

ENGINEER SCALES KILLED AT SPENCER LAST NIGHT BY 40

Was Run Over and Badly Crushed at Spencer Last Night by Train on Which he was a Passenger. Died at Six O'clock this Morning at Hospital.

George Gentle is at Last a Free Man, Under $2,500 Bond. Bond was Given by Two Prominent Business Men. Will Likely be End of Case.

Salisbury, N. C., September 7.—Clint Scales, an engineer on the Southern Railway died this morning at six o'clock at the Whitehead-Stokes Sanatorium in Salisbury from injuries received last night at Spencer.

Mr. Scales went out of Salisbury last night on No. 40, not as engineer but as a passenger. He intended spending the night in Salisbury and as the train was slowing up at that place he jumped off, not waiting until the train had stopped. There was a string of box cars standing on the parallel track to the main line and Mr. Scales struck against this and was thrown back under the wheels of No. 40.

He was badly mutilated, both legs and one arm being crushed. He was taken up as quickly as possible and brought back to this place and placed in the hospital and the most careful surgical attention was given him. But there was no chance to save his life, and the end came as stated this morning at 6 o'clock. Mr. Scales' home was at Wytheville, S. C., and the body was taken to that place to-day for burial. The deceased is a married man and is survived by a wife and several small children.

George Gentle who was day before yesterday acquitted of jail breaking, in connection with the lynching case, but was held on other charges, was to-day admitted to bail in the sum of $2,500. The bond is made by Messrs. John S. Ludwick and James H. McKenzie, both prominent business men of this city. Gentle is now at liberty and will remain so, unless more evidence is produced against him at the next term of the court than was available at the term just closed, in connection with the jail breaking case. The jury returned a verdict here this morning in the celebrated Pinkman case. The verdict was not guilty as to Mr. Pinkman, not guilty as to Mrs. Pinkman in the Wallace Case, Mrs. Reed guilty in the Wallace case. They were charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses.

MR. BRYAN'S ITINERARY.

His Program While in North Carolina—Democratic Handbooks Out—Other News From State Capital.

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Nothing has yet been heard from William Jennings Bryan as to whether his itinerary arranged for his North Carolina tour by Democratic State Chairman Simmons is agreeable or not. Governor Glenn suggested to the State Chairman last night that the tour should be so ordered that Bryan will speak at Winston-Salem Monday morning, Sept. 17 at 9:30 o'clock, at Greensboro at noon, then go to Salisbury and speak at night so that people from throughout the western section of the state can get there to hear him. Tuesday morning, Sept. 18, Mr. Bryan will come to Raleigh, speaking at Burlington and Durham en route, speak in Raleigh probably at 1 o'clock and then make a short stop at Sanford for a speech, the last in the State, going then to Columbia.

A large force of clerks began last night at Democratic headquarters addressing and sending out the campaign leaflets which have just been gotten from the printer. There are hundreds of applications for them pouring in every day.

Interesting announcements of campaign speeches just given out at Democratic headquarters are for Governor Glenn Sept. 15, at Shelby; Congressman W. W. Kitchen, Sept. 18, at Lenoir; Mr. T. W. Bickett of Lenoir, Sept. 19, at Morganton, Sept. 21, at Newton; Mr. T. W. Bickett of Lenoir, Sept. 23, at Kenly in Johnston county.

The state superintendent of public instruction is notified that J. P. Cannon, who was a member of the last legislature from Johnston county has been elected County Superintendent in that county to succeed Ira P. Turlington who became superintendent of the Smithfield Graded School.

Army worms' armies' of which have made their appearance on several farms near Raleigh, are said to be spreading rapidly and there is much apprehension of their becoming serious pests in a wide scope of country. The State Department of Agriculture will take steps probably to aid in exterminating them.

Galveston, Texas, Sept. 8.—It was six years ago today, September 8, that the disaster occurred which for the time being wiped the city of Galveston off the map. In the evening of that day

CHEW WHAT YOU KNOW ABOUT

There is real pleasure in chewing the best tobacco grown where the best tobacco grows—in the famous Piedmont country

Only choice selections of this well matured and thoroughly cured tobacco is used in making SCHNAPPS. That's why SCHNAPPS and other of the Reynolds' brands, as shown by the Internal Revenue statistics for a fiscal year, made the wonderful growth of six and one-quarter million pounds, or a net gain of one-third of the entire increased consumption of chewing and smoking tobaccos in the United States.

