Death of Mr. E. R. Haskins.

Mr. E. R. Haskins died at the home of his mother in Boydton, Va., at 10 o'clock vesterday (Wednesday) morning. Four weeks ago he went home sick and it was thought at the time that his condition was serious. He had not been in good health for several months and in January his physician advised him to quit work. But he would not give up until tired nature rebelled and through sheer exhaustion he was compelled to do so.

Mr. Haskins was teller of the First National Bank of Henderson, a position which he had held since the bank was established nearly three years ago. He was a capable official and was thoroughly devoted to his duties. Mr. Haskins had labored under disadvantages for the last six months of which few even among his most intimate friends knew. He suffered much but bore his infirmaties with heroic fortitude never complaining or neglecting his work. Deceased was 25 years old. He was n member of the Methodist Episcopal spotless life of a Christian gentleman. He leaves a mother, four brothers and two sisters beside a large circle of more distant relatives and friends to mourn his death which, indeed, seems all too untimely. But God does not err and it is for us to bow in humble submission to His

Back to Far Northwestern Home. Distressing Occurrence. Death of a Lovely Young Woman.

Mr. Thomas G. Skinner, Jr., Dead His Own Hands-Was Alone at Design is Not Known Family and Friends Hope 'Twas Accident

As the result of a pistol shot Mr. Thomas G. Skinner, Jr., was killed at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. C. H. Turner, in this place Saturday afternoon a little before I o'clock. The pistol was fired in the young man's own hands, whether from accident or design is not known. Mr. Skinner had been here four or five weeks visiting his sisters, Mr. C. H. Turner and Mrs. J. C. Kittrell. Sunday he was going to Raleigh to stand examination on Monday for license to practice law. He had made all his arrangements to this effect even to cashing a check and providing himself with the necessary funds for expense account, examination fee, etc. He had just left the dining room after eating dinner and appeared to be in his usual mood. Passing through Mr. Turner's room he took a revolver from its holster and was handling the weapon. A shot was heard and the injured man staggered a few steps and fell almost into the passage way between the dining room and the room he was in. The pistol dropped on the floor and it was open or "broken" in the position of loading or ejecting the shells when it was picked up. It was a centre fire but the exploded cartridge did not show that the hammer had struck it squarely as in the act of firing, but the concussion was on one side somewhat scraping in nature as if it might have been fired as the pistol was "broken" or snapped together. The ball took effect in the left side and penetrated the heart. Death was almost instantaneous the unfortunate young man being practically dead by the time any one could reach him.

It was a distressing occurrence and it is all a matter of conjecture as to how it happened. The theory of accident is plausible and the young man may have been a victim of his own carelessness. He had taken quite a fancy to the pistol and tried to buy it from Mr. Turner who would not part with it. About thirteen years ago Mr. Skinner was shot in the head by a young companion and although the ball was extracted he never fully recovered from the injury and suffered much at times. He had undergone two or three operations since which afforded only temporary relief. Three or four times he was compelled to give up his studies and quit school, at Randolph-Macon, Easton, Md., Annapolis Naval Academy, Chapel Hill, etc., but after the last operation he had seemed to get along better and he and his friends hoped that he was about to enter finally upon a career to which he had ambitiously asly would have achieved but for the misfortune that overtook him above referred to. With several young companions Mr. Skinner was in the woods shooting at the mark. Leaving the othwent to the house of a man nearby to see him on business. Returning he was walking through the woods in the direction of where the target shooters were, but not in line with the firing. One of the young men was in the act of shooting at an object that had been thrown into excellent ability, who has a bright the air. Swerving with the moving object and bringing the pistol on a level and in line with young Skinner who was approaching unseen through the underbrush, the shot took effect in his head and but for the distance would have killed him outright. Mr. Skinner was a son of Hon. Thomas G. Skinner of Hertford, former member of Congress from the First district, and prominant member of the bar. He was a bright young man and was exceedingly popular with a wide acquaintance and friendship throughout the State. He was secretary of the Judiciary committee in the last Legislature and his work in that capacity won him praises from all who came in contact with him. Beside his father he leaves two brothers and two sisters to mourn his tragic and untimely end. The body was taken to Hertford for burial. From the News and Observer we take the following: The sad death of this lovable young man will greatly distress his many friends as well as his immediate family His short life, from young boyhood, when he was wounded in the head, was a strong fight of an ardent, ambitious spirit against an inexorable fate from which there was no escape Time and time again he took up the work which to his naturally bright mind was so congenial, and it seemed that he would achieve success over all odds; but time and again this same grim enemy put its hand upon him and his physical faculties failed him to such an extent that his mental powers were forced to

He came to the Summer Law School of the University in June, full of hope; it seemed to him that he was about to conquor in his long fight and enter upon life in the profession of his choice, but all

He was endeared to professors and students in the law school by his many amiable qualities, and the triumph of their success in passing the bar examination will be greatly tempered by the thought of the loved associate who has gone to his rest. Perhaps in the higher life, where relieved of the burden of the church and lived as he professed the his freed spirit may reach a better sphere flesh (and its burden was heavy to him). in which he may find the happiness that was denied him here.

Death of Mrs. C. W. Gill. Mrs. Charles W. Gill died at her home n this place last Thursday morning,

August 22nd. Her sickness was of short duration and her death came as a painful shock to her friends. Mrs. Gill was a daughter of W. D. Spruill of Franklin county, and was 33 years old. She was a good woman and in every relation of life filled well her allotted sphere. She was a devoted wife and mother, a kind and helpful neighbor, an earnest and consistent Christian having been for many years a loyal and de-vout member of the Baptist church. Eight years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Gill came to Henderson to live she transfer-child, a little boy about six years old, beside numerous relatives and friends to mourn her death. To the grief stricken husband the reflection comes that they will meet again.
