

THE GOLD LEAF.

ESTABLISHED 1881.

THAD R. MANNING.

THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1902.

The Atlanta Constitution speaks of the Charlotte News and Observer. Now won't that be some of the best Concord Tribunes.

Well, hasn't Charlotte the News and Observer? And two mighty good papers they are, too, of which the town has cause to be proud.

Insurance Commissioner Jas. R. Young says both the life and fire insurance companies are making money in this State.—Weldon News.

And yet the Southeastern Tariff Association is not satisfied but want our people to pay them 25 per cent. more in order to make good the loss sustained elsewhere.—Jacksonville, Fla., Paterson, N. J., etc.

We observe that some of our exchanges are still running the advertisements sent out by the Co-operative Medicine Company, Cincinnati, Ohio; the Independent Advertising Company, Chicago, Ill., ("Are You Dead?") International Aural Clinic; C. F. Zittel, New York City, (a firm of book-shop brokers), all of which concerns have been pronounced newspaper-deadbeats. The brethren are not only throwing away space but are making themselves parties to defrauding their readers by carrying such advertisements.

"The New Rice-Farming in the South" is the title of an article by Day Allen Willey in the August Review of Reviews which is likely to prove an eye opener to many readers who have underestimated the recent remarkable developments in Southern agriculture. That rice on the prairies of Louisiana and Texas is now seeded, harvested and threshed by machinery like that employed for wheat on the prairies of Kansas is only one of the facts brought out in this article by text and pictures which are likely to cause a ripple of surprise among Northern and Western readers.

As the great fist-contest pulled off in San Francisco last Friday night between James J. Jeffries, champion, and Robert Fitzsimmons, ex-champion, for the heavy weight championship, Fitzsimmons was knocked out in the eighth round. He appeared to have the better of the fight up to the time he received the knockout blow and while Jeffries was the favorite, at one time it looked very much like he would lose. An immense crowd witnessed the fight, the gross receipts from the sale of seats being $31,880. Jeffries will receive 60 per cent., or $14,346, and Fitzsimmons 40 per cent., or $9,534, of the gross receipts of the fight.

There are very many in this city and State who will bear with sincere sadness the death of one who was for years a prominent figure in social and professional life in this State, and whose kindly disposition and good deeds were conspicuous and generous. The suicide of Dr. Eugene Grissom at Washington on Sunday morning, a detailed account of which will be found elsewhere, will recall to very many minds the open-hearted, open-shouldered, sympathetic, and good-natured friend, a sympathizer with misfortune, a genial companion, the skilled and faithful physician. May the Great Searcher of Hearts and the Great Judge of all men's lives be kind, as He will be, to the soul of one who has met sorrows, sorrows and trials, in which he did much good to his fellow man without.

WOULD DESERVE TO BE SHOT LIKE A DOG. Statesville Landmark.

That Greensboro affair—the elopement of the young man Hardin and Mrs. Stafford—is not a matter for comment, but we are of the opinion that Hardin's father and friends are not doing themselves credit by endeavoring to persuade him to desert the woman. It is natural, of course, for them to want him to free himself from the alliance, but there is another side to it. The woman deserves no consideration probably, but the man took her away from her husband and children—at least he went away with her. He had not appeared on the scene she might be at home yet. Now that he has taken the woman he should take care of her. If he deserts her he deserves to be shot like a dog.

THE FITZSIMMONS—JEFFRIES FIGHT. The Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight in San Francisco was perhaps the most remarkable one on record and the manner of its finish still puzzles sportsmen. Up to the eighth round when Fitzsimmons received his knockout blow he had decidedly the better of the fight, punishing Jeffries terribly, bruising his face and breaking his nose. Of Fitzsimmons and his knockout the Savannah News says:

If Bob Fitzsimmons has actually retired from the ring, that institution has lost one of the greatest fighters it has ever seen. In his fight with Jeffries he won all of the honors, making the gigantic champion look like a novice, until the time of his fatal over-confidence in the eighth round. And this, it will be borne in mind, was the performance of a man nearly 45 years old, and as much as fifty pounds lighter than his antagonist. While one may not admire the line of business Fitzsimmons has been engaged in all his life, it is impossible not to admire the splendid strength that he has preserved for so many years in the midst of temptations.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla is the medicine for impure blood, eruptions, weakness and general debility. It positively and absolutely CURES.

DR. EUGENE GRISSOM A SUICIDE.

