Never has a town election in Henderson passed off so quietly and seemingly so devoid of interest as that of Monday. As usual the run was close.

L. Austern, of New York, has rented the store formerly occupied by W. H. Amerson, in the Young-Tucker building, and in a short while will open a stock of clothing.

Young Tom Stone has opened a large stock of shoes in the Cheatham building, Montgomery street. He deserves success and merits patronage.

Owing to the insufficient number of names secured, the County Commissioners declined to order an election on the question of local option in Henderson, as petitioned to do at their regular meeting Monday.

The new Mayor W. W. Rowland, and the newly elected commissioners were sworn in and entered upon their duties Monday. The election of officers will be held at 4 o'clock next Monday afternoon.

We regret to learn that Mr. Matt Hawkins, who has been quite sick several weeks, is lying in a critical condition. His symptoms were such as to cause grave fears by his family and friends last evening.

The incandescent lights were successfully turned on Monday night for the first time in several weeks. The Company has been subjected to considerable trouble and expense in the loss of armatures, etc., in supplying these lights.

Mr. I. R. Fuller, who lives about seven miles from town, lost his pack-horse, containing six bars of tobacco, by fire last night. It is supposed that the fire caught from lightning, or was the work of an incendiary. Mr. Fuller says he is slightly injured.

A prominent business man who has been in Washington several weeks on a little business, "or words to that effect," says when he approached Senator Ransom on the subject, he was asked with emphasis by the gallant Senator if it were possible that the citizens of Henderson wished to completely depopulate the town.

The audience that greeted Clark's female minstrel at Barker's Hall Saturday night was small. The performance was better than many expected, both as to the character of the entertainment and the merits of the individual acts. The best features of the whole thing were the contortionists and the comedy duo of two of the men Azzo and Fagin.

Henderson sympathizes with Kittrell, and expects that W. F. Davis, who suffered such heavy loss, in the burning of the magnificent and well known Davis Hotel, Saturday morning. A full account of the disaster by which our friends and neighbors so grievously suffered is given by our valued correspondent Mr. O. W. Blackhall, whose letter will be found in another column.

Mr. George Adams, of the sample room of Adams & Harris, famous for fine turtle soup, pleased his friends last Friday when he invited them to call and show cause, if any could be given, why they should not enjoy a plate of the first of the season. The soup was made from a very fine sea turtle, and all decided that Mr. Adams had not lost his last year's recipe for making the best.

Mr. K. W. Cochill, of Rocky Mount, spent a short while in town the latter part of last week. He came up to bring his mother-in-law Mrs. Lassiter, who had been quite sick at the home of her daughter Mrs. Ashburn, in Suffolk. She was much fatigued by the journey although she was made as comfortable as possible in the Pullman sleeper, but her condition is now somewhat improved.

Town Election. The municipal election passed off quietly Monday. There was little interest in the result and the vote was light. Two candidates were in the field for Mayor, Capt. J. B. White and Walter W. Rowland, Esq. The vote by wards was as follows:

FIRST WARD. For Mayor, J. B. White, 61. For Commissioner, W. W. Rowland, 26.

SECOND WARD. For Mayor, White, 70. For Commissioner, Rowland, 33.

THIRD WARD. For Mayor, White, 36. For Commissioner, Rowland, 36.

FOURTH WARD. For Mayor, White, 2. For Commissioner, Rowland, 106.

For Commissioner, Rowland, 97. Rowland's majority over White, 21. Only in one ward was the election held for both commissioners, a vacancy having been created in the death of Dr. W. W. Young. In the first and second wards there were two candidates for the two years term, while in the third and fourth wards there was no opposition to the regular nominees.

Letter from Kittrell. KITTRELL, N. C., May 3, 1893. Editor GOLD LEAF:—The burning of the Davis Hotel, which occurred early Saturday morning, is very much deplored by all the citizens of Kittrell. The warmest sympathy for Mr. Davis and his family will be done to induce Mr. Davis to rebuild here. A meeting was held Tuesday afternoon to take steps toward forming a stock company. Quite a number of Kittrell gentlemen propose taking stock. Letters have been received by Mr. Davis offering him every inducement to rebuild here in Raleigh, Winston, Henderson, and several other places.

