THE N'WSPAPER MEN WILL HAVE A GREAT TIME.
 Program Arranged for Entertaining the Members of the National Editorial Association in Oklahoma and Indian Territory After the Convention Adjourns at Guthrie.

The Indians can realize more money by turning their lands over to the plowmen than from the cowmen, who have had charge of the largest portion of the redskins' possessions in the past. This condition will put the cowboys out of business and drive them to the far West, and the final roundup to be given on this occasion will be the farewell of this class of citizens in Oklahoma.

 From there the special will be conducted by the Hon. Ben Hennessey, one of the best elocutionists in the country, to assist in the entertainment of the editors at the various meetings.
 The educational institutions of the territory have been requested to send their special quartettes to furnish music with our own local talent.
 On Friday evening, June 9th, after the convention adjourns, the special Pullman train will leave the union depot over the D. E. & G., for Enid, where the visitors will be royally entertained until midnight.
 From there the train will leave via Frisco for Lawton where breakfast will be served by the wholesaled club women. After this kindly feast the commercial club and the citizens will have arranged carriages to take the visitors to the Indian schools, then to the historic Fort Sill, where Major Ripley will have prepared special military maneuvers.
 From there the party will pass the home and tribe of old Geronimo, up through the beautiful and picturesque valley of Medicine Bluff to the foot of Mount Sheridan, to the Wichita Mountains, thence to the gold fields and return to Lawton.
 At 11:00 o'clock on the morning of June 10, the train will be transferred to the Rock Island railroad and half hour stops will be made at Anadarko and Chickasha, arriving at El Reno at 3:00 p. m.
 One hour will be given at El Reno, arriving at Oklahoma City at 5:00 p. m.
 The entertainment at Oklahoma City will be one of par excellence. That being one of the largest wholesale, manufacturing and wealthiest centers in the territory something magnificent is to be expected.
 At 101 Ranch.
 After this tour thus far made by the national editors, showing the great development and progress of Oklahoma in sixteen years, the visitors will be taken to the largest agricultural and stock farm in the United States, comprising 87,000 acres of the best land in the West, owned by the Miller Brothers.
 Here will be presented one of the most intellectual and historical exhibitions ever given on the plains of the West. All of the tribes of Indians will congregate for the last time in commemoration of the dissolution of their tribal relations. This is something that has never been seen and something that will never be seen again.
 The cause of this dissolution is that

Backache, "The Blues"
 Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.
 Mrs. J. C. Holmes
 Emma Cotrely

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break," or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts?" These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention.
 Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some urticar derangement. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the ablest specialists agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for women's ills known to medicine.
 The following letters from Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely among the many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those whom she has relieved.
 Mrs. J. C. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes:
 Dear Mrs. Pinkham—
 "I have suffered everything with backache and womb trouble for a long time until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was commenced by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved, I should have taken it months sooner—for few treatments made me well and strong. My backache and headaches are all gone and I feel as free and cheerful as I ever felt, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain."
 Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:
 Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

At the Twilight.
 F. E. M., in Guthrie, (Okla.) State Capital.
 As sure as the red years die, dear, as sure as the red years die,
 The day and the hour will come, dear, to whisper a last good-bye—
 When love shall unloose the handclasp and under the heaving clay
 Shall hide in the shadow dark, dear, the dreams of by-gone days.
 Whatever paths we wander, they lead to the laughing land,
 One goes to the realm of shadows, one waits with a lonely heart;
 And tears that we weep together shall come at the cry of prayer,
 And flow in a flood of grieving at pangs of parting there.
 The roses will bloom as red, dear, through all the bud and bloom,
 The lilies will grow as white, dear, but neither will understand,
 For what is the rose and the lily to hearts that murmur and moan,
 With eyes that were bright all dim, dear, and one of us here alone!
 Ah, one that is left shall murmur and ask of the heart's old home,
 And question the awful silence and mourn at the gates of gloom;
 And through the nights of darkness and sit at the doors of woe,
 And never an answer at all, dear, from lips that it used to know.
 And one at the gate stand watching as there in the years before,
 While the latch of the gate is silent and one shall return no more!
 Whichever it be that goes, dear, whichever it be that stays,
 The lily and rose shall bloom, dear, through all the lonely days,
 And all that we loved so bravely and all that we loved so long,
 Shall dwell with the one that stays, dear, and light the life with song.
 Enough that the joys were many, that Love Enough that we knew the raptures as true, Enough that the years were happy and sweet was the golden light,
 That came at the first "Good Morning," and stayed till the last "Good Night."

