

County Lynchers, Postponed To-day. The Reasons for Putting off the Trial.

Monroe, N. C., Jan. 28 .- The Superior Court convened here this morning. By far the most important case on the criminal docket is that against the Anson county alleged lynchers. Great interest has been taken in this case but there was no surprise here this morning when it was anounced by the solicitor that the case would not be called at this term of court.

Among the reasons for postponing the case is that it is a one-week term of court only, and there are a number of jail cases and it would probably require all the week to dispose of them. Also the inability of some of the lawyers connected with the case to be present

It is stated that the case will be tried at a special term of court, which will probably be called for July. There was some suggestion here that the special term might be called in March, it is not thought probable that Justice Fitzgerald has decided that spectators, particularly women who appear at the trials with particularly sensational features, shall be barred from the court room.

Apparently the desire of the defense is to hasten the trial or at least to complete the jury. This is thought to be a sign that some move, not yet hinted at, will be made.

The report is further that Dowie's condition has become so bad that he realizes it fully and that yesterday he made confession cf all the wrongs he had done those with whom he had dealings and also that he expressed a desire to see his wife and son soon, as he feared he would live only a few days longer. finally gave up his position on the road and entered heart and soul into evangelistic work himself. His work was barely second to that of the Gamaliel at whose feet he sat. From Maryland to Texas, all through the length and breadth of the Southern States, he went, uplifting the cross and preaching the old time religion. His converts reached up into thousands, and, it cannot be denied that he did great good.

Mr. Fife was the soul of congeniality and sociability, and his pleasant manners and magnetic personality were great levers in enabling him to reach men. He was at the same time a courageous man in the utterance of his convictions, and suffered some for righteousness' sake because of his courage. It is possible that his impetuosity may have occasionally overridden his tact, but upon the whole he was a well rounded and well balanced man in the pulpit.

It was a matter of intense regret to him that his voice finally gave way. A permanent and serious throat trouble closed the door to his further preaching. In casting about for something to do, he turned to the exploiting of gold and oil stocks. He advertised on a tremendous scale, and widely. He was severely criticised at times for endorsing these stocks, many of which were bought by people of small means who had implicit confidence in Mr. Fife, but he always declared his own conviction that they were a good thing and that they would enable the purchaser to lay up against a rainy day and that sometimes the stocks would
