

Growing Girls

Growing girls need care, advice and medicine, especially on reaching the age of puberty. A mother's tender care and words of caution will often accomplish wonders. As for medicine, a gentle, safe and reliable strengthening tonic is Wine of Cardui.

It will prevent and relieve pain, regulate the functions, clear the complexion and strengthen the constitution.

It is a valuable medicine for growing girls. It has tided thousands over a critical period, and saved them from years of suffering. It can never do harm and is sure to do good.

A relief or cure for all female disorders in girls and women.

At every druggist's in $1.00 bottles. Try it.

SALISBURY IS TO HAVE A FIRST CLASS CO. FAIR

Salisbury, N. C., July 8.—That Salisbury is to have a first-class fair is now a certainty. Messrs. M. L. Jackson, H. C. Trotter, T. B. Brown and J. M. McPherson are the prime movers in the new fair association. A mass meeting is to be held at the court house this afternoon at 5 o'clock, at which time an organization will be effected. The meeting will be addressed by Mr. Garland Daniel, secretary of the Greensboro fair; Mr. Garland Webb, secretary of the Winston-Salem fair, and Mr. C. M. Creswell, secretary of the Charlotte fair.

Col. John S. Cunningham, of Person county, who is identified with the state fair, will also make an address. The Rowan fair will doubtless be called the Yadkin Valley Fair Association, which name has already been suggested by Colonel Cunningham.

Work on the buildings and grounds will begin at once and it is expected to have everything in readiness for a fair in October. It is hoped to have all the stock subscribed at the meeting this afternoon. Already four or five counties are represented on the subscription books of the association.

Baseball Thursday. The Pythians and Elks of this city are to play baseball at the park Thursday afternoon, the proceeds of the game to go to the Confederate monument fund. The amount needed for the monument, which is already here, is $10,000, and a large portion of this has been raised by the Daughters of the Confederacy, of which organization Mrs. John S. Henderson is president.

Off for the West. Miss Miller Goodman left this morning for Asheville, where she joins Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Graham, on an extended Western trip, including St. Louis, Kansas City, Seattle, San Francisco and Chicago. The party will be gone two months.

Have Three Games a Week. Arrangements have been made whereby this city is to have three games of baseball a week for the next two months. A league composed of Salisbury, Hickory, Charlotte, Gastonia, Lincolnton, McAdenville and Rock Hill, S. C., has been organized. Games are expected to be played the latter part of this week. Salisbury, as well as a number of other towns in the league, will sign a number of out-of-town players. It is believed good ball will be played here now, as there is a splendid enclosed ground at Fulton Heights park and cars run within 200 feet of the entrance.

Change in A. C. L. Divisions

Norfolk, Va., July 8.—Effective August 1 the present four divisions of the Atlantic Coast Line will be enlarged to four divisions as follows: First division from Richmond, Va., to Florence, S. C., including lines from Norfolk to Wilmington, N. C., and from Wilmington to Sanford, N. C.; second division from Florence, S. C., to Savannah, Ga.; third division from Savannah to Jacksonville, Fla.; fourth division from Jacksonville, Fla., to Miami, Fla.

The first and second divisions are to be formed out of what is now the first division of the Coast Line system. Effective also from August 1st, W. H. Newell, now superintendent of transportation of the present first division at Wilmington, N. C., becomes general superintendent of the new first division, with headquarters at Rocky Mount, N. C., and A. W. Anderson, general superintendent of the second division at Wilmington, becomes general superintendent of the second division, with headquarters at Florence, S. C.

District Superintendent Murchison, at Wilmington, becomes superintendent of transportation of the first division. Fayetteville, N. C., July 8.—The funeral of Mr. S. H. McRae, whose death occurred Saturday afternoon, in Baltimore, took place from St. John's Episcopal church this morning with military honors.

EXPORT TRADE WITH CHINA

The causes of the recent falling off in the export trade from the United States to China are shown in part at least, by the official publication of the Chinese Government entitled "Returns of Trade Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor." The statements and figures which it contains cover the foreign trade of China in the calendar year 1906 and compare the same with conditions of earlier years. These official statements, coming from customs departments of the Chinese Government, are especially interesting in view of the fact that the exports from the United States to China showed a marked falling off in 1906 compared with the immediately preceding year, 1905.

The report begins with the statement that "calamity and a desperate struggle against adverse circumstances are the distinct features of the year's (1906) trade." Imports have poured in during the past few years in a vast flood, much of them remaining upon the importers' hands, unable to find a market. At Shanghai, the report adds, the imports of the two years have exceeded the normal consumption of 80 million taels, and adding this to the surplus there in warehouse and awaiting distribution at Hongkong, Tientsin, and Newchwang, we have the sum of 120 million taels to possibly 150 million taels as the measure of the burden carried for two years by the banks and merchants of China in accumulated and unsold stocks of imported merchandise.

