LECTURE ON VANCE.

The Life and Character of the Great Carolinian Graphically Depicted by One Who Knew Him Well.

Mr. Richard H. Battle. of Raleigh, lectured before the Henderson Lyceum Thursday night. His subject, the life and character of Senator Vance, was treated as only one of Mr. Battle's position to serve the public to better or his subject justice. A fair sized, advantage during the holidays and at intelligent and thoroughly appreciative audience heard him, and for one hour and a half he held their rapt and admiring attention. Mr. Battle spoke first of Vance's early life, of his course at the University of North Carolina, his career in Congress, his record as a soldier (Colonel of the 26th North Carolina Regiment), his election as Governor and his renown as the great "War Governor." The period of the war ended Vance's life was then traced to its close when he died literally in harness loving and serving his people lovally and faithfully to the end.

The lecture was interspersed with anecdotes characteristic of and depicting the character and temperament of Vance and the audience was frequently convulsed with laughter. Mr. Battle tells a joke with rare zest and proved himself a capital entertainer. He was apt and ornate and spoke with case and gracefulness although he declared he had no regularly prepared address which to dignify by the name of lecture, his modesty rather confining it to the realm of "rambling, reminiscent talk." But it was anything else but rambling, reminiscent though it was as a matter of course. At any rate it was such a talk as his audience delighted to ramble with him in and the only thing lacking was more. Indeed, many capable critics pronounced the lecture better than Max O'Rell's. Mr. Battle was warmly to shake hands with him. The members of the Lyceum and those who heard him appreciate Mr. Pritchard and Holton and Butler and Battle's kindness very highly. Although he came at some inconvenience and trouble to himself, he did so without compensation for his services. Mr. Battle has always had many warm friends and admirers among our people and now we ac-

Death of Miss Annie Thomas.

Miss Annie Thomas, a young lady who had many acquaintances and admirers in Henderson, died at her home near Williamsboro, this county,

Monday. She had been sick but a few days and her death was a great shock to her family and friends. Deceased was a sister of Messrs. John and Phil H. Thomas, of Henderability and long intimate acquaint- son, and was aged 28 years. She was ance with the great Carolinian, could a young woman of lovely character have done. No sort of running synop- and sweet disposition, of whom it sis of the lecture would do the speaker | may be said in truth "none knew her but to love her."

A fact which gives an added touch of sorrow to her death is that she was to have been married shortly. Indeed, preparation for the happy event had about been concluded, but in place of the wedding garments which her own deft fingers had so exburial robes instead.

Very sad is the ending of this beautiful young life, but the messenger found her fully prepared when the dread summons came A friend contributes the following

At old St. John's Episcopal church in Williamsboro on Tuesday, April 24th was buried one of those regal-hearted ones who make the meaning in the phrase our Southern womanhood. We often wonder what it is which at tracts us toward any one person-what makes us gladder just to have them near us, and what makes us miss them so when they are gone. We cannot always find the answer to the question, but some times it is given us to know just why our hearts are drawn toward a certain person. When we see a great power of love in their own hearts shining out hearts a touch of its warmth and its gladness, we know then that love wins the beauty of the wording and the on last Tuesday evening stood around of winning love by giving love was the only beautiful trait visible in her life, but | American. it was the dominant trait, just as it must grief a thought of gladness that we should refer to her notes, and throughout the

"THE WHITE DOE,"

An Indian Legend by Mrs. Robert R. Cotten, to be Presented at Cooper Opera House Friday Evening, April

We have pleasure in announcing an entertainment to be given at Cooper Opera House Friday (to-morrow) evenng, at which time that talented lady Mrs. Robert R. Cotten will present her original legendary poem entitled The White Doe. She will be assisted by some of Henderson's best musical talent and an entertainment of rare merit and enjoyment may be anticipated

The White Doe has been twice presented in Raleigh and elsewhere throughout this and other States, and everywhere it has received the flattering praise of the most cultivated quisitely wrought they proved her audiences. The Greenville Reflector savs of it:

The poem is unquestionably a work of poem, deftly interweaving historical facts nothing. with legendary lore, Mrs. Cotten's effort should be placed side by side with the best productions. The News and Observer says:

The verse is easy and graceful and of rhythm that lends itself admirably to recitation and so well has the author andled a naturally poetic theme that there are no dull places from first to last. The large audience which greeted Mrs. Cotten had an evening of rare esthetic pleasure, as was evidenced by the unflagging attention which the reading re-

Nor has the bind words said of Mrs. Cotten's poem been confined to her through their eyes and giving our own own State, as witness the following: To the interest of the story was added love. This thought must surely have smooth rhythmic flow of the verse, which come to the hearts of some of those who | marked the conception as of far above ordinary merit from a literary point of the open grave. Not that this power view, apart from the value of the historic research in its composition.—Baltimore

The poem is really a remarkable bit of literature. It is long, occupying an hour greatest love, and mingle even with our for delivery, yet not once does the author have felt the touch of their life upon our entire time her enunciation is delightfully clear, and the attention of the listeners i never lost.-New Haven (Ct.) Overworked Nerves and wasting vitality make their presence known through headaches, dissiness, inability to sleep, less of appetite and a general run-down condition of the system. These signs are sometimes accompanied by neuralgia, hysteria, rheumatism or nervous prostration in some other form. To remove these troubles, cure the nerves. They need feeding, strengthening and building up, and nothing will do this so quickly and so surely as Dr. Miles' Mervine. This truly remarkable medicine is gaining hundreds of new friends every day. Here is a surveyor from Decatur, Ind., Mr. G. E. McKean, who writes:

"A chronic stomach trouble, which my physician was unable to overcome, so wore on my nervous system come, so wore on my nervous system that I broke down with nervous protration. I could not sleep day or night except in fitful naps; could scarcely eat any kind of food and wasted away to a mere shadow.

After spending over $500.00 in a vain search for relief, I was prevailed upon to try Dr Miles' Nervine. Relief came immediately. I took six bottles and today am a well man."
