FALSIFYING HISTORY.

A Sounder and Broader Judgment Obtaining in the North Against the Theory That the Constitution Was Violated by the States Which Withdrew Their Allegiance and the Citizens Who Followed Their States Were Guilty of Treason.

Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Among the educated classes of the North little countenance is now given to the view of secession which was almost universally held by the political polemicists of that section during the thirty years following on the collapse of the Confederate cause. The theory that the Constitution was violated by the States, which withdrew their allegiance to the Federal government and the citizens who followed their States were guilty of treason.

peace from all association which no longer commanded their confidence or affection. The fiction has survived by nearly half a century the astute brain that conceived it, the exigency which it fanned into flame. In one important particular the vindication of the South is in satisfactory progress of achievement. In another her defenders must bestir themselves or the perversion will soon be planted so deeply as to be practically irradicable.

Some Don'ts For Boys.

- Don't forget that you are to be men and husbands.
- Don't smoke in the presence of ladies. It is never respectful.
- Don't measure your respect to a person by the clothes he wears.
- Don't try to make your fortune by easier means than hard work.
- Don't speak expressly of a lady's character. It is her only anchor.
- Don't forget that the best and greatest man that ever walked the earth was a boy.
- Don't haunt the lady of your choice at a ball party or picnic. She has certain civilities to pay elsewhere.
- Don't fix your stare on the fair ones who pass along the streets. To stare at any one is not manly at all.
- Don't neglect your business. Take pains to do your work well. Good workmen are always in demand.
- Don't sneer at the opinions of others. You may learn wisdom from those far less pretentious than yourself.
- Don't swear. It is not necessary and does no good. It is neither wise, manly nor polite, nor agreeable to others.
- Don't grow up to be a soured old bachelor, when there are so many true and lovely girls that will make such excellent wives.
- Don't flirt with a young lady to whom you are a perfect stranger. It looks most ridiculous, and you may be thrashed for it some day.
- Don't unnecessarily make enemies. The good will of a dog is better than the ill will. But don't crumple your independence and your individuality to please friends.

That $350 Piano?

Many Want It, But Who Will Get It? That's the Question.

The popularity contest for the possession of the fine $350 Krause Piano, now going on under the joint auspices of the GEORGE A. ROSE COMPANY, N. D. WELLS' JEWELRY STORE, CITY GROCERY COMPANY and the GOLD LEAF is creating an end of interest among the ladies. The hunting for new subscribers and renewals for the GOLD LEAF, in order to secure 500 votes at one crack, and the selling of Jewelry and General Merchandise Due Bills on the above named stores is taking the young women out into the small towns and everywhere it might be possible to secure votes for the prize.

The balloting this week discloses some surprising jumps and recalls the old adage, "The battle is not to the swift and strong, but he who endures to the end." Who will be the winner is a question no one can at present answer, for as it often occurs in these contests, the candidate who lags behind for weeks suddenly forgets to the front and finally carries off the prize when some other is supposed to have led that can not be overcome. It is all a question of get-up-and-get-there. The lady who gets out and sells Jewelry and General Merchandise Due Bills, or goes out newspaper subscriptions, putting in the spare moments in getting her friends to vote for her by subscribing for the paper, is the one who comes in victorious at the end of the race.

This contest is strictly on fair basis, and it must be understood that neither the GEORGE A. ROSE COMPANY, N. D. WELLS' JEWELRY STORE, the CITY GROCERY COMPANY or the GOLD LEAF is biased in favor of any candidate, nor will they ask any one to vote for a certain candidate.

Get busy, and go to the surrounding towns and country districts. You may be surprised agreeably over the votes that are waiting for you.

Coupon "B" good for 1,000 votes in nomination is printed below. You will not have another opportunity of nominating a new candidate. Nominations close December 15th. If you have a lady friend in mind who you think would appreciate a $350 piano now is your chance.

See the score printed elsewhere for comparative standing of the candidates.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA.

