Getting Away from the Counter.

The quickest way to get away from the counter is to work hard, be polite and obliging at the counter. The trouble with people who complain that they cannot get above the positions they are in is that they cannot see that the step to the thing above them is in the thing they are doing, in their manner of doing it, that the opportunity for advancement is in the promptness, the thoroughness, the efficiency they show in the positions they now occupy.

Of two clerks working side by side in a store, one knows that the best part of his salary is not found in his pay envelope, but in the opportunity to learn the business, to extract from it the secrets which his employer may have paid a fortune for, besides putting his life into it. He is all eyes, all ears, all the time thinking of better methods, improved ways of doing things, and he finally becomes a proprietor himself. The other sees nothing in his work but drudgery and a perpetual clerkship.

If you have a hundred acres of land and only four people to support, as one correspondent states that he has, if you have enough brain, ambition, determination, and grit, you can not only support the people depending upon you, but you can also give yourself a good education,—for you can buy all the books you need, and if you are a good manager, if you have system, you can have all the leisure you require for study.

If you are made of the stuff that wins, nobody can keep you back, for if you do not find your chance where you are, you will find it somewhere else. But remember that your achievement can not rise higher than your resolution. So long as you think you are tied down so that you cannot move, you will never get on. The man who acknowledges that he is a "perpetual clerk" will never become manager or proprietor or anything until he changes his conviction. His own lack of confidence and push, not circumstances, is the chain which binds him. It is as natural that we should obtain the thing we long for with all our heart, and persistently work to obtain, as that a stone should come to the earth when hurled into the air. The ambition, the desire, the longing, the hunger, the struggle toward the aim, these are the forces of gravitation which bring us the desired result.

Recreation Magazine For October.

As usual, this most charming of outdoor magazines is fairly bursting with handsome cover with seasonal articles and stories, this month mostly of wildfowl shooting. Easily the best of all articles ever published on the subject is "Duck Shooting with Gun and Camera," by C. S. Cummings, showing some most remarkable pictures of the author shooting ducks dropping through the air, and the man is clearly shown simultaneously firing the gun and operating the camera. Another very readable article is "Some Ducks of the Drylands," by the veteran sportsman author, Edwyn Saundys. Mr. Saundys shows that cold feet, soaking wet raiment, with an icy wind and prospect of rheumatism, are not necessary adjuncts of all duck-shooting. Still other stories of particular interest to sportsmen are "The Bird of the Hour," by Reginald Gourlay; "Mallard-shooting in the Rockies," by Everett Dufour; "Duck-shooting in the Corn," by F. Henry York; and "The Call of the Grouse," by G. Murray Sheppard. In "The Way of the Warden," by Edward Cave, this able writer brings forth in a new light the life and character of the game warden. By far the majority of articles that reach the public eye about these men are not only derogatory to them, but would lead the reader to believe them absolutely reprehensible. In this ably handled article, Mr. Cave shows them as men working faithfully for the good of the commonwealth, for small thanks, smaller appreciation and still smaller pay. Other articles, of more general interest, are "The Indians of the Labrador," by Clifford H. Easton; "Cruising the Florida North Pacific," by D. W. and A. S. Iddings; "The Art of Camping," by Charles A. Bramble; "Down the Ta-qua-ma-nou," by C. J. Mizer; "Fall-Out with a Girl," by L. C. Rogers; "A Cup Racer in the Making," by J. Williams Macy, Jr.; and "More Speed in Shell Rowing," by Henry Burnett Post.

Hazing Should Not be Tolerated.

Statesville Landmark. The young man who shot another at the University, under the belief that he was about to be "hazed," may have been unduly alarmed, but until the contrary appears, the Landmark will believe that an attempt was being made to haze that freshman and if such was the case served when he caught a bullet. We say again, as we have often said before, that hazing is the act of contemptible cowards and those who engage in it get exactly what they deserve if they get shot. No brave, honorable or manly man will engage in the practice of hazing and the brute who is guilty of it should not be tolerated among respectable people, in colleges or elsewhere.

If an article is initiated, the original is always best. Think it over, and when you go to buy that box of salt to keep around the house, get DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is the original and the name is stamped on every box. Good for eczema, letter, boils, cuts and bruises, and especially recommended for piles. Sold at Parker's Two Drug Stores.

After all, there is a great difference between telling the truth and refraining from telling a lie.

Should be Thankful for What They Do Not Publish.

Gastonia Gazette. What the editors leave in their ink bottles, and pigeon-holes, and wastebaskets, would make a big book and a powerfully readable one. If what the contributors of correspondents should occasionally give offense, the offended person should consider that he would have been a great deal madder if he had known how much the editor left in his ink bottle or out of offending correspondence. As the Concord Times so well says, the man who gets mad at what the newspaper says about him should give thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knows about him and doesn't say.

FLUE CURING IMPROVES TOBACCO LIKE ROASTING IMPROVES GREEN COFFEE

Flue Curing Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste Found in Schnapps that Satisfies Tobacco Hunger

There are three ways used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely, sun cured, air cured and flue cured; the old and cheap way is called air cured; the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured. In flue-curing the tobacco is taken from the field and suspended over intensely hot flues in houses especially built to retain the heat, and there kept in the proper temperature until this curing process develops in the tobacco the stimulating taste and fragrant aroma found in Schnapps tobacco, just as green coffee is made fragrant and stimulating by the roasting process. Only choice selections of this ripe, juicy flue cured leaf, grown in the famous Piedmont country, where the best tobacco grows, are used in Schnapps and other Reynolds' brands of high grade, flue cured tobaccos.

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps; the outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco; one chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco.

Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other kind, and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers. If the kind of tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy, more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.

Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c. to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts, strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.

The South's Imperial Staple. Manufacturers' Record. Over $2,000,000,000 is invested in cotton mills in Europe and America dependent upon the South for their raw material. It is estimated that 10,000,000 people in Great Britain alone live on the cotton industry of that country. The balance of trade in favor of the United States depends upon our cotton exports which now annually reach $400,000,000, or more than the world's gold production. Of this royal crop imperial in magnitude and in domination of the world's financial and manufacturing interests, the South holds a world-monopoly. Its ability to increase cotton production to meet the world's growing needs and its ability to develop cotton manufacturing commensurate with its monopoly of cotton production, are limited only by its labor supply. Economic forces will of necessity bring about a great increase in population and thus prepare the way for a vast expansion in manufacturing and in production as the price and demand may justify. The South produces 80 per cent. of the cotton for the 119,000,000 spindles in the world, but has less than 10,000,000 spindles itself. Think of the limitless possibilities for expansion in this industry alone when you are studying the future of the South.
