WASTING THEIR SPACE.

We notice that some of our exchanges are still running the Casper Company's advertisement. They are wasting their space if this business was placed through the Andre Advertising Agency, self-styled, of Winston-Salem. There is no longer any Andre Advertising Agency, if there ever was, and debts contracted by the fellow who operated under that name are unpaid and will remain so, while he has skipped out and the Casper concern repudiates all liability for the advertising done for them.

Andre was a protoge of Casper and latter is not as innocent of fleecing of the Navy, who was lieutenant colothe newspapers that were caught by the "Andre Advertising Agency (?)" as he professes to be. However that may be he claims to have paid An- Grubb, who commanded the New dre for all advertising contracts placed by him besides being a loser to the amount of twelve or fifteen hundred dollars by personally en-

In the mean time the newspapers that were "touched" by Andre are out several times as much in the aggregate and the only consolation the Casper concern offers is that they are going to place their next advertising appropriation through another agency (giving the name) and when they do they will see that a part of this business goes to the papers that had the Andre contract. But a "burnt child feareth the fire," and we suspect that those publishers who have been swindled one time on account of the Casper Company will not care to have any more dealings with them however remotely, albeit the business come through a perfectv reliable source.

A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans, of Petersburg, have accepted an invitation to attend the unveiling ceremonies in uniform, and the local military company, the Petersburg Grays, will act as escort to both Governor Stewart and Governor Swanson.

It is significant that this announcement should be made by a Massachusetts newspaper, while the Confederate jollification is going on in the capital of the Confederacy.

There was a time when the erection of a monument to Northern soldiers was purely a Northern affair; now Southerners have pride in taking part in the ceremony. How Property Values Shrink in June

Chatham Record

The annual season for listing taxables has come again and throughout this State the tax assessors and list takers will be busy for the next 30 days. In addition to listing personal property, which is done every year, this is the year for a new assessment or valuation of real property. This listing of property for taxaion, and especially in valuation, tetts a man's conscience and honesty more than anything else, and sad to say, very few persons can stand the test.

It is a sad and shameful trait of our weak human nature and that even many church members and other good citizens too often yield to the temptation of stretching their consciences a little too far in listing earned justice, but of the whole countries their property for taxation. Many ry as well. The highest court in all do not seem to regard it as dishonest McKinley was the loyalty and devohe land had said that of right we or disreputable to evade their share liable. Under the law the court of taxation in listing their taxables. and no other recourse but to render | And yet all tax-payers are interested, this decision. And when the decision or should be interested in having everybody list his taxables fairly and truthfully. A certain amount of taxes must be raised and it is to the interest of every one that all should pay their proper share and bear the burden of taxation. Did you ever notice how little property some people own during the mouth of June-at tax listing time? And how some property shrinks in value at that time? You have often heard the expression "as thin as a June shad," and it might also be said, "How worthless does some people's property become in June!"

Recently the surviving members of the Twenty-third New Jersey volunteers erected at Salem Church, Va., a momument to the memory of their comrades who fell in the battle at Salem Church May 23, 1863. The remarkable thing about the monument, however, is that on one side it bears a tablet of bronze with this in-

E. Burd A large Jersey regiment. Gen. Grubb's response to the letter is in fine spirit. The incident is remarkable—that the survivors of a regiment should voluntarily put on a monument erected to their dead comrades a tablet in memory of those who opposed them. A few years ago a Federal soldier who suggested such a thing would have been denounced by almost every Grand Army post as a traitor, and any sort of recognition of the Confederates would have been regarded as treasonable. The breadth of the New Jersey people deserves all commendation. It is a model for our own people as well as those of the Wilmington Messenger.

In organizing a fight on the part of the railway rate discrimination from which this State suffers, Mr. Norman H. Johnson attorney for the North Carolina Retail Merchants' Assocition is doing a great public service. It must be obvious to any who pauses a moment to think that the question of freight charges upon merchandise vitally concerns every citizen through the cost of his living; but this is not all. So long as North Carolina submits to her present treatment by the railroads a vast amount of business naturally belonging to her own towns and cities must be carried on beyond her borders, with resulting, loss, direct or indirect, to merchant, mechanic, professional man, farmer -everybody. Far from being given chance to do business in the States which North Carolina trade enriches, her cities are hemmed in at their very doors. Ground between the Virginia points on one side and Atlanta on he other, our people are given over by the "Associated Railways" to be exploited. This evil goes deep; it concerns more than loss of wealth. North Carolina, until she gets her dues from the railroads, can never have large cities to serve as centres of enlightenment and fitly represent her to the world; she has been condemned, in so far as the railroads had power, to be and memain a neck

Two Drng Stores. A Young Man's Predicament.

Winston Republican.

A young lady on a street car last Monday (we will not call any names) felt her shoe string coming loose and she reached down and tied it. The young man sitting beside her, a total stranger to her, knew that she had mixed up his shoestring with hers but bashfulness kept him quiet. He thought, however, that if the bow she made were not too strong he might ease his foot away and get loose. He tried and the woman immagined that he was touching her foot to attract her attention, and she glared wrathfully at him. The passengers caught on and were laughing and blushing. Unable to stand it all any longer the young fellow jumped up and made for the door. The woman's foot followed him, and then realizing what she had done she caught his coat tails and held him till she could release herself.