The "March King" and His Great Band to Appear at the Academy of Music in Raleigh Next Saturday Night, Dec. 10th.

John Philip Sousa the great composer-conductor, in a recent interview said: "I am a great admirer of the South. I was born in Washington and feel that I am a Southerner. I have always loved the Southern people, the balmy Southern air and the great Southern cotton fields." and in speaking of cotton fields said the greatest "All composers, I am my inspiration for my greatest march right down in this country; in fact it was during a hunting trip. I was out for a brace and quail, we were up early and out by the rise of the sun, our dogs were good scouts and we had bagged a plentiful number when my friends whom I was accompanying asserted their intention of returning to their homes. On our ride back to the town it was near Asheville, some years ago) we passed a snowy field of cotton, the darkies were whistling and shouting songs and a happier, careless lot of people I have never seen. I made known my wish to stop and listen to the real harmony that came from the untrained voices of the darkies. I drew a distinct mind picture and when we were back on our starting point and were washed up I took notes of everything I had seen and heard.

"Some weeks later in my studio in Washington I called my wife in and hummed the most delightful air that I ever created, and that great composition was christened right then and there 'The Cotton King March.' I have written many others and equally as great as that one but it is my first and great triumph and to this day I love it and its great Southland where it was born."

Mr. Sousa said further that it was a great pleasure to list the few dates which Lessee Schloss of the Schloss chain of theatres had offered and he always looked on a visit into the "Tar Heel" State with great delight for the pleasure he knows is coming.

After the short Southern tour which included the Schloss Theatres Sousa will go to Washington for two concerts, a from where he goes to the New York Hippodrome for a limited number sailing on December 19th for an extended tour of the continent opening in London, January 2nd, which will mark the first concert on this great around-the-world trip.

Before returning to the United States in the early fall of 1911 Sousa will come played before all the crowned heads of Europe.

The appearance at the Academy of Music in Raleigh next Saturday night, December 10th, will introduce to new soloists to music lovers of the capital city—Miss Virginia Root, Soprano, and Miss Nicoline Zedler, Violinist. Both of these young women have won great praise and their appearance should bring more honors to them. The advance sale of seats will open Thursday at Tucker Building Pharmacy. Out of town orders should be sent to Marx S. Nathan, Manager Academy of Music, Raleigh, accompanied by post office money order or express order. Prices range from $1.50 to 50 cents.

Saved From a Awful Death.

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C. R. F. D. No. 8. "My sister had consumption," he writes, "and was very thin and pale, had no appetite and seemed to grow weaker every day, as all remedies failed, till Dr. King's New Discovery was tried, and so completely cured her, that she has not been troubled with a cough since. It's the best medicine I ever saw or heard of." For coughs, colds, lippage, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, all bronchial troubles, it has no equal. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Melville Dorsey.

J. S. POYNTHRESS

"Twas a Famous Victory."

The whole State that is concerned about the gridiron contests will rejoice in the victory in hard-fought game by the A. and M. College boys over the Virginia Polytechnics. Those teams have been among the best and both are regarded as among the best and as well matched. Last year the Aggies returned sad from Norfolk because the Pollys had won the game. This year they return joyfully and victoriously with the scalp of Pollys hanging triumphantly at the belt. You had better beware of the North Carolina farmer. He is the twentieth century reincarnation of Anteus and derives strength whenever he touches the ground. Other things being equal, there is no physical training to be compared to getting up cold mornings, feeding the stock, milking the cow, cutting wood, and plowing and reaping in the field. The natural training makes self-reliance, muscle, physical vigor and endurance. Gymnastics and athletics are of great value to college students, but the fellow who comes to college from the hard work on a farm has a bottom in physical power that is the basis for the best athletic training. He has not had late hours, he has not idled, he has not dissipated, and he has not become soft. His muscles are hard and with the stuff out of which such boys are made the coach can make him a terror to his opponents on the gridiron. It is this, in a large part, that counts so much in the many victories of the A. and M. boys.

