WELL WORTH SEEING.
 THE GREAT COTTON STATES AND INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.
 It is Both Interesting and Instructive—Comprehensive in Character—Extensive in Scope—Educational in Nature of its Exhibits—The Seaboard Air Line, &c.
 [Chatham Record.]
 The Atlanta Exposition is well worth seeing and a visit to it will amply repay anyone who wishes to have his ideas enlarged and to obtain useful information as to the products and resources of our great country and especially of the South. It has been our privilege to have visited many of the leading exhibitions held in the United States, beginning with the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876 and ending with the Chicago Exposition in 1893, and after seeing them all we are pleased to state that the Atlanta Exposition compares most favorably with any of them. While neither its buildings nor its exhibits are as large and extensive as those of the Chicago Exposition, yet they may be termed a reproduction on a smaller scale and can be seen and examined with much less fatigue and more thoroughly and satisfactorily.

The varied products of North Carolina's mines, forests, fields and factories. For instance, from our State there are displayed in this exhibit six varieties of hard wood beautifully polished, thirty-six varieties of peaches, eighteen varieties of grapes, ten varieties of apples, eleven of cherries, thirteen of plums, (large and luscious looking) and some magnificent specimens of cultivated blackberries. There are splendid specimens of our mines and minerals, including some of our Chatham coal, which was the only coal we saw in this exhibit. All kinds of grains and cereals were displayed to advantage, and there was also a good display of hops from Granville county, a new industry which should be fostered in our State. There were also in this exhibit of the S. A. L. many specimens of the goods manufactured by our North Carolina factories, which would astonish anyone not acquainted with the extent of our manufacturing interests. There was an exhibit of silk floss manufactured at Wadesboro, and this is said to be the only silk factory in the South.

While the exposition grounds and buildings present an attractive scene in delight, yet it cannot be compared to the magnificent and gorgeously brilliant scene that is seen after dark when thousands upon thousands of electric lights shed their radiance and illumine the grounds and buildings in so beautiful a manner as to make the enraptured spectator almost imagine that he is in some veritable fairyland. Indeed, so lovely is this scene that one night's view of it is worth a trip to Atlanta, even if there was nothing else to be seen, and when the electric fountain (in the lake) begins to play and changes in rapid succession its colors to all the hues of the rainbow, its beauty baffles description. We advise all visitors, accessible to the Seaboard Air Line, to be sure to make the trip on that system idea of the country traversed by the Seaboard Air Line, and placed in small jars below this map are small samples of the soil gathered from points all along its lines, including some of Chatham's red clay. The map shows the topography of the country and these samples show the character and fertility of its soil, and is a very attractive and ingenious advertisement. This entire exhibit is very attractively and artistically displayed, and is very gratifying to the State pride of every North Carolinian of cheap material. We will not now attempt to describe each of these buildings nor its exhibits in detail, but may do so in subsequent issues of the Record. We would here state, however, that probably the most complete and instructive exhibit of all is to be seen in the U. S. Government Building, and every visitor can spend much time here most pleasantly and profitably. He will there see much of what is to be seen in the different departments at Washington.

All North Carolinians who visit this Exposition deeply regret and feel mortified that their good old State has no exhibit there. Every other Southern State has a very creditable exhibit, displaying its products and resources, peculiar character, and is found in considerable quantity in Cleveland, Rutherford and several other counties in the western part of the State. As a part of this exhibit, but placed outside of the building because of its immense size and weight, is a slab of granite brought from the quarry near Mount Airy, and it is one of the largest ever quarried, being 7 feet wide, about 2 feet thick and 28 feet long, and weighing 32,000 pounds.

way Plaisance" at the Chicago Exposition. One of the most attractive of the Midway shows is "Hagenback's Trained Animal Show," in which the visitor is astonished at the wonderful manner in which wild and fierce beasts have been trained. Another feature of the "Midway" is the wonderful Phenix Wheel, similar to the celebrated Ferris Wheel which was exhibited at Chicago.

who sees it, and too much praise cannot be awarded the Seaboard Air Line for making it.

In the Minerals and Forestry Building are two other exhibits from this State, both made by the geological survey under Prof. J. A. Holmes, one of minerals and building stones, and the other of timbers and hard woods. Both of these exhibits are very attractive and creditable, and any person seeing them will be surprised at the great variety and superior quality of North Carolina's woods and minerals. In this exhibit of minerals is an exhibit of monozite and machinery and pictures illustrating how it is mined. Monozite is a recently discovered mineral consisting of gravel or sand of a

Oh! if Hope were dead, if she should sicken and droop, we would be ruined, all would be dark; but she is constant, unflinching and with a single encouraging word she rejoices, takes up new strength and brilliancy. She lives on a mere word, a look, a smile, while it takes all our money, all our time and all our thought to keep Pleasure alive, and the more we bestow upon her the greater become her claims. Hope the elder, is careful, wise and good. Pleas-

Weak, No Appetite, Hood's Sarsaparilla Restored Health.
 "Three years ago I had the grip, which settled in my head. It continued to grow worse and there was no rest for me. My limbs felt numb, my nerves seemed to be unstrung and I had no appetite. Doctors' treatment and other medicines failed to avail me relief. I obtained two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which restored me to myself. Last July I began to have bad symptoms, and I at once resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I continued until I had taken three bottles, which not only restored my health but also cured my baby of a bunch and did him a great deal of good." Mrs. Emma A. Rainey, North Danville, Va.
