Southern Labor Problem.

There are many indications that the population of the Southern states will increase much more rapidly during the next few years than ever before. The development of Southern industries is not only drawing immigration from the Northern States and from Europe but it is also drawing Southern labor from the farms and plantations to the towns and the consequence is that there is at present an active demand in that section for labor of all kinds, including farm labor.

The flow of population into these States has already been large, and it will be still larger when the advantages offered by the South are better understood. One of the principal of these advantages is the mild and healthy climate that prevails in almost every locality in the South. The summers are little, if any, warmer than in the Northern States and the winters are not nearly so severe. For instance, the records of the United States Weather Bureau show that the mean summer temperature at Atlanta is about the same as that at Washington and little higher than at New York, while the winters are much warmer. This means a great saving in every household for fuel and clothing, and the same weekly wage will support a family in the South much better than it will in the North. New England cotton mill owners are aware of this and other advantages offered by the South and realize that if they are to hold their skilled labor they must pay higher wages than the Southern mills. The Massachusetts Bureau of statistics has noted the superior advantages of the South and, in its last annual report, said: "When the European immigrant finds what excellent opportunities exist for him in the South the tide of immigration will undoubtedly turn in that direction."

Increased population, of course, means greater prosperity, not only for the manufacturing establishments that secure needed labor, but also for the farmers who secure an enlarged home market for their products. This in turn, calls for more farm labor, the supplying of which is one of the most difficult problems with which the South is confronted. It is not probable that farm labor can be drawn very largely from the Northern States and Europe must be looked to. Heretofore the North and North-west have attracted most of the agricultural immigration from Germany and Scandinavia, but one of these immigrants are now beginning to turn Southward. In some Southern localities agricultural immigrants from the north of Italy have settled in considerable numbers and have proven to be very efficient workers in the cotton fields. They are much superior to the south of Italy immigrants who have settled so largely in American cities and some students of the problem of the future labor supply for the cotton fields believe that it will be solved by the North of Italy immigrants.

It seems as Hickory "stands pat" on not having an Opera House. We could enjoy a great many entertainments if we had one.

If you have a neighbor, who does not take the Democrat, tell him to send 25 cents and the paper will come to his address till Jan. 1, 1907.

Rev. Monroe, of Hickory, filled the pulpit at Front street Presbyterian church Sunday. After the morning service a congregational meeting was held and the resignation of Rev. Williamson, as pastor was accepted. Rev. Williamson has not decided where he will take up work.—Iredell Mascot.

As the cutting American forests progresses and the prices of lumber advance woods are becoming valuable that were formerly believed to be practically worthless. One of these is the tupelo or bay poplar that grows in wet lands all over the South. A few years ago there was practically no demand for it, but it is now obtaining quite an extensive market. The Bureau of Forestry in the Agricultural Department has issued a bulletin calling attention to this wood and its uses. The bulletin also contains information as to the proper methods of air-drying and kiln-drying tupelo lumber.

Atty. J. C. Fletcher, of Boone, was here Wednesday.

You are apt to find just what you want in our Business Builder column.

Mrs. Allison, of Cleveland, is visiting Mrs. Gibbs on Claremont Heights.

Seven Springs News.

Seven Spring, Sept. 17.—The health of this section is very good at present.

The farmers are about through pulling fodder in this neighborhood. It has been a bad time to make peavine hay. Cotten-picking is on hand. The people will have themselves in shape before long to make their creditors laugh.

The Genocrats are going to elect their ticket without a doubt in this county. All of you know in your hearts that these woris of mine are not the ravings of an unsound mind, but God Almighty's truth.

The liquor traffic of this nation is responsible for nearly all the murders, bloodshed, riots, poverty, wretchedness, misery and woe. It breaks up thousands of happy homes every year. Sends the husband and father to prison or the gallows, and drives the countless mothers and little children into the world to suffer and die. It furnishes nearly all the criminal business of this and every other court, and blasts every community it touches. The infernal traffic is legalized and protected by parties which you sustain by your ballots. And yet some of you have the audacity to say that you are in favor of prohibiting the traffic while your ballots go into the box with those of the rum-seller and the worst elements of the land in favor of continuing the business. Every year you are giving an opportunity of voting a protest against the soul and body, destroying business, and wash your hands of all responsibility of fearful results of the liquor traffic. But you inform the government by your ballot that you are perfectly satisfied with the present condition of things and that they shall continue. You legalized the saloons—that made me a drunkard and a murderer and you are guilty with me before God and man for the murder of my life. Amen.

Vote the Democrat ticket and be saved, the 6th of November. Sunday visitors: Mr. Alvin Morrow and Miss Ola Deal, of Claremont; Mr. Lester Edwards, of Claremont, and Miss Vertia Huffman, of Newter; Mr. Grover Sherrill, of Sherrill Ford; W. S. Alley, of Catawba.

My capital is one million dollars in my dreams. Out for a good time, A. S. Kale ragtime millionaire. Headquarters at the famous Seven Springs. Still looking for some one to love. Subscribe for the Democrat and keep posted on first class news.

CONSUMPTION PREVENTABLE

DISINFECTANT IMPORTANT.

Results Obtained in a Large Institution.

The importance of disinfection is shown by the results obtained at the Brooklyn Home for Consumptives, the finest institution of the kind in New York. A letter from the President is quoted:

"We have used Platt's Chlorides in the Brooklyn Home for Consumptives for more than ten years, and find it not only a comfort but a necessity. Through its use we defy 'the germs' to make any inroads on the nurses and employees who are in constant attendance upon the sick, one hundred of whom are now in the institution. One nurse has been there well over ten years, a second almost as long, and not one person ever employed in the Home has developed lung trouble.—Mrs. S. V. White, President, Kingston Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Platt's Chlorides is an odorless, colorless liquid disinfectant which instantly removes any foul odors and destroys disease-breeding matter. A quart bottle will last an average family a month and it can be obtained at all druggists.

The World's Famous Palmists Here.

Located in the parlor over W. S. Martin's Drug Store are the Winterrothers, the famous palmists and clairvoyants who have astounded the whole country by their wonderful powers and are already doing the same here. They are thronged with the best people of our city and nothing but the very highest commendations are heard.

The palmistry readings are all accurate as to astonish the most skeptical. Their clairvoyant revelations are so wonderful that people visiting them find themselves astonished and amazed. Indeed, their one condition is that if you are not convinced and satisfied it costs you nothing and we have yet to hear of one who has not been fully satisfied.

Last night they were unable to handle the crowd and the expressions of satisfaction from every one, as they would come out of this reading room, caused the crowd to increase continuously until 11 o'clock, when a good many who had waited for hours had to go away without having been waited upon.

They may be consulted on matters of business, courtship, marriage, threatened danger or contemplated changes of any kind and the greatest benefits received.

The Winterrothers are spoken of in the highest terms by both press and people all over the country and must not be confounded with fakers and impostors who are continually infesting the country.

Hours 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. They will be here for a few days only.
