THE GOLD LEAF.

ESTABLISHED 1881.

THAD R. MANNING.

THURSDAY, DEC. 23, 1909.

Althorem thousands of copies of last week's GOLD LEAF were sent out by Henderson's manufacturing and mercantile interests, we still have a number on hand which can be obtained free of charge by application fall than there has been since he has more and owe less than at any time

A NUMBER of our State exchanges got out very creditable Christmas or special editions, all of them illustrated and some with handsome colored covers. Notably among these were the Charlotte Observer, Wilmington Star, Charlotte Evening Chronicle, Winston-Salem Union Republican, Waynesville Courier, Greenville Reflector, Williamston Enterprise. This is well. North Carolina newspapers reflect the growth and glory, the progress and prosperity of the State as well as they help to make it.

THE GOLD LEAF regrets that the Seaboard is to lose Mr. Charles H. Gattis, but notes with pleasure his promotion to a higher and more re-The following from the Charlotte Evening Chronicle is deserved:

From the district passenger agent H. Gattis, shifts to general passenger agent of the Georgia & Florida Railroad. Mr. Gattis is a fine railroad man and the railroad that secures his services gets value received. His friends throughout North Carolina are very much pleased at his continued promotion. He ought to be a railroad president and seems to be working in that direction.

THE following which is taken from an exchange, contains much of truth: "The man who grows up in his native town is regarded as a boy by his elders until he is well started down the declivity of life, too often, that ends in a hole. The stranger who comes into a place is more often pushed to the front than the young man who has grown up with the town. This is the reason why so many young men become dissatisfied with their home surroundings and long to cast their lot in other quarters." And as long as this is so can you blame a young man of talent and ambition for wanting to get out among strangers away from home to seek fame and fortune'

"THE 30-Foot Waterway Edition" of the Wilmington Morning Star, as the publishers were pleased to call it issued last week, was one of the big gest achievements of a North Carolina newspaper. It did the publishers of that venerable, dignified and always reliable paper, which by the way has been wonderfully reinvenated and taken on new life in its old age. proud and reflected credit upon the city of Wilmington and interests the paper so well represents. The edition was 40 pages, handsomely illustrated and attractively gotten up, and contained much matter of vital interest. It speaks volumes for the paper and prosperity of North Carolina's chief seaport city and must prove of lasting benefit to Wilmington and the State at large. The Star is doing a great work towards the development of Wilmington, the future of which looms brighter every day.

THE CHARLOTTE OBSERVER'S CHRISTMAS EDITION. We wanted to say something like it but could not say it so well, so we are appropriating the following about the Charlotte Observer's 56page Christmas edition from the Ruleigh Evening Times:

For several years past it has been last page with something of real in- The other officers have been with the terest to every member of the family. | company for some time. One of the most striking features about the paper was the large especially for this Christmas edition. It is an easy thing for any newspaper fill up with that kind of stuff, but the Observer was full of new things, written by the people who read the paper and live within its territory. The Observer is the foremost morning newspaper in the Carolinas, and this elegant Christmas edition is the equal of anything that will be or can be issued by any paper in the entire

PARKER ENDORSES LURTON.

The appointment of Judge Horace H. Lurton to the United States Supreme court bench to succeed the late Justice Peckham, is criticised in some quarters while it is freely admitted that he is eminently qualified for the duties of that high office. Judge Lurton is one of Mr. Cleveland's "finds." He a Democrat but has not been prominent in politics since he was appointed judge of the sixth circuit (United States court) by President Cleveland, Mach 27, 1893 .of the sixth circuit at the time he was appointed governor of the Phil-THE Warrenton Record says that | ippines in 1898, and it was his assothe last nine years, says there has him such a high opinion of the legal been more cancellation of debt this qualifications of the Tennessee jurist.

ton's appiontment is because of his alleged leanings toward the "interests," having been a corporation (railroad) lawyer and is acceptable to them. But a man who knows no law would not have been fit to elevate to the Supreme Court benchand if Judge Lurton had not been a lawyer of ability he would not have been employed by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad or any other. At any rate so eminent an authority as Judge Alton B. Parker gives this opinion of the new appointee:

"I know Judge Lurton, both soially and professionally, and in my judgment, one better equipped for service in that greatest of all courts, the Supreme Court of the United sponsible position with another road. States-could not be found. The

Tell Your Appreciation.

