

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved In Three Months.

C. B. FIZER.

Mr. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes: "I have suffered with kidney and bladder trouble for ten years past. Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain. I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Peruna For Kidney Trouble. Mrs. Geo. H. Sims, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes: "I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time. This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin."

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time. I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. There are times when they need a little assistance. Peruna is exactly this sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

Bryan Delights Splendid Audience With Address on "The Average Man"

carded two-thirds of this theory. Justice is more important than strength or wisdom, and democracy has proven itself the best form of government because it discards the implements of terror and dares build its hopes in the hearts of men.

The Meaning of "Republican." Mr. Bryan then told of the wrong impression foreigners get of the word "republican," in which error the republican party gets the advantage, as those foreigners think that because it has the name republican it has to do with a republic.

He told of debate between two foreigners in the west, one a republican and the other a democrat. The republican read that clause in the constitution which says that we must hold to a republican form of government, and accused the democrats of violating the constitution in voting any other ticket than the republican ticket, especially in electing democrats as governors in many of the states.

He convulsed the crowd by telling of a recent cartoon he saw in a magazine in which he was pictured as a bird. "That is an improvement," he said. "I used to be cartooned as a snake. I'm getting up some. Well, Mr. Roosevelt was also pictured as a bird and he was on the nest. (Laughter.) And he had feathered his nest with my feathers. (Great laughter.) I had only one feather left, as I stood forlorn and shivering on the limb beside him. (Renewed laughter.) This is where the cartoon fell down. I have got more than one feather left. I have got a lot of young ones still growing. (More laughter and applause.)"

Labor Question. "The labor question has become an important one to us. We must have arbitration boards to settle the differences between labor and capital, and judges must be stopped from issuing injunctions where labor is concerned and then refuse to put stripes on the trust criminals."

Imperialism. Mr. Bryan said that the question of imperialism was a thing of the past, and that the people had found out that we had spent five hundred million trying to tag on the tail end of the European procession in having colonies.

Mr. Bryan closed his address with a magnificent appeal to the people to face the issues of today, and decide them according to the principles of purity and honesty.

"This nation leads the world," said the speaker, "in education, in religion, and in industrial progress, and the eyes of the world are upon us, and the common people of other countries are appealing to us to take the leadership in these things, and secure for all the great principles of equality and justice. I thank you."

Mr. Bryan's close was greeted with tremendous applause, and though he had spoken for two hours there was not a sleepy eye nor a dull ear in the vast audience, and Mr. Bryan was as fresh as when he began.

legislature can be called unconstitutional, the question must go through the channel of the state courts, and that a federal judge has no right to issue an injunction against the enforcement of a law passed by the state legislature before it has been passed upon by the highest court in the land.

Trusts. "I remember when men seriously said that the Standard Oil Company was a great benefactor to the country, that it had put the price of oil down, and other such arguments, but today it has been shown that the Standard Oil Company was the greatest robber that ever preyed upon the pockets of the people, and that it has violated more law than all the robbers of history. The people are beginning to understand that the trust magnet is just like any other criminal and if Secretary Taft, as he says, trust magnets will put one of us in the penitentiary, we can trust the people to put the other 95 per cent in the same place."

A private monopoly is just as bad as a judge trying a case in which he has an interest, and none of us would be so unwise as to trust our cases in court to a judge who is interested, but when we suffer a private monopoly to exist, we do this very thing. No trust should control more than 50 per cent of any commodity.

"When I was in the Holy Land I found that they had monopolies there two thousand years ago. Josephus tells of a man by the name of John Geshur, who controlled the olive oil market, and sold his oil for ten times what he paid for it, and I think our John D. got some of his ideas from this very same oily name sake. There should be no duplicating of directors in competing companies."

What Railroads are Worth. In order to get at what the railroads should earn we must find out what they are worth, what it would cost to reproduce them today, and then allow them to earn a fair dividend on that. There is no other basis to calculate which is just, and if the railroads refuse to allow this valuation to be made, then we must believe that they are not acting honest with the people. Justice is all either the railroads or the people can claim.

Taxation and Tariff. "The taxes of today are almost entirely on consumption. I am glad the president has adopted the income tax idea. I was called an anarchist for advocating this, but now it has been made respectable."

"There are two times when the republicans will not bother the tariff. Just before the election and just after, and these are the only times when congress is in session, and therefore the tariff will not be modified by its friends."

The infant industry argument is gone, for these baby trust upon whose toes the republican party has always been so afraid to step on have now grown so large and arrogant that they are walking on every body else's toes. A child will get to old to nurse, a calf will wean itself, but a trust will never turn loose the public teat until it is pulled away by the firm hand of the law.

