

Wadesboro, Dec. 13 .- Will Huntley colored, the young negro who was killed at Bluitt Falls last Thursday night according to Coroner Fenton's report, is ag follows:

Capt. Mays is the officer of the camp and does police duties. Among the rules that are rigidly enforced is the keeping of liquor and firearms out of the camp, in fact, the employees are made to promise that they will not carry concealed weapons or bring whiskey into the camp. On the night of the homicide Mays was policing the camp, and heard the report of a pistol and saw the flash at the same time. Making his way to the fire where the pistol shot came from, he quickly asked who did the shooting. Will Hunt-ley replied no one there had fired a pistol Mays replied that the pistol was fired at that point and that he saw the flash of the pistol and at the same time he said he believed that Hundley was the man who did the shooting. Huntley said in reply that it was not so; that he was not afraid of any ---- man. Mays then pointed to a bottle of whiskey that was protruding from the negro's pocket and ordered him to break it. Huntley said in reply that he had bought the whiskey and intended to - white keep it and that no --man was going to take it from him. Mays then retired to get help in making the arrest. Huntley then went in-to the shanty. Capt. Mays securing help in the persons of Messrs. Addeho and Tryon approached the shanty and Mays entered and ordered Huntley to hold up his hands and at the same time covered the negro with a pistol. Huntley raised his left hand and threw his right to his hip pocket and advance ed. At that point Nat Huntley tried to enter the door with an uplifted axe as though he intended to strike Mays on the head. Addiho warned Mays of his danger and Mays turned to Nat. Will Huntley presented his gun and presented fully at the breast of Mays. Addicks who had his pistol on Will Huntley fired at this point blank. Before Huntley fell to the floor he snapped his pistol twice at Mays. Capt. Addiho says in his statement before the coroner he fired to prevent the negro from killing Mr. Mays. Huntley, the dead negro, is known as a bad man when sober, but when drunk or excited by liquor he is vicious and dangerous.

The coroner's jury failed to bring in a verdict last Friday, the point arising as to the legality of Mr. Mays entering the shanty or home of the negro and making his arrest. The jury wished to confer with the solicitor. The jury will bring in a verdict today and will be found in the telegraphic dispatch of The News.

PECGY. BY REYNALE SMITH PICKERING

When the dusty day is over, with its round of petty cares. And the light begins to twinkle on the busy thoroughfares, Then I put the world behind me, with its prosy workaday, For I'm off to dine with Peggy at our little French cafe.

And Peggy greets me smiling, and I press her little hand In the sheer delight of living which we both may understand; And we live behind the tumult and the thronging of Broadway, And exchange its noisy glamour for our little French cafe.

Then from her dainty cigarette I watch the smoke wreathes rise.

Nor fear the idle gossip's tongue, the gossip's spying eyes;

For here staid customs do not bar the joys along life's way, And hearts count more than dollars at our little French cafe.

The light of Spring's in Peggy's eyes I see the color go

And rise again upon her cheek above the candle's glow,

Till bright to-morrow makes a mock of hopeless yesterday; No transient guest is happiness at our

So turn away prim Prudery, and gaze withcurling lips. while I toast dear Peggy and her

KING OF ALL DISEASES To Contagious Blood Poison rightfully belongs the name King of all Diseases. It is the most powerful of all human ailments—corrupting every part of the body and wrecking and ruining the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it. When the first sign appears in the form of an insig-nificant sore or ulcer, few persons realize that the deadly virus has entered the blood; but so potent is the poison that one drop will vitiate and pollute the purest and healthiest blood, and in a short time the degrading and horrible symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the neck and groins swell, the hair and eye-brows fall out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and in the latter stages of the disease the poison even works down and destroys the bones.
