

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

OIL DISCOVERED IN FORSYTH CO.

Concord, N. C., Oct. 19.—The Tribune's correspondent sends the paper a special this morning telling of what may be a great thing for the county, the finding of natural oil in the heart of the town of Mount Pleasant.

SECURED IMMIGRANTS.

Mr. Fisher Returns From Trip Abroad—Number of Settlers Secured. Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 21.—Mr. C. L. Fisher, general agent of the Carolina Trucking Development Company, which has done so much toward building up the waste places of eastern North Carolina, and which has been quite successful in attracting to this section a desirable class of immigration, arrived in the city yesterday from a four months' tour abroad, where he has been in the interest of the company by which he is engaged.

Although Illinois has a favorite son for the presidency in Speaker Cannon it is understood that the Taft forces are inclined to favor Chicago as a meeting place for the republican convention.

Rev. Finlay Goes to Columbia. Greenville, S. C., Oct. 22.—Rev. L. A. Cooper, assisted by Chalmers Ruby, began yesterday a series of meetings at the Central Baptist church. Mr. Cooper is widely known as an experienced evangelist and excellent preacher.

Commission Plan of Government. Coffeyville, Kas., Oct. 22.—Coffeyville is holding a special election today to decide upon the acceptance or rejection of the commission plan of government and also to vote on two bond issues.

Federation of Woman's Clubs. Salem, Ore., Oct. 22.—The 7th annual meeting of the Oregon Federation of Woman's Clubs began here today under conditions perhaps more favorable for a successful meeting than since the organization. The attendance is large and representative of the entire state, while the program arranged for the three days' sessions is replete with interesting features.

WIRELESS COMMUNICATION.

Groping After Facts Since 1678 Culminates in the Latest Marvel. From the New York Times.

In 1678, Christian Huygens, a Dutch mathematician, worked out a theory of the undulation of light in an ether, which was a conveying medium and which might explain the phenomena of light. Before he started on this theory of the undulation of the ether scientists and philosophers had worked over the problem of that transcendental theory which enveloped them and through which sounds were carried and images presented.

In the history of wireless telegraphy, by A. Frederick Collins, it is pointed out that at least a thousand years before Christ the question was at issue whether the interstellar space was filled with a substance, a fluid filling matter.

Huygens struck the first practical note, and Michael Faraday, in 1845 held to the Huygens undulatory theory by a firm belief in its eventual practical realization, began to experiment. He succeeded in establishing the fact of an all-pervading medium. Faraday was followed by James Clerk Maxwell, who, in 1861, systematized Faraday's conception with his electromagnetic theory of light, a theory which means that light, electricity, and magnetism are transmitted by the same ether at an identical rate of speed.

The next step toward wireless communication was made in the study of wave motions. Hertz was the first to employ the term electric radiation. He used the term, Collins points out, to describe the waves emitted from a Leyden jar. They have been called Hertzian waves ever since.

Hertz's discovery Prof. Joseph Henry, of Washington, D. C., had succeeded in magnetizing needles at a distance. He used a frictional machine on the floor of his house and magnetized needles on the floor below. This was sending electrical power through the air with a practical demonstration of its passing.

With the discovery that the air was a means of conveyance for electricity came the effort to produce electric discharges. Sparks were produced as early as 1602, but they were so small that they could be barely seen with the naked eye.

In 1879 Prof. Hughes sent a wireless signal a mile distant, using a microphone carbon joint as a detector of the waves. Hertz, in 1888, devised a metal ring for the detection of induction. In 1894 the question of sending signals by the Hertz radiator and receiving them with his detector was one that engaged the minds of scientists. Lodge employed a device by which he discovered what he called the coherer. This was named as the result of his observation that the action of electricity on metal filings was coherence, that is, a clustering of the particles together.

At the rest of the story of how the air was harnessed and made to serve the purposes of mankind in its communication from continent to continent is crammed in the last eventful decade. Marconi as a boy was interested in the Hertzian waves and their control. In his teens he experimented in the country place of his parents, near Pontecchio in Italy.

His first practical system of generating and transmitting electric waves through the air was worked out by him in 1896. In 1901 he managed to transmit the letter S from Cornwall to Newfoundland. In 1902 the steamship Philadelphia kept in communication with the Marconi station at Poldhu when out 1,550 miles.

At the end of that year communication between the continents was established, but it remained until yesterday to have it in operation so completely in accord with the demands of speed and accuracy that it became a distinct commercial and economic factor in the life of today.

Any man can be a good fellow as long as his money holds out.

WORLD'S GOLD SUPPLY.

Fears That Precious Metal Will Become Extinct Are Groundless. Holland, in The Philadelphia Press.

Yesterday the cable dispatches from London reported, on the authority of the foremost expert upon the gold mines of South Africa, that the Rand region contained so much gold that it could be easily mined and marketed that it is impossible by any figures to represent the amount so that the mind could appreciate the total.

According to this estimate there is, at the present billion value of gold, $5,000,000,000 of gold ore remaining in those mines.

