FLUE CURING IMPROVES TOBACCO LIKE ROASTING IMPROVES GREEN COFFEE

Flue Curing Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste Found In Schnapps that Satisfies Tobacco Hunger

There are three ways used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely, sun cured, air cured and flue cured. The old and cheap way is called air cured; the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured. In flue-curing the tobacco is taken from the field and suspended over intensely hot flues in houses especially built to retain the heat, and there kept in the proper temperature until this curing process develops in the tobacco the stimulating taste and fragrant aroma found in Schnapps tobacco, just as green coffee is made fragrant and stimulating by the roasting process. Only choice selections of this ripe, juicy flue cured leaf, grown in the famous Piedmont country, where the best tobacco grows, are used in Schnapps and other Reynolds' brands of high grade, flue cured tobaccos.

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps; the outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco; one chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco.

Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other kind, and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers. If the kind of tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy, more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.

Schnapps is like the tobacco chewer formerly bought costing from 75c. to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts, strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.

GOVERNMENT WAGES LOW.

H. T. Newcomb Gives Facts of Interest to Wage Earners. From 1896 to 1904 the average retail cost of the ordinary articles of food used in the United States advanced no less than 17 per cent (16.96, to be more exact)—that is, the purchaser of food for a family had to pay $1.17 in 1904 for the same quantity and quality of food that $1 would purchase in 1896.

Unquestionably wages ought, generally speaking, to have advanced somewhat in proportion to the increase in the cost of living. In private employment this has apparently taken place, the average wages per hour reported by the federal bureau of labor being 17.23 per cent higher in 1904 than in 1896 and the average weekly earnings 12.76 per cent higher. The advances thus represented are spread all over the country; they characterize every private industrial enterprise and have benefited all classes of workmen employed in private undertakings.

How is it with public employment? A few undertakings employed under public ownership employed labor like that which serving private employers in the same communities, and in these cases the public rate of wages has slowly been advanced somewhat in proportion to the advance in the American private pay. But there are many government, municipal, state or national, public works or by far the largest employer of a particular class of labor the advance to meet increased cost of living have been so few that the ordinary laborer will be unable to obtain a single instance. From 1896 to 1904 the average of the 2,700 clerical employees at Washington in the customs and internal revenue services there have been no advances in pay to meet the rise in cost of food, clothing and shelter. The cost of letter carriers, for example, has risen precisely where it was fixed twenty years ago by an act approved on Jan. 3, 1887.

The largest printing office in the world is that maintained at Washington by the government, and there the federal government employs a large force of laborers and highly skilled workmen. A change in the basis of payment in 1880 from the piece work to the per hour system prevents comparison with other dates prior to the change, but wages have remained stationary since March 3, 1890, although the official statisticians report that the rate of wages was fixed by statute July 22, 1890, at 10 cents per hour. In the same year the wages of printers in private book publishing or job printing establishments advanced throughout the United States as follows: Compositors, male, 13.67 per cent; compositors, female, 33.23 per cent; press feeders, male, 22.41 per cent; press feeders, female, 21.27 per cent; galleysmen, 11.75 per cent.—H. T. Newcomb.

THE CASH BOY TALKS.

His Father's idea of the Delights of Municipal Ownership. "Say, boss," remarked our cash boy this morning, "my pay is red hot for munisiciple ownership. I don't know what that is, but paw says everybody is going to own everything and divide up the profits. He was telling me about it last night."

"Ma asked him where the people would get the money to buy those things, as they would cost millions of dollars."

"Paw said, 'Issa bonds.'"

"Yes," said ma, "but how will you pay the bonds when they are due?"

"I don't know," said paw. "Pay the interest with bonds." "I don't see how you could do that," said ma.

"You don't, eh?" replied pa. "Now, when we went to homekeeping, didn't I pay for all our furniture by giving a note, and when it came due, paw gave the man another note? You women know nothing about finance. You wait until the munisiciple ownership gets in power, we will divide the profits among the people, and no one will have any more notes."

"Yes, there are some things I don't know, and one of those things is this: If there is a man more fit for the lunatic asylum than you, I don't know him."

"Then I commenced to whistle everybody works but Daddy." Say, boss, you see that lump on the back of my head? Paw has had that tone poked at him before, and I wasn't looking when his old shoe came flying my way.—Yonkers Statesman.

Senator Sorghum In Doubt. "Do you think that municipal ownership would eliminate graft?" asked Senator Sorghum. "Whether it would eliminate it or simply originate a new kind."