News was received here Monday of Mr. David Outlaw's death in Norfolk, and he went for treatment about a month ago at Hot Springs, Ark., where he is affectionately called by all the boys, will be very much missed.

Mrs. Potts, of Richmond, who has been visiting Mrs. T. Turner, returned home last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitaker have been away from town several days on a visit to relatives near Enfield.

Mr. J. E. Collins went up to Wake Forest Friday to attend the Annual Field Day Exercises at the college.

Fortunately Mr. Davis is a man of means and can rebuild if he sees fit, but his loss is very heavy, while the loss of their house-hold goods, in the way of clothing, furniture, and other articles, is a very narrow escape was a terrible shock. They have the deepest and warmest sympathies of the whole community.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT KITTRELL.

The Famous Davis Hotel Burned—Full Particulars of the Unfortunate Calamity—A Heavy Loss to Col. Davis and to the Town.

KITTRELL, N. C., May 1st, 1893. The large and excellently appointed Davis Hotel at this place met its doom in the early morning of April 29th.

Before sun up on Saturday, while all its occupants were soundly sleeping, except a few servants who had assembled in the kitchen, though, I believe, no fire had been started, a few early rising neighbors, saw smoke curling around the corner of the building. The alarm was given for the moment no harm was apprehended and no alarm given. But when the smoke grew denser and blacker and swept up around the flag-staff that stood in front of the building, it was abroad, and swift feet hurried to the scene. It was high time.

The servants in the kitchen were going about their work as usual. The alarm was given at work amid the rooms and corridors above. The densest smoke already filled both stories of the large glass-enclosed porch which ran nearly the whole length of the building. As every bedroom in the hotel opened on this porch, the peril of the sleeping people was of course, to their cost.

The guests sprang from their beds to find their rooms already invaded by smoke. Flight through the stiffened corridors was almost impossible and a few moments later would have been entirely so. True they might have leaped from the back windows, but none thought of this, besides many were on the second floor.

Except in a very few instances all fled in their night-swear, leaving clothes and valuables behind. Even then, by some instances the escape was by hair-breadths. The building burst like tinder. One lady must have been killed had she been a second or two later; a mass of burning timber falling just in her rear, she fled for life down the smoke packed stairs.

Mrs. Davis' mother, the beloved Mrs. Sheppard and Madam Bell, a young lady staying with Mrs. Davis, bewildered by the smoke, must both have been lost, but for the quick and resolute help of a friend. Fortunately and providentially all got safely out.

But little could be done to save the contents of the house. The flames possessed themselves of the building, and in a few minutes the building that nothing could be taken out. At the north end apiano, billiard table and a few things were saved.

A very great good fortune the wind blew steadily from the Southeast, carrying the heat and sparks mostly clear of the town. This alone prevented a sweeping fire. Even the burning of the building, as did the Staunton bar room, 200 feet distant, once, and a smaller dwelling 600 yards away.

After some little delay caused by the excitement, Henderson and Raleigh were both wired for help. Henderson responded with great promptness, and on Monday Raleigh would also have done, had not the request been recalled. Fortunately Maj. Winder was in Henderson, and gave all orders necessary as to transportation, besides giving orders for loading.

A strong detachment of the hook, ladder and bucket company under Mr. J. D. Cooper, and Capt. Perry, on Monday morning the Henderson relieving force, though hitched to a leaving freight the run was made in ten minutes; not eight as I have elsewhere stated. The fire was under control in about half an hour.

The Henry building caught as long as some certain, their help would have been invaluable in saving the railroad buildings, which were in flames.

The hotel had a frontage of 250 feet, with a wing of 75 feet; besides billiard room, and a large dining room, and was all two and part three stories high. As stated a two-story glass-enclosed porch extended nearly the entire length of the building, and was very luxuriously decorated with rare and expensive port and hanging plants, all kept in the highest condition. These along with books and equipments were of course all lost.

Mr. Davis' insurance on the premises was $16,000, a small part of it being on mill stable machinery, which was destroyed. He has been carrying $26,000, but owing to excellent means to fight fire recently introduced $19,000 insurance was allowed to lapse. The loss, therefore, is estimated to be $17,000. Money has been spent on it with a free hand for twenty years.

