THE Suffolk Herald, one of the best weekly papers in Virginia, is offered for sale. The recent death of its owner and editor, Hon. J. E. Booker. makes this step necessary. Virginia journalism lost one of its oldest and most honored and useful members when John Edward Booker passed from the stage of earthly action. The Herald, by the way, completed its twenty-eighth year with last week's children, to remember the old, the issue. May it fall into worthy hands and live long an honorable successor

TRADE AT HOME.

If there is any one thing the GOLI LEAF is noted for above all others it is urging home patronage and preach ing the gospel of hope. The way to build up a live town is to trade with home people. No town can be truly prosperous where the people do not stand by home enterprises. This by way of preface to the following from the Wilson News. Read Henderson instead of Wilson, and substitute the GOLD LEAF where News appears, and the article will apply with equal force

There is a lot of money being spent now in Wilson, and our merchants are happy this week. It should always be this way, for if our home people do not patronize their home stores who will? This thing of sending off for goods that can be bought in Wil son for just as little money is all wrong. If your merchant has not got what you want tell him and he will order it for you. Let him know

Pride of this kind in the prosperi of Wilson would work wonders, and while we are talking about this we urge our readers to consult the advertising columns of the News, and see who the live merchants are. We advertise for the men who are sucseeding here, and if you consult our olumns you will find it so. If a merthant has goods for sale and never tells the people what he has to sell he need not expect to succeed. If he does, it is just sheer good luck and not because he is pushing his busi-

SUPERINTENDENT MEBANE'S RE-

The Superintendent of Public In struction, Mr. C. H. Mebane, soon retires from the office he has efficiently and, we believe, ably filled. He makes a report to the Legislature of immense length, easily eclipsing Mc-Christmas, that greatest day of all Kinley's message. He makes a great many recommendations, some of which will probably be adopted. We trust the Legislature will not accept his suggestion to make a compulsory educational law. If it does we shall presently hear of a recommendation and law compelling all children between five and fifteen to go to church every Sunday and also to the Sabbath school. It will be fortunate if the denomination is not designated in the act. Paul Pryism and Yankee Notions are sufficiently active now in North Carolina without the Legislature seeking to strengthen their stakes and make Paternalism the chief factor henceforth in this once conservative State. North Carolina "plain people" have no relish for Connecticut "Blue Laws," and declaration as to home regulation by officious legislation.

Mr. Mebane very properly, we may believe, recommends a general revision of the school law of the last Legislature. Without a sound, judicious law there must be friction, neglect, and laughter, the joy and rapture of inefliciency and poor results. We believe that in some twenty-five coun-One day in which books and stocks ties the common schools are regarded

LYNCHINGS IN THE NORTH.

The recent fiendish negro lynchings which have taken place North of Mason and Dixion's line have attracted the attention and excited the horror of law-abiding citizens. In the South, which is the home of the negro and where the white people are movement to protect the negro from the bitter racial prejudice which exists among the white people of the North. Not long ago there was an organized negro hunt in New York upon small provocation. Innocent colored people were mobbed and beaten, although there was an ample police force present. Indeed, it was stated that the police joined in the mob and aided in clubbing and beating the unfortunate negroes, whose only offense was their color. A short time before that the anti-negro feeling in the North broke out in the Carbondale coal region of Illinois, and the negroes were treated with great brutality. The only offense of which they had been guilty was their employment in the mines. A riot took place; many negroes were killed and the rest driven away. In the South the negro is permitted to engage in any occupation he may see fit, but in the North for him to make his living as a skilled laborer is not tolerated. He can vote the Republican ticket on election day, but there his privileges end.

The most recent and dreadful exhibitions of Northern intolerance of the negro took place in Colorado and in Indiana. In both these States the lynchings were done openly, and it was boastingly said that the best people" took part in them. They were not masked, and it is perfectly well known, so it is declared, who the men are that were guilty of the horrible atrocities. The Colorado lynching was unique among lynchngs. The victim was captured and arrangements were made for his taking off with admirable decorum and order. Newspaper correspondents were invited and time was given to Dry Goods, string wires and fix telegraph instruments for their convenience. Then the shricking negro was burned at the stake, with nothing omitted which could add to the horror of "the occas-

THE SUPREME DUTY. "Whatever else you do or do not do for hildren, brethren, educate them. God has given me three sons, and I do not expect to leave them a home or money, but I do expect to give them an education. never expect to live in a home of my own, but I am going to educate my boys. They are all godly young men, and if stay out of the ground a few years longer they will be educated young men."

Bishop Morrison at Methodist Conference in New Bern. Herein is summed up the supreme duty of parents, excepting of course the religious training of their children. There has never been a time when education was not equivalent to sharp tools, but at no time in the history of the world has the necessity for education been so apparent as now. The competition is greater, the chances for building up an independent business are smaller, the combinations of wealth are more powerful, and the young man who forges to the front needs to have the best tools well sharpened. Education of the right kind will alone furnish him this equipment. Therefore, the supreme duty of the parent is to give his children the capacity to win in the strenuous competition that lies before It would be a blessing to this Commonwealth if the wise and mighty words of the good bishop could impress every father and mother with the same ambition and purpose which the bishop says influences and contro.s him in his thoughts about his children .- Raleigh News and Observer.