A Former Superintendent of the State Insane Asylum at Raleigh Sends a Bullet Through His Brain at the Home of His Son in Washington—Sad Ending of a Man Well Known in North Carolina History.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Dr. Eugene Grissom, once well known as an alienist and neurologist, committed suicide here today at his son's home, by sending a bullet through his brain. Dr. Grissom had been dejected and morose for several weeks and had become physically and mentally weakened from the use of strong narcotics. He was a native of Granville county, N. C., served on the Confederate side until wounded during the civil war and afterwards was a member of the State Legislature. For 21 years he was superintendent of the North Carolina insane asylum at Raleigh and gained a wide reputation as an alienist and lecturer. Before the American Medical Society he delivered a lecture entitled "The Borderland of Insanity," that attracted great attention. He was the author of "True and False Experts," a work devoted to showing the alleged inaccuracies of the expert testimony in insanity cases. Dr. Grissom was one time first vice-president of the American Medical Society and was several times president of the Association of American Asylums. He was the president of the convention of 1886. He was a Mason of high degree. He was 71 years old.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

Charlotte News.

Every true Democrat in North Carolina must feel a thrill of pride when he reviews the State Convention, which met yesterday in Greensboro and concluded its labors early this morning.

In most respects it was the best convention North Carolina Democrats ever held. There was not a single discordant note to mar perfect harmony; not a single contest from pre-arranged combat; the aspirant for nomination were all good men and true; the convention could have made no mistakes. From these aspirants were selected men who are a credit not only to their party but to this great commonwealth; men the people of the State delight to honor, men who stand upon a character and record that look not alone to party fealty, but whom the disinterested, non-partisan citizen, with an eye single to the good of his State, and the purity of its judiciary, may support with confidence.

Of the Supreme Court candidates, the convention and the people may be justly proud. Justice Walter Clark is a man of whom it may well be said that he possesses the love and the confidence of the people to a wonderful degree. Of unimpaired integrity as a jurist, great in character and attainment, a soldier, a gentleman and a scholar, the interests of the commonwealth, high and low alike, are safe in his hands.

Naturally Charlotte feels an especial pride in the candidates for the Associate Justiceship—Hon. Platt D. Walker. He is universally esteemed at home and abroad; a man of character and ability, who will adorn as the embodiment of truth and justice the position he is to fill, reflecting credit alike upon himself and the city that is proud to claim him as her own.

When one of Judge Connor's friends, in seconding his nomination, appealed to the West to name a man as near the equal of Connor as they could find the name of "Walker" was brought forward. Reverting to the order it is high enough praise for Judge Connor here in Mecklenburg to say that he is in every way worthy to sit with Platt D. Walker on the Supreme bench.

In the renomination of J. Y. Joyner and the selection of E. C. Bedford as field, the delegates displayed the same wisdom that characterized the other nominations. In short, the Democratic party and the entire State has reason to be proud of the convention of 1902; the people should feel that they have secured a noble and roll up such a majority as the excellence of the ticket placed before them deserves.

DIED LIKE THE DOG HE WAS. Statesville Landmark.

The fellow Coker, who was hanged at Greenville, Miss., Tuesday, seems to have been very much aggrieved when he found out that he had run up against the law so hard and fast that neither wealth nor influence could save him. By all accounts Coker was a desperado who had no regard for the rights of others. While on a drunken spree he and his companions wantonly killed an innocent man who had given them no provocation whatever, but who on the contrary was doing his best to get out of the way of Coker. Coker evidently expected that his money and the influence of his family would save his neck, and when he found that he must pay the penalty he died, like the dog he was, cursing everything in sight. The only thing that could be said in his favor is that he did not follow the usual style and claim that he was going straight to Heaven. We have no pleasure in any man's death but it is a satisfaction to know that the law still prevails at least in the fact that there are instances when neither money nor influence can overcome it.

REDUCTION OF THE TARIFF.

Would it be Accomplished Even With a Democratic Congress?

Baltimore Sun.

Messrs. Editors:—I have read with great interest your editorial in the Sun of July 22 on "Tariff Reform as a Practical Political Issue," in which you show the practice of protected industries in carrying American manufactured goods to foreign countries and there selling them for a little more than half what we Americans have to pay for the same goods. I remember distinctly hearing Senator Ransom make that statement in a public address as far back as 1887, and he cited the instance of a maker of hay rakes in Detroit selling them in that city for $23 and just across the river in Canada for $11. And I remember Mr. Clegg's similar reform message on the same subject. That argument has been rammed into every voter in the United States for years, and they all remember that we Democrats had the Presidency, the Senate and the House in 1895, and after a year of wrangling the party signally failed. Mr. Cleveland said "the deadly blight of treason blasted the councils of the brave in their hour of might" in his celebrated letter to "My Dear Catchings," in which he declared he would not sign the Wilson-Torrey Tariff bill.