Bryan Feathers in Roosevelt Nest. A feature of Mr. Bryan's address was his praise of Mr. Roosevelt for some of his acts. He said he did not intend to apologize for this. He showed how Democratic platforms had shined and again demanded what Mr. Roosevelt stood for and he said he was always willing for a Republican to get upon the Democratic plane with him. Mr. Roosevelt had been nibbling at Democracy and he wished he would take a bigger bite.

He convulsed the crowd by telling of a recent cartoon he saw in a magazine in which he was pictured as a bird. "That is an improvement," he said. "I used to be cartooned as a snake. I'm getting up some. Well, Mr. Roosevelt was also pictured as a bird and he was on the nest. (Laughter.) And he had feathered his nest with my feathers. (Great laughter.) I had only one feather left, as I stood forlorn and shivering on the limb beside him. (Renewed laughter.) This is where the cartoon fell down. I have got more than one feather left. I have got a lot of young ones still growing. (More laughter and applause.)"

Labor Question. "The labor question has become an important one to us. We must have arbitration boards to settle the differences between labor and capital, and judges must be stopped from issuing injunctions where labor is concerned and then refuse to put stripes on the trust criminals."

Must Increase Governor's Pay

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 11.—Governor Ansel stated today that in his annual message to the general assembly, which convenes in January, he will recommend that the salary of the governor be increased from $3,000 to $4,000 and that the state erect a new executive mansion on the site of the present building.

The governor has found, as other governors have found, that the salary paid the governor of South Carolina is inadequate and that it costs from $1,000 to $2,000 a year more to live in Columbia as governor than the governor receives from the state. South Carolina has not had, in recent years at least, a governor who cares to "splurge" at all but Governor Ansel, like most of his predecessors, has a natural ambition to maintain the dignity and position due the governor of the "greatest state in the union."

In addition to the salary, however, the state provides merely the mansion, with heat, light and water rent paid for by the state, but there is not as in other states an expense fund for the governor's use. For instance, the trips which the governor makes as governor, say to the Jamestown Exposition, are paid for out of his own pocket. Governor Ansel is pretty much of a philosopher and says that he knew all of this when he asked the people to elect him governor, therefore he is not objecting on his account, but he thinks the state should provide in the future for meeting such expenses. "So long as I am governor," said Governor Ansel, "I propose to maintain the position of the office no matter what the expense."

"Well, governor," said an impatient newspaper man, "you have an advantage in being a prohibitionist."

"Yes, sir," quickly replied the chief executive, "not a cent of my money goes that way."

It is a matter of fact that other states besides providing the governor with a better residence than that of the South Carolina mansion, and heat, light and water, also provides for expenses.

Sentences Imposed by Judge Moore at Winston

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 11.—In the superior court today Judge Moore imposed the following sentences: Claude James, convicted of manslaughter for killing Hillary Smith, colored, on the night of Aug. 17, five years on the county roads.

Mamie Shore, colored, convicted of poisoning the family of C. F. Moester in Salem, ten years in the penitentiary.

Pearl Sanders, shooting another negro, three months on the county roads.

Judge Moore this morning referred from the bench to the severe criticism made by the grand jury in its report to the manner in which the county convict camp is kept. Judge Moore said he visited the camp yesterday and was pleased to state that the only criticism he had to offer was the crowded condition of the camp, which he said, was to be relieved at once and perhaps in the sleeping departments, the bed clothing might be more cleanly kept.

Contestants in Big Balloon Race Arrive

New York, Oct. 11.—Griffith Brewer and Claude Brabson, the English contestants in the international balloon race to be held at St. Louis, October 21, arrived early today on the Lusitania. They will start for St. Louis tomorrow or Sunday. All of the foreign contestants are now here, except the French balloonist who will arrive on the La Touraine which is due tomorrow, and one other, a German, Paul Mechel, who is due at the same time. The members of the German team sent word to the directors of the Aero Club yesterday that the order of their start would be: Ozler, Erbsloh, Pommern, first; Paul Mechel, Dusseldorf, second, and Capt. Von Abercorn in his balloon, third. The drawing for position, according to nations, will probably take place tomorrow night at the Aero Club. The race will start at 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, October 21, the competing balloons being sent away at five minute intervals.

Fearful Tales Of Cannibalism

Chicago, Oct. 11.—A special dispatch to the Record-Herald from Winnipeg, Manitoba, says: "Tales of cannibalism and famine among the natives of northwestern Canada, between the eastern shore of James Bay and Labrador, are brought back by J. A. Osborne, editor of the Port Francis Times, who has just completed a trip of exploration in that country."

