The following which was sent out as a special press dispatch from Raleigh under date of October 18th, will be read with peculiar interest here in Henderson where Hon. James R. When the Robinson Show exhibited in Raleigh the Evening Times said this of the performances of the Cas-tello Family of Henderson:

"Of particular interest, besides ability, to North Carolinians, was the act performed by the Castellos, as they are known in the circus world, but in private life Loughlins. Mr. D. C. Loughlin, wife, daughter and two sons, whose home is in Henderson, did some marvellous feats in bareback riding. Mr. Loughlin says when Robinson's goes into winter quarters he expects to put out a show of his own and travel North Carolina and adjoining States, and judging by the character of the feats performed by this family he will make a work down fine and each part is The inter brought up to the standard of opportunity "A Fool and His Money" will make good with the best offerings of its kind. The moral is excellent and teaches a fine lesson. The "Fool" may be either the father, a self-made man who has acquired riches, or the son who has been spoiled in the making by an over indulgent and sadly mistaken parent. Both play the fool, however, until a halt is called on the wild escapades the young man as gambler and high roller. Father and son quarrel and the son leaves home determined to go out into the world alone and become a man. His fair weather friends who had leeched him turn their backs on him when they discover that he is penniless. A poor young artist whom he had befriended remains true and shares his humble lodgings and scant purse with his benefactor friend. Some ludicrous and highly humorous scenes occur in their experiences. The young man makes a wonderful invention which is sold to the father, who is a great manufacturer, thus increasing his wealth several times over. Proud of his son when he learns of his success. the father takes him back, makes him an equal partner in the concern and his cole beir. Another friend who had been loyal to the young man throughout his trials and struggles was the woman he loved. Their marriage follows the reconciliation of father and son and they receive a father's blessing. Fortune smiles on the poor young artist, and he too

Our contemporary is slightly in error in the above. Mr. D. C. Loughlin takes no part in the performance, riding or otherwise, except as ringmaster during the riding acts of Mrs. Loughlin, Miss Edith and sons, David and Charlie, owing to a physical disability and the wearing of a cork foot due to a railway accident. But when he was in the business he was "one of the finest," whether as rider, acrobat, tumbler, or leaper and double somersaulter.

"There is one kind of food that seems to me of marked value as a food to the brain and to the whole body throughout childhood and adolescence (youth), and that is oatmeal.

"Oats are the most nutritious of all the cereals, being richer in fats, organic phosphorus and lecithins. He says oatmeal is gaining ground with the well-to-do of Great Britain. He speaks of it laborer's diet and says it produces a big-boned, well-developed, mentally energetic race. His experiments prove that good oatmeal such as Quaker Oats not only furnishes the best food for the human being, but eating it strengthens and enlarges the thyroid gland-this gland is intimately connected with the nourishing processes of the body. In conclusion he says-"It seems probable therefore that the bulk and brawniness of the Northerners (meaning the Scotch) has been in some measure due to the stimulation of the thyroid gland by oatmeal porridge in childhood.'
