The railroads are considering a proposition to limit the length of trunks to forty inches.

"I Am Glad" writes Mrs. Ethel Newlin, of Liberty Center, Ind., "that I began to take Cardui, for it has cured me, and I will never forget it. I cannot praise Cardui too highly for what it did for me. Before I began to take it, I was very bad color, suffered great pain and weighed only 105 pounds. Now I have a good color, do not suffer and weigh 125 lbs."

Take CARDUI The Woman's Tonic Beware of strong, noxious, mineral drugs, that sink into your system, like lead to the bottom of a basin of water. Cardui is purely vegetable and contains no poisonous minerals, or dangerous drugs. It is perfectly safe and harmless, for use by old and young, and may be taken, as a tonic, for months, without any possible harmful effect. Try it.

Cause of Appendicitis. Dr. Eldred M. Conner in an article in the London Medical Chronicle says: "The first epidemic of appendicitis, if such a term is applicable, was to a large extent contemporaneous in America with the preparation of flour in mills by means of the big steel rollers of a fluted type. Now these rollers quickly wear down and frequently have to be replaced. What then is the connection between the material which comes off the roller worn in the process? Obviously it must be in the flour of our bread. That is to say, a considerable proportion of the flour thus made contains minute particles of steel, which when consumed stays sufficiently long in the appendix to create irritation, and in some instances to set up appendicitis."

Good Roads Pay. When you think about the lump sum in the building of good roads the expense seems enormous, but every thoughtful man knows that good roads pay the people over and again in the saving of time and the cost of hauling goods over them. It may be considered an extravagant expression, but it is nevertheless true that the time and labor spent each winter in hauling and traveling over our bad roads amounts to more than the best system of good roads would cost. The proposition can be easily proven to any doubting Thomases, yet there are those who do not believe in getting good roads by the only known method, a bond issue. —Asheboro Courier.

Be Courteous in Churches. Courtesy and attention pays everywhere. It could not be exercised anywhere with greater propriety than in churches. It is true in some churches a stranger is made to feel almost as an intruder, eyed with curiosity, and looked upon with apparent suspicion. If there is one lesson village church members could learn with profit, it is some of the common everyday politeness and courtesies exhibited by well conducted churches of the present day. This is a matter the officials should give attention to. It is worth the time, if they want to encourage a good attendance at their services. —Mebane Leader.

Examinations for State Certificates. Preliminary steps for the holding of examinations at every county seat in the State on July 13 and 14, for applicants for high school teachers' certificates and for the five-year State teachers' certificates for elementary schools, are being taken in the State Department of Education. There are being sent out just now the explicit directions to applicants for both these examinations, that will be held under the supervision of the county superintendent of schools, with questions arranged by the State board of examiners, of which State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. V. Joyner is the chairman.

A Sensible View. Did you ever stop to think that towns are competitors just as merchants are? So strong has competition between towns become that it is necessary for the towns which expect to grow to advertise and "blow their wares" just as merchants and other business men do. The citizens of a town can advertise the town by "talking it up." Don't knock your town any more than you would knock your store if you were a merchant. After all, the town is only a large corporation and the citizens are the stockholders. Do you want a good dividend? If you do, talk your town up.—Exchange.

"Kicking the Bucket." When we speak facetiously of some one of whom we have no reverence as having "kicked the bucket" we employ a phrase that the world seems to be a piece of latter-day slang, but as a matter of fact, it dates back to old England, when about the year of 1725, one Bosolver hung himself to a beam while standing on the bottom of a bucket and then kicked the bucket away. Although at first used only in cases of suicide it has been applied in the course of years to any death without distinction.—Exchange.

Why [She] Snubbed Him. "Well," laughed Squiggles, "some men never know when they are snubbed. That lady you just spoke to was about as distant as they make them in her greeting." "Well, why shouldn't she be?" retorted Jabbers. "She's a distant relative of mine." "By marriage?" "No—by divorce. She got rid of me at St. Louis Falls back in 1898." —Harper's Weekly.

Bishop Alphus W. Wilson, the venerable president of the college of bishops of the Southern Methodist Church, will be present at the approaching Trinity College commencement, June 4-7. Bishop Wilson is one of the greatest preachers of America and one of the noblest men that ever lived. It Rolled Off. A young man called on a doctor, complaining of pains in his stomach. The doctor diagnosed the case as dyspepsia and advised the patient to go home and try a pickle. If he could keep that on his stomach he was to report to the doctor in the morning. The next day the patient returned, and when the doctor asked him if he could keep the pickle on his stomach, he replied: "I could as long as I stay awake, but when I fell asleep it rolled off."

