Mr. Williams has preached some fine sermons and the congregations hear him gladly. He is a ready and entertaining speaker without indulging in flowers of rhetoric or pleasing platitudes and holds the close attenion of his hearers. Full of zeal for he Master's cause and earnest in his efforts to convert men from sin and point the way to right thinking and right living, his sermons breathe the true spirit of love and sympathy as exemplified in the life and ministrations of the crucified One. Logical, heart-searching, convincing, Mr. Williams' sermons must be fruitful of ood in the community which has already been so greatly blessed in spiritual things.