T: advent of the Christmas tide s the text for special messages to cheer and help the poor and unfortunate. The mistake too often made s this specializing for a single day, as tho' the charitable and Christian mission work began and ended with Another thing it is not the poor and unfortunate who are the only needy ones at Christmas. Hunger and thin clothing cause physical sufering in degree, but there is suffering greater than these, the lonely heart, the person who has lost Christmas thro some previous sorrow, and whose heart is empty for the wants that love and human sympathy can give. Many a cheery heart is found under a thin coat or shawl, because there is love, faith, and a responding heart of love, that causes the cold wind to be unfelt, while under the fur wraps there may be sadness, and the wind is felt, for there is nothing to inspire the heart because of the absence of that fellow feeling that makes man's happiness.

But Christmas is not the one and only day of the year. Gift giving with all the joy and pleasure that ac-companies it, is a blessed event to giver and receiver alike. And yet it would be a world barren of heart ovs, if the good efforts were confined to Christmas. Beyond gift bearing is the man or woman filled with appreciation, and so filled that it runs over into language that pours forth upon others. A preacher, after study and prayer, delivers the message to his congregation. Hearts are touched, eves may fill, but every member goes tway without telling the minister of the good he or she has received. A teacher thro' patience and skill brings the unruly boy to strike for manhood, yet the parents may not even know, much less thank the teacher. Every one can appreciate the kindly word, be it of sympathy or encouragement. It is "telling them so" on every occasion, that brightens the work-a-day world. It is the commendation and praise in life that helps, not the funeral discourse, or the granite monument. Tell your appreciation of your fellow man, daily. Make no special occasion of it, but keep telling and so cheering others throughout the year.

Hot-Headed Brethren.

Quite a good deal has been said in the papers about the defeat of the constitutional amendment in Alabama providing for prohibition in the organic law of the State. Alabama already has prohibition. The people voted liquor out some time ago, but the radical element, not satisfied with that, demanded that the constitution be amended so that the law would become a fixture. This is not all. Section second of the proposed amendment reads as follows: "Nothing in the Constitution President Taft was himself a judge of Alabama shall be construed to prevent the Legislature under the police power from designating places where such liquors may not be stored and kept." In other words, under J. A. Dowtin, Register of Deeds for ciation with Judge Lurton that gave | the constitution as amended police officers would be given the right to enter private homes and search for liquor at their pleasure, and the people of Alabama are not quite ready yet to surrender the sacredness of their homes to officers of the law at their own sweet will. Gov. Comer, it is charged, attempted to promote his political fortunes through the prohibition issue, and the people suspected his insincerity and expressed their disapproval at the polls. It is a fortunate thing that the extremists were defeated, for if they had succeeded the State's interests would The objection made to Judge Lur- bave been endangered. No prohibitionists who foams at the mouth is fit to occupy a position of trust and responsibility. He may be honest enough but he hasn't sense enough. We hope the rebuke that Alabama has administered to the radical element will have a good effect all over the country. The people are in favor of prohibition but they are not willing to turn the government over into the hands of the rapid, fire-eating fools who speak before they think, if they ever think at all. As we have often said before, in the ranks of

R. B. Raney.

Thomasville Charity and Children

The death of Mr. R. B. Raney at Raleign last Wednesday deserves more than a passing notice, and his life and example may well be held up to the youths of our country for emulation. Although he came to Raleigh when eighteen years old as a night clerk in a hotel at an insignificant salary, and, so far as we know, had never held any office, yet at his death such honors were paid him as rarely have been paid the memory of any citizen of our State capital.

On the day of his burial there was a public meeting, called by the mayor. of a large number of most representative citizens of Raleigh, at which not only complimentary resolutions were adopted but a committee was appointed to provide a permanent memorial that would forever perpetuate his name and memory. Some years ago he established and gave to the city a public building handsomely equipped at a cost of nearly fifty thousand dollars, which was nearly the amount of all his earthly possessions at that time.

By his energy and talents, as well as by his always honorable dealings, he acquired quite a competency, and far better than that, he acquired the lasting friendship and esteem of all who knew him.