"While at Moose Factory, the explorer met a young man who had fled in terror from his uncle, who, he said, had killed and eaten eight human beings. There, too, he saw a woman who last winter killed and ate her two children, so great was the famine. This lack of food primarily was brought about by the fact that the woods seemed almost entirely without the usual number of deer and rabbits."

Banker Walsh To Be Tried

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 12.—John R. Walsh for many years one of the most influential men in Chicago finance and business, will be placed on trial in the federal court next week for alleged misapplication of banking funds, which resulted in the wrecking of the Chicago National Bank, the Equitable Trust Company and the Home Savings Bank. It is expected that the prosecution of the former banker and millionaire will be vigorously pushed. The attitude of the federal authorities was made manifest by the recent statement of Attorney General Bonaparte that the government intended to prosecute offending bankers as vigorously as violators of other laws.

That Walsh will put up a hard fight against conviction goes without saying among all those acquainted with the man and his career. Even his most bitter enemies give him credit for being a good fighter. The fact that, as seventy years of age, with his fortune ruined, his banks wiped out of existence and with criminal charges hanging over his head, he has succeeded in completing the railroad that brought about his downfall, securing for it an entrance into Chicago in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, shows the fighting qualities of the man.

It is a Chicago belief that John R. Walsh would rather fight than exist quietly. Certain it is that his entire career from the day he landed in Chicago as an immigrant boy has been one of constant fight. He began selling newspapers at 10 years of age. Soon he had a news stand and in the course of time he extended the trade and added stocks of stationery and sporting goods. In 1861 he acquired a book and news store on one of the best corners of the city. From retailing he branched out into wholesaling. He was the largest distributing agent in town, and the town he extended his territory to include all Illinois, and then Indiana, and then, with his Western News Company, all the Middle West. This company was absorbed by the American News Company of New York.

Having obtained a considerable fortune, he was prepared for other ventures. He invested in the Chicago Inter-Ocean, became a director in the National Bank of Illinois, founded the Chicago National Bank in 1882, sold his interest in the Inter Ocean to H. H. Kohlsaat, purchased the Chicago Herald, started the Chronicle as a Democratic organ, disposed of the Herald and of its evening edition, the Post, meantime multiplying his interests in other banks, in jolitics, coal contracts, gas companies, traction quarries, baseball, and so on.

He backed the Chicago Baseball Club, the league organization in the city of Spaulding and Hart, and was one of the leading spirits in the Washington Park Club. The failure of the National Bank of Illinois, in 1898, a catastrophe which many have laid at Walsh's doors, enabled him to take over a large part of the deposits. Up to this point in his career he had apparently succeeded in everything he had undertaken. He was unyielding and his temperament thoroughly pugnacious. He never forgot or forgave an enemy, but he usually broke him.

The turning point came some years ago when he acquired the great stone quarry at Bedford, Ind., and developed the insignificant Southern Indiana Railroad to bring his stone products to market. Incidentally he desired to get even with the Monon Railroad and in the course of his fight he developed the ambition to throw a trunk line from Pittsburg to Kansas City.

Early in December, 1905, the crash came. The doors of the three Walsh banks were closed, and announcement was made that his liabilities amounted to $15,000,000. The Chicago Clearing House Association stepped in and saved the depositors from loss. Walsh was accused of using the people's money to promote his railroad. Comptroller Ridgely stated at the time that civil, but not criminal proceedings, would be brought against the banker. But later the matter was brought before the federal grand jury and Mr. Walsh was indicted criminally. He was charged among other things with misapplication of funds by means of "memo" notes, and with falsifying bank statements. For two years John S. Miller, the famous defender of the Standard Oil Company, has fought every inch of the ground to keep Walsh from trial. But after months of delay and unavailing motions to quash, to give a bill of particulars, to annul, the former banker will next week be called to the bar of justice to answer for his alleged misdeeds. His defense, it is understood, will be largely a technical one.

Gov. Ansel Hits The blind Tigers

Gov. Ansel's attitude towards liquors will cause the Schuetzenfest to be dispensed of.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 12.—The German Rifle Club of Charleston has decided to dispense with the annual Schuetzenfest on the 17th and 18th of this month and thereby hangs a tale. It is one of the most absorbingly interesting tales that has ever been told to the Germans of Charleston.

Recently, by direction of Governor Ansel, injunction proceedings were instituted to close up certain alleged blind tiges in and around Charleston. Under the old dispensary law and under the present law, a place where whiskey is sold contrary to law (not through dispensaries) and where persons congregate to drink whiskey is declared a common nuisance. It is not easy, and never has been, to enforce the dispensary law in Charleston, for the reason that the justices will not convict the accused of selling whiskey, and knowing this to be the condition Governor Ansel, who is a lawyer of some repute, having long been prosecuting attorney, decided to secure injunctions against the most notorious resorts in Charleston, restraining them from permitting the sale and drinking of whiskey in their places. If the owners and keepers of the resorts should violate the orders of the court they can be punished for contempt of court, and it will not be necessary to have a jury trial.