Suppose there were to be held a Presidential election tomorrow and the Democrats should carry the Presidency and the House by a majority of 45 and the Senate by a majority of 10, and that Congress should proceed to execute the commands of the people, so that I could get an American-made hay rake, or nails, or wire, a typewriter or a coil of rope as cheaply as the man in Buenos Ayres, Britain or Berlin. Do you suppose the Congress would do it? Don't you know that the protectionist lobby would tie up Congress, and the cry of the Chinaman living on 3 cents a day and the pauper labor of Europe and the demands and dignity of American labor would resound through the land, and that Maryland and perhaps other border States would all go Northward, and finally some acute Democratic statistician would figure out for publication that the Bailey-Richardson and Bryan-somewhat bill had made a general reduction of 6.4 per cent. from the Dingley tariff, that it had reduced the 33-1-4 per cent. instead of 60 per cent.? That's about what would become of it, Mr. Editor.

There was once a negro Congressman from my district, and he voted in Congress for the McKinley bill. On his return home he called to see me on some business, and I had his attorney for a long time. He greeted me with a broad smile, to which I responded with pretended or mock indignation: "Why did you vote for a law to make me pay $25 for a coat which without that law I could buy for $12.50?" To this he replied, "Well, counselor, that does look pretty bad, but there's at least a hundred ways of looking at that thing." Mr. Editor, the point was yielded by the protectionist infant industries in 1828, when they agreed to Clay's compromise to reduce 10 per cent. in each year for 10 years. The Supreme Court of the United States long ago declared it was unconstitutional and robbery. It is no more nor less than a system by which the manufacturing North keeps the agricultural South in vassalage. If we had a Democratic Congress and President, today I do not believe the tariff would be reduced 10 per cent. below what it now is. If you think it can or will be done, please explain in your editorial how it is to be brought to pass. The people here will be ready or willing all the time and now are. The politicians will not permit it.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of "Bookwater," Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum, and we had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a little of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do it, and according to directions. In two days the child was fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by M. Dorsey, druggist.

Bulldozing Methods

OF THE SOUTHEASTERN TARIFF ASSOCIATION.

Representatives of the Combine Working in Greensboro Trying to Force the Home Companies to Raise the Rate of Insurance—Threats Made Against Local Agents and Policy Holders—Will North Carolinians Submit to Such Outrageous Treatment?

Last week the GOLD LEAF had something to say about the action of the Southeastern Tariff Association—the Fire Insurance Trust—in advancing rates 25 per cent. and waging war on the Greensboro companies (which are not in the combine) because they refused to do so. In this connecting the following which is taken from the Greensboro Record of Saturday will be of interest:

Representatives of the Southeastern Tariff Association have been in Greensboro for two days laboring with the home companies to get them to raise the rate of insurance. The Greensboro public will be gratified to know that the home companies have withstood the tremendous pressure that has been brought to bear on them and has decided to stand steadfastly by their position and not to charge the 25 per cent. advance. As a penalty for this decision the Association companies have forced all their Greensboro agents to surrender the agency of the Greensboro companies and to sever all connection with them. It is said they threatened Messrs. O. W. Carr & Co., D. C. Waddell, Murray Bros. and Tate & Walsh who were agents for both the Association companies and the Greensboro companies and said that unless they severed all connection with the Greensboro companies, they would withdraw from Greensboro entirely, and they were about to put this threat into effect. This meant the utter ruin of the business of these agents in the building up of which some of them have spent a life-time, and there was nothing else for them to do but accept the terms offered and to give up the Greensboro companies. Besides forcing these agents to cancel their contracts with the Greensboro companies, these foreign companies have inaugurated a war on the business of the home companies at Greensboro. A thoroughly competent business man will give an appointive agent of the home company to take the place of those agents who have been forced to resign.

If what was told the Record this morning is true, the Association has gone even further than this. It is said they went to several large concerns here with heavy insurance rates and told them unless they made the home companies advance their rates 25 per cent. they, the Association, would cancel all policies held on such risks, leaving them practically with no insurance whatever. Besides forcing these agents to cancel their contracts with the Greensboro companies, these foreign companies have inaugurated a war on the business of the home companies at Greensboro. A thoroughly competent business man will give an appointive agent of the home company to take the place of those agents who have been forced to resign.

It is perhaps safe to say that not a single property owner in Greensboro will be found who will be tempted by any cut in rates to withdraw his support from the Greensboro companies, and that the people of Greensboro will do as they did in the former fight, place with the outside companies that they cannot handle. The people of Greensboro have made a record for standing together on occasions like this, and the foreign insurance companies are merely butting their heads against a stone wall.

