Christmas Shopping. The Christmas shopping has begun already. There is of course not so much of a rush as will be the case when the holiday trade will be at its height.

A number of business houses have placed their Christmas goods on display and are being purchased by the wholesale.

The recent financial stringency does not seem to have affected the trade to any great extent. The crowds are just as large if not larger than at this time last season.

Look over our advertising columns before you start out on your shopping tour and give the preference to those enterprising, liberal dealers who thus invite your trade.

Mr. Brady was born in Indiana but had spent the greater portion of his life in Virginia and North Carolina. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Kerney of Kernersville, and by his children, Misses Maude, Margaret, and Masters Macon and Edward Brady.

Advice to Holiday Shoppers.

Statesville Landmark. This is the season when the newspapers and the merchants urge Christmas shoppers to shop early.

The advice is good, but the great majority will not heed it. The early buyers not only favor the merchant and the salespeople, who are rushed to the limit a few days before the holidays, but they favor themselves in having more time to make their selections and a larger stock from which to select.

But making selections of Christmas purchases is often a problem and for the very reason that so many people find it difficult to decide what to buy, they postpone until the last moment what they could have done much better earlier.

The Landmark mentions this to commend the early shopping idea and also to suggest that business men who appeal to holiday purchasers to decide what to buy before Christmas to advertise holiday goods. Many business men do like the shoppers, they wait until the last minute to tell what fine holiday stocks they have.

They can help matters along by beginning to talk now, which is none too early. A Riproaring Laughing Farce Comedy.

"Sis in New York" is the title of the offering which comes to the Grand Theatre on Monday night, Dec. 9th, and it reveals the merry Hoosier lass in a new role. A visit to the great metropolis permits of many changes for fun, and she runs the gamut from shaking hands with "Oscar" of the Waldorf-Astoria, mailing a souvenir post card in the fire alarm box and nearly causing a riot, to trying to stop the trolley cars by standing on the track.

She takes with her the characters that have followed her through her laughing adventures since she was discovered her down in Posey County, Indiana. The ruralite in a great city has furnished the funny page with most of its material for the past decade, and the bewhiskered charmer looking down cable slots and blowing out the gas, has become a familiar figure, but the author of "Sis in New York" has gotten out of the beaten path and instead of her dad floundering around the city streets we have the philopond Hoosier lass on her first visit to the big city.

Popular prices have been fixed for this date—25, 35 and 50 cents. Reserved seat at Pirie-Davis Co's. Blackwell-Gary.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 29.—A pretty wedding, largely attended by relatives and friends, was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gary, East Grace street, Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Lola Byrd became the bride of Dr. B. Thomas Blackwell.

The ceremony, performed by the Rev. J. E. Smith, of North Carolina, took place in the east parlor of the residence, and was most charmingly decorated in roses, chrysanthemums and palms. Mr. Barke Slaughter rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin, and during the ceremony, "O, Promise Me" was played.

Miss Mary Volina Gay, of Red Springs, N. C. was maid of honor, and was seated in the east parlor of the residence. Dr. Blackwell is a Vance county young man, son of the late J. P. Blackwell, and has many friends and relatives among our people who will congratulate him and wish him well in his married state.

Brilliant Reception.

Reception Given to Mr. and Mrs. Watkins W. Robards by the Croatan Club Monday Evening Was Brilliant Affair.

A brilliant reception was tendered Mr. Watkins Robards, a native of Henderson and vice-president of the Capital Club of Raleigh and his charming bride, Monday night, by the Croatan Club of Henderson, in their handsome parlors on Main street.

The rooms were all beautifully decorated with the "long leaved pine," typical of Mr. Robards, home-coming, palms and rare flowers, and there was a brilliant assemblage of Henderson's leading society people gathered to do honor to the occasion. The ladies handsomely gowned and the gentlemen in full evening dress.

The guests were received in the hall by Mr. Thomas Horner and Miss Amy Buler, Messrs. John and A. B. Andrews, Jr., of Raleigh. They were then invited into the parlor in which the governors of the club and their wives received as follows: Col. and Mrs. Henry Perry, Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bridgers, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Powell.

From this they passed into the green parlor, resplendent with floral decorations and electric chandeliers. Here they were received by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Watkins Robards, Mr. and Mrs. Spotswood Burwell, Mr. S. S. Parham and Miss Annie Root, of Raleigh, and Dr. John Hill Tucker and Miss Rebecca Butler. The two brides (Mrs. Robards and Mrs. Burwell) were the center of attraction, most gracious and beautiful in their rich robes, Mrs. Robards handsomely gowned in white satin, hand-embroidered, with lace trimmings, diamonds; Mrs. Burwell in an exquisite white lace robe-diamonds.

The punch bowl was picturesquely arranged amid fruits and flowers. Here Miss Julia Cooper, Messrs. George Cooper and Frank Robards received. The dining room which was next entered, the following couples received: Mr. James Brodie and Miss Lucy Petty, of Charlotte; Mr. Phil Thomas and Miss Lee Robards; Mr. Samuel Watkins and Miss Leila Shannon; Mr. Thomas Ballock and Miss Helen Crenshaw, of Louisville.

The dining room was artfully decorated, the color scheme being green. The table was beautiful in its decorations of smilax and grapes, the center piece a basket of grapes. The cream was frozen into fruits and flowers. Here many dainties were served. Those receiving here were: Mr. Richard Gary and Miss Ethel Terry, of Virginia; Mr. Frank Harris and Miss Irene Betts; Mr. Bennett Perry and Miss Mary Perry; Mr. Carroll Singleton and Miss Magdalene Landis; Mr. Will Vass, of Raleigh, and Miss Leah Perry, and Messrs. Samuel Watkins, Robert Davis and Andrew Davis. Several hundred called during the evening and it proved a most delightful occasion.