As savages cannot reckon much above ten, and as a man of average intelligence has really little comprehension of the meaning of a billion, and as only the higher intellect can grasp abstract mathematics and appreciate measurements of the celestial bodies, so, also, infinities, it is probable that no human intelligence can more than faintly conceive what $5,000,000,000 really means.

The statement, however, is of immediate value only as showing that the apprehensions of those who feared that the world's available supply of gold would be exhausted some time in this century were groundless. In fact, our own experts agree that the estimate made by Mr. Robertson, the South African mine expert, that the world is really entering upon its gold era rather than at the end of it.

The report of experts brought to this city from the far west of the United States justifies the belief that our own annual gold production in the course of a few years will be worth in excess of a hundred millions a year. So, also, the experts who have represented the Rothschilds, as well as some American capita in Alaska and contiguous British North America, report that the gold supply from these regions each year is surely to increase as transportation is provided.

Mr. Joseph P. Grace, who recently returned to New York from South America, having spent some six months in the mountainous regions and the highlands between the interior of Peru and the Argentine Republic, is convinced that as soon as transportation is perfected in South America gold mining there will match that of the United States.

Of course, if any millions of gold be added each year to the world's supply, that before long will affect the relation of prices to values.

A few years ago when Alaska began to produce approximately fifteen million or more a year with promise of increase in each successive year, some of the economists predicted that this together with other American productions, would tend to equalize the relation between gold and silver, and might at last restore the ratio so long maintained of 15 to 1 or 16 to 1. But this year, curiously enough, when undoubtedly there is to be a bumper crop, the price of silver has been depreciated, and its value as well, clearly showing that silver has at last become nothing more than a commodity, as much of a commodity as copper or iron or any other metal.

Some of our experts are of the opinion that Mexico, with its increased production of silver, as well as its changed standard of money value, explains to some extent the falling in price of silver bullion. Yet, notwithstanding this depreciation, prospecting continues in Mexico, and information received today tells of the discovery of silver ore, not a mere freak deposit, but a well-defined vein in Mexico, carrying a greater amount of silver than was ever before reported.

Proposed N. C., S. C. League

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 18.—Mr. E. D. Heins, of Roanoke, Va., is in town in the interest of the proposed new North and South Carolina League which will consist of Charlotte, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Asheville, Salisbury, Raleigh and Durham, N. C., and Spartanburg and Greenville, S. C.

Protection for the territorial rights covering the territory of Charlotte, Asheville, Winston-Salem and Greensboro has been secured from the national association, the other towns which will secure berths in the league will be protected later, as at the time of securing protection for the above named towns it was undecided as to what towns were to comprise the circuit.

Mr. Heins' efforts in arousing enthusiasm here have been very successful. The local fans are delighted over the prospects of securing a berth in the new league, as it has been 13 years since professional ball has been played here.

Asheville has always been a good baseball town and it is a foregone conclusion that they will be in the league. At the meeting of the representatives from the various towns which will be held in Salisbury on the 21st of this month, Asheville will be represented by Mr. Heins.

Serious Riot In New Orleans

New Orleans, Oct. 19.—The fanatical excitement of negroes calling themselves "Council of God," appears to have been the cause of a riot last night, in which one policeman was killed, several wounded and a number of negroes badly injured.

An isolated house, in which half a dozen negroes barricaded themselves and which was fired upon by the police men and citizens, proved to have been the meeting place of the sect. Last night's trouble started during the meeting, when excited negroes drew razors on Policeman Cambias because he attempted to enter the house to investigate the reports of disturbance caused by boys throwing through the windows.

Razors were drawn across his face and neck, mortally wounding him. Many at the meeting then fled. Those who remained and barricaded themselves were well armed and the negroes had been smoked into submission by a burning fence, several shot guns and other fire arms were found under the meeting house.

MILL DECLARES DIVIDENDS.

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 18.—At a meeting yesterday in Easley the directors of the Glenwood Cotton Mill declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, payable Jan. 1.

The directors of the Sasley mill also met yesterday and declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent, payable Jan. 1. Mr. Geer is president of the Franklin Mill at Greer, and the new mill at Douglasville, Ga.

OFFICERS TO BE TRIED FOR KILLING BLOCKADER

Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 19.—John Brame, the man who was shot by revenue officers, died Wednesday. Brame was charged by the officers with operating a still near three miles east of Summit. About two weeks ago the still was broken up, a man by the name of Vicker being captured. Brame was said to be near the place at the time, but was not captured, although it was stated that some shots were exchanged between him and the officers.

Monday night of last week, the officers were out looking for Brame and came across him out near the end of Summit avenue. He at once started to run and it is alleged that he and the officers fired a number of shots. It was not known at the time that Brame was hit, but later it was discovered by a physician who was sent for that he was badly injured, and he was carried to St. Leo's hospital, where he died.

The widow of John Brame, this morning swore out warrants charging the murder against the officers composing the posse. These were United States Marshal James M. Millikan, Deputy Marshal Daily, Deputy Collector Sheppard, United States Revenue Agent Screven and United States Pension Agent Curly. (The warrant could not be served on Marshal Millikan. He having left to attend a friend's funeral in Indiana this week.)

Ex-Congressman Spencer Blackburn is known to be Mrs. Brame's chief counsel, and he has associates in the prosecution but their names could not be ascertained.