The first injunction was against the celebrated Isle of Palms resort, where thousands have been wont to congregate on Sunday and other days from South Carolina and Georgia, and there has always been an abundance of other liquids than salt water. The supreme court heard this case and granted the permanent injunction asked for by Attorney General Leno. Then followed other injunctions against the proprietor of the Charleston Hotel, the Argyle Hotel and other resorts including the Schuetzenplatz, which is the virtual club room of the German Rifle Club.

It has been said that the Germans own Charleston, the Irish rule Charleston and the negroes enjoy Charleston. There are many wealthy Germans in the city and the Irish, as everywhere else, are the best politicians, and between the two nationalities there is considerable rivalry.

Now the proprietors of the Isle of Palms are Irish. Gov. Ansel is a native of Charleston and his parents were both from Stuttgart, Germany, so that the Germans in Charleston have been his most loyal and enthusiastic supporters. When the national Schuetzenfest was held there last spring he made a speech in German, which language he speaks with ease.

So when the resort was by the Irish was closed up by injunction, the Irish said the German governor would not treat his fellow-countrymen that way. Hearing of it, the governor told the attorney general to be sure to include the Schuetzenplatz in the next batch of injunctions. The governor is not only a total abstainer, but a stickler for the impartial enforcement of all the laws. The Schuetzenfest is therefore off, for what would a Schuetzenfest be without beer? And for once the Irish and the Germans are together on one proposition, and the German governor is not as popular as he used to be in his native city. In fact, many other elements resent his activity on the ground that Mayor Rhett and his police were doing more to close down blind tiges than ever before had been done in Charleston, even when there were a host of state constables stationed there. Gov. Ansel, however, takes the position that he gave the local authorities ample time to make good at enforcing the law and that he took a hand only when they fail.

As to Sale of Medicinal Alcoholic Compounds

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Capers has rendered a decision relative to the manufacture and sale of alleged medicinal alcoholic compounds, where on analysis it was found that said alleged medicinal compounds are suitable for use as a beverage.

The commissioner holds as follows: "That special tax is required for the manufacture and sale of alleged medicinal alcoholic compounds, or for the sale of malt extracts manufactured from fermented liquors, drug used in the manufacture of which are not sufficient in amount of character to render the product unfit for use as a beverage; or, in case of cordials, extracts, and essences, in which the amount of alcohol is greater than is necessary to preserve ingredients, or to extract the properties or cut oils and hold the same in solution."

"The manufacturers of alcoholic medicinal compounds, malt extracts, flavoring extracts, essences, and soda water syrups, who wish to avoid liability for special taxes must satisfy themselves their products are within the limits here-in defined; and those who put out alcoholic compounds of doubtful medicinal value, or containing questionable excess of alcohol, must do so at the risk of being required to pay special taxes for the manufacture and sale of same."

CATARRH BLOOD AND SYSTEM DISORDERED

Catarrh is not merely an inflammation of the tissues of the head and throat, as the symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, mucus dropping back into the throat, continual hawking and spitting, etc., would seem to indicate; it is a blood disease in which the entire circulation and the greater part of the system are involved. Catarrh is due to the presence of an excess of uric acid in the blood. The Liver, Kidneys and Bowels frequently become torpid and dull in their action and instead of carrying off the refuse and waste of the body, leave it to sour and form uric acid in the system. This is taken up by the blood and through its circulation distributed to all parts of the system. These impurities in the blood irritate and inflame the different membranes and tissues of the body, and the contracting of a cold will start the secretions and other disgusting and disagreeable symptoms of Catarrh. As the blood goes to all parts of the body the catarrhal poison affects all parts of the system. The head has a tight, full feeling, nose continually stopped up, pains above the eyes, slight fever comes and goes, the stomach is upset and the entire system disordered and affected by this disease. It is a waste of time to try to cure Catarrh with sprays, washes, inhalations, etc. Such treatment does not reach the blood, and can, therefore, do nothing more than temporarily relieve the discomfort of the trouble. To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be thoroughly purified and the system cleansed of all poisons, and at the same time strengthened and built up. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the bottom of the trouble and makes a complete and lasting cure. S. S. S. removes every particle of the catarrhal poison from the blood, making this vital stream pure, fresh and healthy. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is loosened and cleared, the hawking and spitting cease, every symptom disappears, the constitution is built up and vigorous health restored. S. S. S. also tones up the stomach and digestion and acts as a fine tonic to the entire system. If you are suffering with Catarrh begin the use of S. S.