WOODROW WILSON.

The Governor-Elect of New Jersey a Man of Letters Who Has "Mixed With Men and Prospered"—The Foremost American College President, Whose Books on Government Are Authorities in This Country and Abroad.

Raleigh News and Observer.

The country is turning away from the charlatans, like Roosevelt, no matter how brilliant; the smooth-tongued politicians, no matter how personally amiable; the barterers in legislation, like Aldrich, no matter how able. They are looking for men to lead who will serve the true welfare of all the people, owe no obligations to special interests, and whose ability and character fit them for leadership. Machine politicians and noisy demagogues have pulled on the public. They wish sincere and capable men who will make war on monopoly while conserving all business, large and small.

New Jersey has sounded all the depths of machine politics; subservience to trusts, obedience to railroad dictation, the making merchandise of office and of legislation. Its senators are small editions of Aldrich and Cannon. One is the quick and zealous Princeton and the other has used his high office to try to secure favorable legislation for his own business. There has not been a congressman of the first order of ability from New Jersey in twenty-five years. The men who have led both parties have been trusted friends of the trusts and the people have had no representatives.

This was the set year for New Jersey to repudiate bossism and trust favoritism. The Democrats turned to Princeton and elected Woodrow Wilson as their candidate. He is the foremost American college president and his books on government are authorities in this country and abroad. He is a man of letters who has "mixed with men and prospered." He knows books, but he knows men also and the vital problems that must be solved for men of every class and condition. He is a speaker of uncommon ability and was as popular with the "boys" in the shops as the scholars in the universities. Business men saw he was no dreamer, but a practical man of affairs. He made few promises, but impressed men of all parties that he would regard public office as a public trust. And that, together with the trend against Republicanism assured his election. Of his election and what it means, the New York Times says:

"Two years ago New Jersey gave to the Republican ticket a round majority of 83,000. This year the Democratic candidate for governor has a majority of some 30,000 more. In part, this striking change is due to the general movement of public sentiment away from the extreme and vexatious policies to which the party is power is committed, and to the revolt against the manifest tendency and propensity of that party in its treatment of the tariff. But it could not have reached its actual proportions without the candidacy of Dr. Wilson, who represents the vital strength of the popular movement and is fitted to promote, to guide, and to lead it."

"A student of law and history and politics; an earnest and capable thinker on the problems of the present and the future; courageous, at once, and conservative; untainted by old or recent business, keenly alive to the immense changes in our national life which demand adequate consideration, but with no delusions as to the efficacy of political nostrums; a sound party man, to whom parties are instruments for the application of principles, and not for truck and barter; a believer in responsible leadership, made for his task—such is the governor-elect of New Jersey. It is obvious that his impressive victory, due in great part to his candid canvass, to the sympathy he has shown with the current of opinion, and to the grasp and command he has also shown of the essential elements of the national situation, must put him in the front rank of the new leaders and in the line of promotion to the highest national honors."

The people of North Carolina take deep interest in Mr. Wilson and his career. When his father was pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Wilmington, Mr. Wilson was for a time a resident of this State. His nephew is professor of Latin in the University of North Carolina, and last year he charmed the State by his oration on Lee at the University of North Carolina. The whole Legislature went to Chapel Hill to hear him and never did an orator so completely captivate an audience. When Mr. Wilson was nominated for governor of New Jersey, all who heard him at Chapel Hill felt like congratulating the voters of that state upon the treat in store for them. His campaign was a revelation to those who expected to see a professor of scholastic essays. His success is a matter for national congratulation.

It is not a question whether prohibition prohibits—but a question why so many drunken brags and murders in prohibition communities—in communities where it is claimed no likker is sold. Murder is more rampant in North Carolina than ever before according to testimony of Superior court judges—and surely, they ought to know—Fairbrother's Everything.