The Southeastern Tariff Association has adopted the same tactics in Henderson that they did in Greensboro—that of withdrawing connection with agencies and destroying business in order to enforce their rules and carry out their mandates. Only in the case here cited they have gone just a little further perhaps in their rule or rulin policy and with less cause for it.

About one year ago R. S. McCoin and J. L. Currin entered into the real estate and fire insurance business together under the firm name of McCoin & Currin. On the 12th day of last May they bought the insurance business of Hunter & Coleman and enlarged their business. At that time they represented two of the Greensboro companies and fourteen companies in the Southeastern Tariff Association. When the rate war came on they were asked to give up the Greensboro companies or charge the people 25 per cent. more for their insurance than the companies were asking.

About the first of July Mr. Currin bought Mr. McCoin's interest in the insurance business, taking over the old companies, or rather retaining them, while Mr. McCoin took the agency of the Greensboro companies. Mr. Currin, immediately after buying Mr. McCoin's interest, wrote his companies of the purchase and of the dissolution of the firm of McCoin & Currin. This, at first, seemed to meet their approval and several out of the number commissioned Mr. Currin individually as their agent.

On July 19th the special agents for the Southeastern Tariff Association met in Asheville and the Henderson agency was brought up and discussed. As a result of the meeting a special agent was sent to Henderson to interview Messrs. McCoin and Currin. In this interview both R. S. McCoin and J. L. Currin offered to make affidavit that the dissolution of the firm was made in good faith and that neither had an interest in the business of the other.

Whereupon Currin was informed that unless he could control the actions of McCoin and have him cease writing insurance for less than the Tariff Companies ask he, Currin, would lose his companies. This Currin could not do, and he has since lost all but two of his companies.

The Statesville Landmark of the 29th inst. a timely and well considered editorial on the "Insurance Rate War and Combines," says:

An insurance rate war which has long been threatening, is now on in North Carolina. Some time ago the Southeastern Tariff Association, which represents practically all the fire insurance companies doing business in North Carolina except what are known as the Greensboro companies, and that is, the Greensboro companies to make the advance having been refused, the promised rate war was inaugurated with a vengeance. All agents who handle the business of the Greensboro companies have been notified that they must cancel their insurance or else get out of the business of the Association will be taken from them. Not only that, but persons who carry insurance in the Greensboro companies have been notified that they must cancel this insurance or else get out of the business of the Association will be taken from them.

This is an effort to coerce with a vengeance and the outcome will be watched with interest. The Greensboro companies are composed of many people with means and ability. They have done quite a large business since their organization several years ago. Because they do not ally themselves with the Southeastern Tariff Association and conform to its rules but prefer to do business in their own way, the Association has repeatedly made them an object of attack and has endeavored in one way or another to injure them and drive them out of business. This last attack is the fiercest yet made and it is an evidence of the growing power of combinations—of trusts, of certain business interests, combine and all similar business interests are asked to join in the combination. If any refuse an effort is made to destroy that business. No matter what the opinion of a person or company as to the propriety of the combination, no matter how much they may desire to continue to do business in their own way, they must yield to the combination or take the risk of being crushed and the chances are always against them.

It does seem in cases of this kind that the public ought to take a hand in certain business interests, combine and direct its efforts against the combination by refusing to give it business, but generally the public doesn't take any special concern in such matters, notwithstanding it is the people who are vitally concerned. It does seem, too, that the law should be made which would give some relief in the premises, but so far all attempts in that direction have resulted in practical failure. We are no alarmist, but the steady advance of these combinations in all lines of business, independent business of every independent business enterprise, of every nature. Any of us are liable to wake up any day and find that a combine has been formed in the business in which we are engaged, and if our business is of sufficient importance the combine will buy it at its own figure or allow us to enter on a combine by it, no matter how unsatisfactory the terms may be. Either that or be crushed out by the combine. The fruits of years of toil may be thus taken away and those dependent on it may suffer. The combine has no regard for the man who stands in its way; you must yield peaceably or yield to force.

By and by, when the force of the combines is more clearly felt by all the people; when they come in daily contact with their operations and are made to realize the injustice, there will be some sort of a revolution and greed will be overthrown.

A novel trial was "pulled off" here yesterday, though we are not informed as to the outcome. A colored man near Kittrell put the law on another trial. The case was for a "conjunction" into his home at night, preventing himself and family from sleeping, irritating his eyes, and otherwise adding to his discomfort physically and mentally. He also charges the same party with sprinkling the case for powder in his cotton patch, thus irritating his eyes while at work. These two men were formerly good friends and used to be captain and corporal respectively in the Freedman's League.