It will give a short history of the hotel. The building was erected by Col. Collins about 1858. The last grand tournament of ante-bellum days in this section was held on the level ground in the rear of the hotel, and the prize was $125,000, won by Mr. Davis in 1872. Mr. Davis' ideas of comfort were liberal, his means ample and from that day this money has been expended in the building, and high class of patronage it engaged. Its dimensions were increased four-fold. Building after building was added. One season more was added, and the hotel was equipped and kept pace with other things. The dollars that have been spent there will never be known, I doubt that it is a large sum, but it is estimated to be $2,000,000.

Mr. Sheppard's $200 gold watch, but valued far higher as a memento of other days, and a pair of silver cuff-links, were also saved. Besides fine guns and pistols. Strange to say, the watches went through the fire better than the firearms. For though the great names he bears there was never a time piece, the causes were either crushed or melted. Of the guns only warped, twisted and separated tubes were found. Even the shotguns were also melted in a charred state. While a few of the guns saved a good deal, some lost from $1,000 to $2,000, clothing and valuables were also destroyed. The loss, therefore, is estimated to be $17,000.

A heavy loss by this fire will have been occurred several years ago, was Mrs. Pastawka, an aunt of Mrs. Davis. Much of the furniture and other articles were due to this estimable and unobtrusive lady. With the loss of Mrs. Davis' bondless energy and rare genius of Mrs. Davis, backed by the culinary skill of Mrs. Pastawka, the Davis house was well worthy of the unique reputation it bore from Maine to Florida. Mrs. Pastawka has a nephew, who is a quiet, unassuming man, but with the same amiability and kindness of nature has won for both a warm place in all our hearts.

Fortunately Mr. Davis is a man of means and can rebuild if he sees fit, but his loss is very heavy, while the loss of their house-hold goods, in the way of clothing, furniture, and other articles, is a very narrow escape was a terrible shock. They have the deepest and warmest sympathies of the whole community.

Mr. Davis rebuilds himself, or turns it over to younger hands, being now well entitled to retire, he can be no doubt that a new building will arise. The Davis cousin and the Davis hospitality is far too widely known to come to such an abrupt end.

STORM SWEEP. A Cyclone Sweeps Across Portions of Vance County Doing Great Damage—Oxford Suffers Grievously by the Storm—Particulars as Far as We Have Been Able to Learn.

A severe wind and rain storm passed to the north of Henderson yesterday afternoon at about 2 o'clock, doing great damage to growing crops, houses, orchards, &c., and in some instances injury to persons. Owing to the time of going to press it is impossible to give full accounts of the extent of the damage done.

The storm was a hard rain here but not much wind; however, it is learned this morning that Henderson barely escaped the fury of the storm as it did considerable damage as near by Mr. Geo. B. Hughes' and Mr. Thomas Stainb. The former lost his barn, kitchen, corn crib and small house, orchard, &c., and Mr. Stainb says his stable was blown six or eight feet, and several trees were torn up near his place.

The greatest damage we have heard of near town was in the neighborhood of the Bryan lands at James City, who refused to give up the property or pay for same after the courts had decided against them, was the accidental killing of Lieut-Colonel David N. Bogart, of Washington. The troops having been ordered to move on the early train Friday morning, were out for dress parade and drill Thursday afternoon, about 6 o'clock. Colonel Bogart was in command of the Regiment, Col. Wood, of Elizabeth City, having returned home. Just as the soldiers started from camp at the fair grounds, the horse of Col. Bogart became unmanageable and ran with him a short distance. The rider was thrown violently to the ground striking the back of his head on the stones of the macadamized street and received injuries from which he died in a few hours. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, blood issuing from his mouth and ears, and removed to the residence of Mr. E. B. Roberts, near by, from which he was taken later to his room at the Hotel Gaston, Battle, of Rocky Mount, a young man of much promise, will be come rector and preach the first time 1st Sunday in May. A SAD ACCIDENT. Letter from Ringwood. RINGWOOD, N. C., May 1, '93. Editor GOLD LEAF:—Rev. Robert Van Deventer, of your city, preached at Turkey Branch church, near here, last Sabbath afternoon to a large audience of most interesting and forcible sermon on missions.

Mr. L. B. Manning has been on a visit to friends in this county and section the past week and all were delighted to see him looking so well and lively. The writer was pleased to enjoy his visit one night. It called up recollections of other days and memories of pleasant hours with his family in the good times of long ago. May he yet enjoy many years of health and prosperity.