Made from thoroughly cured leaf grown in the Piedmont Tobacco belt

Schnapps

Has less sweetening than imitations

Evidently, chewers cannot resist the flavor and they cheer SCHNAPPS because SCHNAPPS chews them more than any other chewing tobacco and every man that chews SCHNAPPS passes the good thing along—one chewer makes other chewers—until the fact is now established that there are many more chewers and pounds of tobacco chewed, to the population, in those States where SCHNAPPS tobacco was first sold than there are in the States where SCHNAPPS has not yet been offered to the trade.

AND KNOW WHAT YOU ARE CHEWING

SCHNAPPS is like a cup of fine Java coffee, sweetened just enough to bring out its natural, stimulating qualities. SCHNAPPS pleases all classes of chewers: the rich, because they do not find a chew that really pleases them better at any price; the poor, because it is more economical than the larger 10c. or 15c. plugs and they get their money's worth of the real snappy, stimulating flavor appreciated by tobacco lovers. All imitations contain much more sweetening than SCHNAPPS. They are made that way to hide poor tobacco improperly cured.

For the man who chews tobacco for tobacco's sake, there is no chew like SCHNAPPS.

Sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts. Strictly 10c. and 15c. plugs.

BADEN'S RULER IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Berlin, Sept. 8.—Advices from Karlsruhe state that preparations on a most elaborate scale have been made for tomorrow's celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the reigning grand duke of Baden, Frederick I. The celebration will be general throughout the duchy. The advices further state that the Grand Duke is particularly pleased and gratified by the visit of a delegation from Pittsburg bringing with them a message of congratulation from the Grand Duke's former subjects now resident in America.

The Grand Duke of Baden is in a way one of the most notable figures among the rulers of Europe. Few people have played a more important role not only in the constitution of the German empire, but also in the maintenance of its integrity. It was he, who, as one of the independent sovereigns of Southern Germany, conducted all the negotiations that led to the election of King William of Prussia as German emperor in 1870. And it is he, too, who since then has been the principal factor in smoothing away all those many differences, some of them of a very acute character, that have arisen between Prussia and the other states of the confederation.

It is something of a coincidence that the present week marked the fiftieth year of the reign of the Grand Duke. He owes his throne to the first place to the insanity of the elder brother, who died under restraint after being deposed, and secondly to the romance in connection with the son of the Grand Duchess Stephanie of Baden, Stephanie, an adopted daughter of the first Napoleon, was a devout Roman Catholic and a French woman by birth. She bore to her husband five children—three daughters and two sons. One of the sons died in infancy. Concerning the other three ways has been a mystery. She herself went down to grave family convinced that her little boy had been stolen by the adherents of the reigning and Lutheran branch of the house of Baden. True, an infant was carried to the grave with all the honors due to the remains of a little prince of the blood. But the Grand Duchess always insisted that the little corpse was not that of her child, but was that of a little boy who, moribund, had been substituted by her enemies for her own healthy offspring.

Years afterward a young man was found fainting of hunger at the gates of Nuremberg, and was taken to the police station. He was entirely unable to communicate with anybody, having no power of speech and no acquaintance with either reading or writing. He fell into charitable hands, and gradually was taught and educated, whereupon he by degrees became able to give some account of himself. From this it appeared that he had been kept like a wild beast in a dark room. This existence continued from the time he could remember until the day he was placed, blindfolded, in a cart and driven to the spot at the gates of Nuremberg where he was subsequently found. The memories which he recalled of his childhood were of such a character as to give rise to the belief that he was no other than the missing son of the Grand Duchess Stephanie. A meeting was arranged for them, the mother being convinced that the youth was her missing son. But within a few hours of the time appointed for the interview he was mortally stabbed by some unknown individual.

This was a description of Brown but neither was the man they were looking for.

To Avoid Taking Cold.

From the Outlook.

The best way to overcome chilly sensations of the spine and back on the least change of temperature is to put your back up, so to speak; to contract the muscles of the back. If you get chilly about the back of the neck, stiffen the neck and set the muscles to work, and you will soon get over it. If you do not start your muscles going, you will soon find them going of their own accord. You will begin to shiver—an involuntary action of the muscles. If you will set your muscles at work before that shivering comes you will be able to prevent it. Contract your hands, your legs, the muscles of your back, raise up your chest, stiffen your neck, then turn it vigorously, slowly, from side to side, or bend it backward and forward this will keep you from taking cold.
