SAYS the Winston Sentinel; and many there are who will endorse its sentiments: "If the defeat of the University of North Carolina football team on Thursday, shall result in the abandonment of these brutal contests by our boys it will be a bigger victory than if they had cleaned up the Uni versity of Virginia team."

THE public will now have something else to engage its attention for awhile. Congress met Monday. The Republicans have an overwhelming majority in the House and ex Speaker Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, will again preside. Speaker Crisp received the unanimous vote of the Democrats for re-election to the speakership-a position he has filled with distinguished ability during the past two years.

IT was indeed with painful surprise that we read of the death of Mr. Geo. W. Blount, of Wilson, which occurred at his home in that place Friday mornhealth for some time having suffered an attack of apoplexy a few months ago at which time he came near dy ing. Mr. Blount was owner of the Wilson Mirror and brother of Henry Blount, editor of that paper. He was a successful lawyer, a prominent Mason and a trustee of the Wake Forest College. Mr. Blount was an upright, consistent Christian, member of the Baptist church and high minded gentleman. He was well known throughout the State and his death will be greatly lamented.

A MAMMOTH NEWSPAPER.

The "cotton mill edition" of the Raleigh News and Observer, issued on Thanksgiving day, was the most gigantic as well as the most creditable thing yet accomplished in North Carolina journalism. Nor has it been surpassed in the South as far as we know. It was 36 pages, illustrated with cuts of factory buildings, pictures of the owners and managers, female operatives, &c., the whole forming a comprehensive and intelligent epitome of the cotton manufacturing industry in North Carolina. It was a marvelous undertaking and a brilliant achievement and will do incalculable good to the State in giving a better and fuller knowledge of this particular line of industry. To Mr. F. B. Aren-, dell, of the News and Observer staff to whom was assigned the task of gathering the data and writing up the various cotton mills of the State and the details of business, too much praise can not be given. He did his work well and is entitled to a large share of the credit for the success of this magnificent number of which we write.

MINISTER RANSOM COMING HOME.

EVIDENTLY, Minister Ransom thinks there is no place like home. He had not been at his post in the City of Mexico long before he returned to this country on account of his health. He protracted his stay until it began to be doubted that he would go back at all, or if the office he held was really of much importance since it did not seem to require the presence of the Minister to discharge any duties that were supposed to be attached thereto. Now it is announced that Minister Ransom is about to visit his old home again. From an exchange we copy the following:

The Two Republics, of Mexico. says Hon. Matthew W. Ransom, the distinguished North Carolinian diplo. mat who is entered with the high mission of the United States Minister of this government, is contemptlating a visit to his family by Christmas. He will be accompanied by his son

THE ATLANTA EXPOSITION

It is well worth seeing for the entertainment it affords, and a critical study of it would result in a liberal education to the student. It is a pleasure to see 50 many North Carolinians there; they are encountered at almost every turn. If "reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man," travel makes a broad one, if one use the opportunities it affords for observation. The objects set up Atlanta just now for observation are ample for a month's study, and they cannot be passed, with even the most cursory examination, without giving impressions which will stay and from which one will derive future benefits. So the statement that it is a pleasure to see so many North Carolinians there is repeated. What they see there will increase their fund of knowledge, and broaden their ideas. "Does the trip pay?" was asked by his neighbors of a citizen of the State who had just returned from the exposition "It will pay any one," was the reply, "who can get the worth of his money out of his eyes." The answer was an apt one. It has been said that the exposition is taking a great deal of money out of North Carolina. Keeping money is one of the least useful of all the things that can be done with it. The wisdom of its expenditure varies with the value of everything for which it is spent. Spent in seeing the exposition, it is applied to a high and useful purpose; those who equivalent for it. It is no part of the present purpose to "write up" the exposition, but to speak of it only in general terms. It is infinite in its details, and many of these, of chiefest local interest, have already been touched upon in these columns. Expression must, however, be given to the regret, which finds such general expression, that North Carolina makes so beggarly a showing, compared with what she is capable of. She is seen here and there in various buildings, and the glimpses caught of her show the State in an exceedingly favorable light. The best possible was done, no doubt, under the circumstances, but the circumstances were within the State's control, and should have been directed differently. Such another opportunity to show what North Carolina has will notpresent itself soon. An expression of admiration of the pluck which Atlanta evidenced in essaying such an enterprise as this exposition, ought not to be withheld. It is worthy of all praise. It is a coming. He had not been in sound mon observation, and a just one, that not many cities of twice Atlanta's size would have assumed such a burden or, assuming it, would have carried it out so successfully. It is this indomnitable spirit that has made the Gate City what it is. The exposition will not pay out, but the citizens will go down in their pocket for the deficit and look for and realize re-imbursement in deferred and indirect benefits. All hnoor to them! - Charlotle Observer:

WHICH IS WORSE? Says the Petersburg Index-Appeal

with much timeliness and truth:

It is a mere affectation of virtue in a state executive to call out the military to supress prize-fighting when the same state not only tolerates but encourages and lauds football playing. We hazard the assertion that there has never been witnessed at any prize fight such scenes of disorder and rodwyism as disgraced the streets and public resorts of Richmond last Thursday as the result of the interstate game of football played there on that day. Ribaldry, drunkenness, rowdyism and violence were rampant, and the chief actors in these disgraceful scenes were young men scarcely out of their teens, whose training and opportunities in life justify the expectations of better things. Athletics were well enough in their place and ought to be encouraged, but ruffianism should be sternly suppressed. In teaching our young men to be manly they should also be taught to be gentlemanly. This, after all, is the most important thing in any course of educational training, and any school or college that fails in this, the highest of educational standards, is a curse rather than

An Interesting Announcement for Our Readers.

We have secured for the exclusive use of the readers of the GOLD LEAF a series of articles on the Sandwich Islands by the distinguished historian and novelist, John R. Musick. These articles are being prepared by the author on the spot. He is now at Honolulu, and will visit each of the islands of the Hawaiian group. They will have the peculiar living freshness that can only be given to such when written at the place on the very days the writer beholds them. They will be a series of descriptive and historical articles, or letters about that country. Mr. Musick will furnish us therefore articles rich in descriptive scenery, filled with authentic history and facts, and ightened by incidents of travel and ad-

The old political habitues of the Kimball House have had to surrender their regular stamping ground in the foyer and retire perforce to the cloakrooms of the State House before this cosmopolitan horde that have taken possession of the city. The December Cosmopolitan. Two very important facts in connec ion with the new era of magazines are illusttraed in the December Cosmopoli tan. Its fiction is by Stevenson, the last story written before his death, "Ouida, Sarah Grand Zangwill, and the beginsimple reason that Mr. Henry had no ning of James Lane Allen's new Kentucky realistic story "Buutterflies." Probably no stronger array of fiction has ever been tucky." He made no speeches in the presented in any magazine-money could not buy better. Nor has any magazine tinguished artists engaged upon the il lustration of a single number. The reader might puzzled to know how such a number can be made at the price of ten cents. It contains 139 pages of advertising, which as the publishers announce is from $4,000 to $8,000 more net cash advertising than was ever before printed in any magazine, for any kind, and in any country. It breaks the world's record in the publishing business. More over, the cost of the artists and author practical one throughout. The rare who appear in this number is divided among 400,000 copies bringing the cost per copy proportionately low. The Cos mopolitan thinks that the ten cent magazine, bringing, as it does, the best in art and literature into all classes, is an educational movement second in importance only to that of the public schools.
