land told him about him. Orchard denied this and swore he saw the Japanese and he had to wait for the Japanese to leave the porch before he placed the bomb.

The defense endeavored to discredit the story of the purchase of dynamite from the Judson Powder Company and the entire claim that the bomb was used for by showing the forms of the Lynforth building were blown outward and that Bradley had been blown into the street. Attorney Richardson demanded that the witness explain how the explosion of the bomb had had these effects.

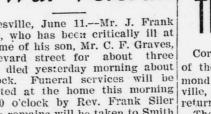

Orchard said he could not explain the matter. He expressed the opinion that Bradley was standing sideways