Part of the falling off in the general import trade in China during 1906 was due to overimportations of cotton goods in 1904 and 1905. "It is on record," says the report, "that by September, 1904, the English and American cotton mills were filled with all the orders they could take for China for twelve months ahead, and that further orders placed early in 1905 could not be filled for over a year." Commenting upon the effects of these large orders placed in 1904 and 1905 the report says that in 1906 "holders of stocks from earlier importations were not only burdened by storage charges on millions of pieces, and insurance and interests of tens of millions of taels' value, but found themselves with their stocks laid down at higher silver equivalents than those of importers of later dates." As a consequence, the importation of cotton goods fell from 27,724,980 pieces in 1905 to 20,247,123 in 1906.

This decrease in cotton importations in 1906 was not confined to imports from the United States. The four classes of cotton cloths which China imports from the United States are shirtings, sheetings, drills, and jeans. The report shows the value of American, English, and Japanese shirtings, sheetings, drills and jeans, respectively, imported in 1906 compared with 1905; and this offers an opportunity to determine whether the reduction in imports of these articles from the United States was greater proportionately than that of other countries. A careful analysis of these figures shows that in shirtings imported the falling off in quantity in those designated as "American" shirtings was 33 per cent and "English" shirtings 27 per cent; in American sheetings the falling off was 28 per cent and in English 24 per cent; in American drills the fall was 40 per cent, and in English 35 per cent; in jeans the falling off in American goods was 37 per cent and in English—43 per cent. Combining these four groups—shirtings, sheetings, drills and jeans, it appears from the official figures that the reduction in value in the classes of goods designated as "American" was 33 per cent and in those designated as "English" was 35 per cent. While the other classes of cotton goods imported are not so designated as to indicate their origin, the figures relating to these four principal classes whose origin is shown seems to indicate that American cottons suffered a greater decline proportionately than did those of the other chief sources of supply—the United Kingdom—and this conclusion seems to be strengthened by the statement in the report itself that "but little has been heard during the year of any active movement in connection with the boycott in connection with American goods except at Canton, and there it has taken the form of public meetings and impassioned speeches rather than of reduced purchases."

Another article in which a large reduction in imports from the United States has occurred is copper. The official report from which the above quotations are made shows that the net imports of copper ingots fell from 21,292,970 taels value in 1905 to 21,516 in 1906, and as most of this large importation of copper in 1905 was drawn from the United States, the reduction of more than 21 million taels in this single item explains to a considerable degree the fact that the total imports of merchandise into China from the United States fell off 32 million taels in 1906, as compared with the high record year of 1905.

Even this large reduction, however, of 32 million taels in China's imports from the United States in 1906 when compared with 1905 still leaves the value of imports from the United States. The total value of imports from the United States to China in 1906 is stated by the document in question at $4,436,209 taels, while the highest figure for any other year, except 1905, was 30,138,713 taels, and the exceptionally high figure for 1905 was, as has already been explained, due to abnormal importations of both cotton cloths and copper, the former Trinity College Arranges Inter-Collegiate Debates. Trinity College, Durham, N. C., July 6.—The debate council of Trinity college, which is composed of two members of the Faculty and two students from each of the two literary societies has arranged for two intercollegiate debates for the coming academic year. One of these debates will be with Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., to be held in that city, and will be the first of a second series of three debates with the institution, Trinity college having won the first two from it. The preliminary for this debate will be held immediately after the opening of college in September. The other debate is to be with the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tenn., and will be held in Durham. The time for this debate has not yet been announced, but most likely it will be pulled off after the opening of the second term during this year.

The question to be debated with Vanderbilt, proposed by that institution, Trinity to have the affirmative side, is, "Resolved, 'That the present distribution of power between the federal and state governments is not adapted to modern conditions, and calls for readjustment in the direction of further centralization.'"

Prof. John C. Wooten, who was elected to the chair of Biblical literature by the board of trustees at their recent meeting, is on the park and will be here for several days making arrangements for the year's work. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wooten.

The summer class of the law department has begun and there are several young men on the campus getting ready for the supreme court examination, which they are to stand in August.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a humming sound, or a perfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; and cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

to supply a supposed deficiency in northern China where American cottons are especially popular, and the latter to supply material for use in making the new copper coins of which over ten thousand millions have been coined in China during the past two or three years.

While cotton cloths and copper show a marked falling off in the exports last year, certain other articles show a marked advance. The flour exported from the United States to China in the eleven months ending with May, 1907, was $4,974,095 in value against $4,957,742 in the corresponding months of the preceding year; wheat exports to China in the eleven months of 1907 amounted to $1,153,000 against but $16,500 in the corresponding months of the preceding year, and cigarettes showed a value in eleven months of $1,259,161 against $1,120,442 in the same months of 1906, thus indicating that while the large copper exports to China have ended by reason of the cessation of coinage, and the large exports of cotton cloths have been greatly reduced by reason of an overstocked market in that country, certain other articles are showing a material increase in their movements in that direction.