What Our Friends Are. Our friends are to us what we are to them. Not only is friendship reciprocal, but also the character of it. If in our relation to others we employ courtesy, a desire to please and help, a disposition to make ourselves agreeable, such qualities will be returned manifold in their attitude towards us. There may be occasional exceptions, but the rule holds good everywhere.

Poisoned By Milk. A wholesale poisoning took place near New London, in Stanley county, one day last week when a whole train crew partook of buttermilk causing ptomaine poisoning. With a view to a good dinner a quantity of fresh milk was placed in the cooler on the engine of a freight train. In some way the milk became infected and the entire party, with the exception of the cook and one who narrowly escaped from death. The sufferers include the engineer, fireman and two brakemen. The only member of the party to escape was conductor C. A. Surratt, who did not partake of the milk. Soon after the dinner all were seized at the same time with the poison and a physician worked hard for four hours.

Rainbow at Night. Did you ever see a rainbow at night? A dispatch from Baltimore, Md., says that passengers on the Baltimore and Carolina steamer came into port Monday, making a great "hoop-a-boo" over seeing a rainbow at midnight the night before. They were completely mystified and wondered if such a phenomenon had ever occurred before. Not one on board, although many of them had long followed the sea, had ever seen a rainbow at night. The rainbow at night has all the usual colors that it has in the daylight and looks even more brilliant.

Destroy Nitrate of Soda Sacks. The Fort Mills Times warns farmers "not to leave empty nitrate of soda sacks lying in and around their barns or other out-houses. As long as the sacks are full of the soda, they are damp and there is no danger from fire. As soon as the sacks are emptied, they become dry and will ignite under certain conditions. Many a farmer, it is said, has lost his property from this cause, and has never known the cause of the fire. Certainly, if the empty soda sack is so dangerous a thing, it should not be left near a barn or building of any kind. The creek is the best place for it."

Your Neighbor's Experience. How you may profit by it. Take Foley Kidney Pills. Mrs. E. G. Whiting, 360 Willow St., Akron, O., says: "Some time I had a very serious case of kidney trouble and I suffered with backaches and dizzy headaches. I had specks floating before my eyes and I felt all tired out and miserable. I saw Foley Kidney Pills advertised and got a bottle and took them according to directions and results showed almost at once. The pain and dizzy headaches left me, my eye-sight became clear and today I can say I am a well woman, thanks to Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists.

He Might Shine. A prominent citizen of Kansas City refuses to run for mayor because he "never goes out at night." Why not make him a "street lamp"?—Detroit Journal.

A Bad Egg. "He always was a bad egg, but nobody seemed to notice it while he was rich." "Yes, he was alright until he was broke."—Sacred Heart Review.

It is said that one-third of the automobiles in Detroit are owned and operated by women. More women drive their own cars there than anywhere else.

The doctors tell me that the inards up a hog and the inards up a man are mighty similar, which fact goes a long way toward explaining the actions up a good many men.

Spaniels. Spaniels, of which there are many breeds, are supposed to have first come from Spain, from which circumstance is derived their distinctive name. Charles I. was an ardent admirer of a small variety of this animal, and from that arose the designation of his pets, known the world over as King Charles. Blenheim or Marlborough spaniels, which greatly resemble the latter in form and general appearance, get their English name from Blenheim palace, in Oxfordshire, where the breed has been preserved since the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Pat's Retort. A one legged Welsh orator named Jones was pretty successful in bantering an Irishman, when the latter asked him: "How did you come to lose your leg?" "Well," said Jones, "on examining my pedigree and looking up my descent I found there was some Irish blood in me and, becoming convinced that it was settled in the left leg, I had it cut off at once."

Stuck Either Way. Mamma—Goodness me! It's half an hour since I sent you round to the store to get those things, and here you are back without them! Little Dick—It was such a long time before my turn came that I was waited on that I forgot what it was you wanted. Mamma—Then why didn't you come home and find out? Little Dick—I was afraid if I left I'd lose my turn.—Nottingham Guardian.

Superstitious. "Why did you abandon your motorcar trip so abruptly?" "Oh, my wife is so superstitious! After her husband ran over the thirteenth man she said we ought to turn back, otherwise she felt sure we should meet with some accident!"—Exchange.