State Solicitor Brooks will also represent the state in the hearing. It is said that if the magistrate hearing the case should find probable cause for murder, which is not a bailable offense and the defendants are committed to jail, habeas corpus proceedings will be instituted before United States District Judge Boyd to transfer the case to the Federal court and release them from jail on the ground that the homicide was in the discharge of official duty.

United States District Attorney Holton and Assistant District Attorney Coble will represent the officers, and conduct their defense on the part of the government.

George Vickers, who was charged with complicity with Brame in illicit distilling and who was captured the night Brame was shot, yesterday pleaded guilty in the Federal court here and was sentenced to 12 months in the Atlanta penitentiary and fined one hundred dollars.

He is Held On Murder Charge

Richmond, Va., Oct. 18.—A Staunton dispatch to the News-Leader says a second inquest in the matter of the death of Mrs. John E. Cra, formerly a Miss Painter, of Augusta county, was reported to have killed herself with a shotgun because her husband had been drinking heavily, rested in a verdict holding the husband on the charge of murder, on the testimony of his 9-year-old daughter, who, while the other children were asleep, said she heard her father say he intended to kill her mother.

Many More Defendants Named In Bill

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—In the amended bill filed by the attorneys for the government in the equity proceedings against the alleged anthracite coal trust, 45 additional defendants are named.

All the new defendants were mentioned in the answer filed by the original defendants, and are named in the amended bill, on the ground that they were connected with the previously named coal roads and mining companies by certain financial transactions and coal purchase contracts.

BEEES TO HELP BUILDING FUND.

Store of Honey in Old Church Spire to Go for New Edifice. Burlington, N. J., Oct. 18.—Honey bees will contribute the nucleus for the $40,000 which members of the First Baptist Church purposes to raise for a handsome new edifice. For years, it is said, bees have been storing honey in the top of the church steeple, 75 feet above the street, and from the size of the swarms that have been frequently noticed it is believed at least a ton of the sweets is stored there.

Half of the cost of a new building had been subscribed toward remodeling the old before trustees decided to entirely rebuild the church. Now it is proposed to raise a new fund entirely, and members are counting upon a goodly contribution from the bees.

But the average man is too selfish really to enjoy life.

Review of Stock Market for week

New York, Oct. 19.—There has been much forced liquidation in the stock market during the week. Many stocks have touched the lowest in several years and sentiment has grown despondent over the speculative outlook.

The crash in United Copper and the fears of involvement of the affairs of the Mercantile National bank in the settlement in the position was a principal factor in the week's unsettlement. The reduction in the Amalgamated Copper dividend, reports of the discovery of rebating practices by the South Pacific and fears of coming business depression were complicating factors. The money market tightened, principally because of the stricter discrimination exercised by the banks against collateral.

The market closed weak at the lowest. A sudden rebound put some prices over last night but they did not hold. The tone continued uncertain after the appearance of the discovery of heavy accumulation of cash attributed to precautionary measures by the banks. Amalgamated Copper sold as low as 43 1/2 and Reading 82 1/2.

Thomas A. Edison, the great American inventor, says: "Fully eighty per cent of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food; people are inclined to over-indulge themselves." This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly every case. The stomach can do just so much work and no more, and when you overeat it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help; it demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat. Sold by C. M. Shuford and W. S. Martin.

Women Win Point Over Spartanburg Merchants

Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 18.—The ladies' auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., composed of the most prominent women in the city, have whipped the merchants of Spartanburg into closing their places of business at 6:30 p. m., the year round, except on Saturday night and every night during the month of December when the stores will remain open until 10 p. m. The early closing movement was started in behalf of the clerks and salesladies by the women of the city.

Texas State Fair Opens

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 19.—With flags flying, bands playing and a great display of enthusiasm on the part of the enormous crowd, the twenty-second annual State Fair of Texas was formally opened to the public today. The opening exercises took place in the auditorium, where there were speeches by Mayor Hay, Governor Campbell and others.

The fair opened under most favorable auspices and with very flattering prospects for the most successful exposition in the South-west. Many thousands of dollars in premiums have been offered and as a result the choicest products of the orchard, field and ranches are now on display. The agricultural and horticultural, poultry and live stock, machinery and manufactures departments are all well filled with attractive exhibits.

The racing promises to be the best ever seen in Texas. The stables are filled with scores of fast horses that have been making the Eastern and Northern circuits during the summer. Next Tuesday will be one of big days of the fair. It has been set aside in honor of the Confederate veterans and the principal address will be delivered by Vice-President Fairbanks.

Fatal Wreck at Chattanooga

Chattanooga, Oct. 18.—A street car collision occurred this morning. Four are reported dead, a groceryman and three negroes. Ten were seriously hurt and about 20 more or less injured. Only four persons were killed, ten are in the hospital and more than a score more or less injured. Confusion of signals is said to have been the cause of the accident. Both cars were running rapidly into a dip in the track when the crash came. The incoming car was heavily laden with people on their way to work in the city and most of the killed and injured were on this car. Both motormen were killed instantly.

The collision occurred during a heavy fog.