A comparison of the figures of imports of China from the United States and from other principal countries during a considerable term of years shows that the gain of the United States has been more rapid than that of other principal countries, even when the figures of the unfavorable year 1906 are used as the basis of comparison. The official figures of China's trade returns show that imports from the United States increased from 11,929,853 taels in 1896 to 44,326,209 in 1906; those from the United Kingdom from 14,571,387 in 1896 to 78,738,292 in 1906; those from Japan from 17,390,123 in 1896 to 61,052,356 in 1906; those from Hongkong from 91,356,530 in 1896 to 144,936,957 in 1906. The actual gain in the ten years in question was in imports from the United States 32,566,356 taels; from the United Kingdom, 34,166,309; from Hongkong, 53,580,427; and from all other countries, 52,250,934. The per cent of gain in 1906 over 1896 was, in the case of the United States, 272; United Kingdom, 77; Japan, 251; Hongkong, 59; and all other countries, 114, while the increase in all importations was 102.4 per cent.

The importations into China from Hongkong, it will be seen from the above figures, are larger than those from any single country, although Hongkong is merely receiving port for the merchandise imported from it, as it is not a producing colony or city. Of this large amount of merchandise imported into China from Hongkong, about two-thirds originates in the Orient, including in this term India, Australia, the Dutch East Indies, the Malay Peninsula, Siam, French Indo-China, the Philippine Islands, Formosa, and Japan, while the other one-third originates in the United Kingdom, the United States, and Continental Europe.

Old Time Influence Needed.

Colliers Weekly. Senator Morgan was to the south what Senator Hoar was to the north. Both, in their last debates, reflected the classic learning, the familiarity with constitutional fundamentals, and the intense self-conscious Americanism characteristic of the statesmanship of their early days—"how far into the arctic regions of our lives the gully stream of our youth may flow." Both died poor because they cared more for the affection and respect of their communities than for money, and were more intent on intangible traditions than on personal advancement. Hoar died before the domestic, economic problems of the newer statesmanship arose, and Morgan, expert in international law, and absorbed in the same principles that Webster and Calhoun contested, was too old to attune himself to the new issues. Of Hoar's type, no one from the north remains in the senate, and the aged Pettus is the only survivor of the early southern school. Little as they could have helped in plotting across the uncharted ways of our newer problems, who would not have kept them for their fine, unconscious influence on younger senators, and what senator would not have been a little more the idealist for their presence.

A DELICACY OF 20 YEARS AGO.

How to prepare a Green Corn Pudding. Robert Henry Coffin, known to those of the last generation by his pen-name of "Barry Gray," was an enthusiast upon the subject of cookery. About 20 years ago his signature was regarded as authoritative upon the culinary question.

Among the formulas that have been associated with Barry Gray's name, the one which was admittedly his favorite was a recipe for an old-fashioned green corn pudding, a dish for which Nantucket has been famous since the early days of the colonies. Here is the recipe as given by the July Delicater:

"Take four dozen full ears of sweet green corn, score the kernels and cut them from the cob. Scrape off what remains on the cob with a knife. Pound the corn cut off in a mortar. Add a pint and a half or one quart of milk, according to the youngness and juiciness of the corn. Add four eggs well beaten, a half teaspoonful of flour and a teaspoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of sugar and salt to suit the palate. Bake in a well greased earthen dish in a hot oven two hours. Place it on the table browned and smoking hot, and eat it with plenty of fresh butter."

Fruit Shippers of Florida Complain of High Rates

Washington, July 8.—A complaint is made today to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' Protective Association against the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and others, that rates charged by the defendant lines on citrus fruits and vegetables from Florida to Northern and Eastern points are unjust and unreasonably high.

They complain that they are unable fairly to compete with the shipments of fruit and vegetables from the West Indies by sea and they ask the commission to fix the maximum rates on such shipments so that they shall be fair alike to the railroads and to the shippers.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1.00 sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Greensboro Civic League Accomplishing Much Good

Greensboro, N. C., July 6.—The Greensboro civic league, although but two weeks old, is accomplishing fine results already.

Committees of ladies and gentlemen are patrolling the ugly spots of the city with watchful eyes and good suggestions and the officials as well as citizens interested are responding with sympathetic alacrity.

Vacant lots are being mowed and renovated, back yards are being nicely cleaned or ornamented, many more folks are sweeping in front of their doors and the sanitary and health officers are having the easiest and best and most encouraging time of their lives.

On Monday the county commissioners not only turned over the court house grounds to a committee of ladies belonging to the league, but appropriated $100 for use in fixing up the green.
