look, And we gave him a verbal description as clean as you'd find in a book. Then what did he do but invite us to dinner or Thanksgiving day;

"The turkey I'll have," he assured us, "and cooked in the old fashioned way. You tell me wild turkeys are met with some times in the woods about here? All right; I'm a prince with the rifle. Remember, don't fail to appear."

"JIM SMITHERS EXPLAINED IT TO SMILLET." Jim Smithers explained it to Smiley, that while it was painful to do. We felt it our duty to hang him, and that when the swinging was through We'd see that his body was planted; he'd covered us all with disgrace, And unless he was hung we could never again look a man in the face. He acted the man that we thought him and lent us his clothesline, and said He hoped that we all would forgive him and speak of him kindly when dead. The crime he committed? Well, stranger, I guess I may tell it to you-The turkey he fed us was buzzard! We hung him; what c' e could we do?
