Two of the men plead guilty, and one was tried and convicted. The two men who plead guilty were let off with the costs in the case, and by agreeing that it should be made a record of the court as the finding of the jury that they had falsely and slanderously spoken words of and concerning a young lady which amounted to a charge of incontinency. A civil action for damages instituted by the young lady was settled by each of the men paying her five hundred dollars. The third man charged with slander is serving a six months sentence in the chain