SOUTH SHOWS WELL
THREE OUT OF FIVE STAR MEN
 Is Representative of the South Among First Honor Men in the Graduating Class at the United States Military Academy at West Point this Year—North Carolina Among the Number.
 Charlotte News.
 The News has referred with pride to the fact that the South is well represented among the first honor men in the present graduating class at West Point. The Syracuse, N. Y., Post-Standard pays the South the following very handsome and graceful compliment, apropos of the fact that three Southern boys are numbered among the first five honor men in the class.
 The names of five young men, this year's graduates of the United States Military Academy, have been given out by the authorities of the Academy as stars. They have achieved all round excellence in their final examinations, and they stand at the head of this year's class. One of these young men is from Michigan and another from Oregon. The rest are from the South. The first man on the list is Jones, from Georgia; the third is Graves, of North Carolina, and fifth is Ridley, of Maryland.
 The disappointment that may be felt because eastern men are not represented in this honor roll of the educational institution which Americans love best is compensated by the thought that the part of the country which has given America a race of brave soldiers and great generals from George Washington to Fitzhugh Lee, is still able to furnish its quota of able and loyal young Americans to take the prizes at West Point.
 This friendly comment leads the Atlanta Constitution to make the following timely remarks:
 Truly and generously spoken; and the late war with Spain and the troubles in the Philippines have abundantly demonstrated that the patriotism of Southern soldiers, in the Federal sense, is fully up to the standard of their soldierly mettle. The young men of the South have the blood of patriots and soldiers in them and it is gratifying to this section of our common country to know that they are still capable of measuring up to the old ideals in the proof to which they are being put in these later days.
 The South can be depended upon to live up to its honorable reputation in peace or war.

THE COALING STATION.
 Prospects of the Building of a Line to Southport From the Coal Fields.
 Manufacturers' Record.
 Dispatches from Bristol, Tenn., report President George L. Carter of the South and Western railway as saying that the decision of Judge Blair approving the sale of the Clinchfield corporations' property to Mr. Carter and associates means that extension of the South and Western Railway will be built. The plans of the South and Western as heretofore announced are to build an extension northwest from Johnson City, Tenn., to a point at or near Tom's Creek, Va., in order to develop the Crane Nest coal fields, which like the South and Western road, are controlled by the Clinchfield Corporation. The directors of the Clinchfield company are James Clark, president; J. Southgate, Landon M. Miles White, all of Baltimore; F. J. Lisman, of New York; George L. Carter, of Bristol; H. H. Kingston and Archer A. Phleger. In addition to extending to the coal field the South and Western proposes to build southeast from Spruce Pine, N. C., a connection with some other railroad, perhaps the Seaboard Air Line.
 Mr. Carter's associates in the deal are a syndicate of New York capitalists in which it is said that Blair & Co. and Thomas F. Ryan, both prominent in the Seaboard, are leaders. If this means the Seaboard will get the properties it is probable that a coal route will be formed from the Crane Nest fields to Southport, N. C., as projected some time ago.
 An authoritative announcement of the plans of the Seaboard Air Line for a coaling station on the North Carolina coast has been made by President Barr. The Norfolk Landmark says:
 President and General Manager J. M. Barr of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, stated yesterday that the Seaboard Air Line does not hold any south-west Virginia or northern Tennessee coal fields by decree of court, as has been reported, or in any other manner, but that the lands are held by Thomas F. Ryan, James Blair, T. Jefferson Cooledge, Jr., Norman Reem, J. B. Dennis and associates, as a private investment.
 "It is proposed to construct a road from the coal fields near Johnson City, Tenn., to Lincolnton, N. C., at which point it will connect with the Seaboard Air Line. The length of this road will be 275 miles, of which 65 miles is already constructed, and there is an additional 275 miles of completed grade.
 "The coal terminals will be either at Wilmington or Southport, N. C., as it would be too long a haul to this port to successfully compete with the Norfolk and Western or the Chesapeake and Ohio railroads.
 "It is probable that Southport will be the place ultimately decided upon for the terminals, because it is nearer to the ocean than Wilmington, and has the additional recommendation of forty feet depth of water."

Terrific Race with Death.
 "Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and to-day I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at Melville Dorsey's drug store; price 50c.

President Roosevelt Talks to Strikers.
 Stateside Landmark.
 Returning from his Western trip, the President stopped Wednesday in Chicago, where the great strike is in progress. While he was there a delegation of strikers called on the President and entered a protest against sending Federal troops to Chicago to suppress the strike. The President said he had not been asked for troops; he reproved the strikers for their references to the Federal troops and assured them that the mayor of Chicago had his "hearty support in suppressing mob violence." Continuing, the President said:
 "I am a believer in unions. I am an honorary member of one union. But the union must obey the law just as the corporations must obey the law, just as every man, rich or poor, must obey the law. As yet no action has been called for by me, and most certainly if action is called for by me, I shall try to do exact justice under the law to every man as far as I have power. But the first essential is the preservation of the law and order, the suppression of violence by mobs or individuals.
 "That's the right sort of talk. It took some nerve. The President might not have been so brave if this had happened last year when he was a candidate, but it is gratifying to see him telling strikers to their faces that the law must be obeyed. The average politician would have talked an hour and committed himself to nothing, but there is no mistaking Mr. Roosevelt's language. Whatever else may be said of Old Man Cleveland and Mr. Roosevelt, it can be truthfully said that each of them has the courage of his convictions."
